Greedy Fingers of Flame Reach From All Windows of St. John's Church

Blaze Halted At Second City Edifice

By AB KENT

A pyromaniac is blamed for the near-total destruction of one of the city's finest old churches and heavy damage to a neighboring one three hours before dawn today.

The 48-year-old Church of St. John the Divine, Quadra at Mason, stands a $500,000 to $750,000 ruin of blackened rafters and brick, like a bombed-out skeleton of wartime London.

First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, is heavily damaged—between $30,000 and $35,000—by smoke and heat from a fire that burned a 10-foot hole in the main floor before it was stopped.

Both buildings were fully insured.

City detectives began working on the "fire bug" angle shortly after the second fire was reported at 5.09 a.m. and interrogated two suspects in the first two hours.

An investigator from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was called in at the same time and arrived late this morning.

Reserves Called

Police Chief John Blackstock called in reserves to help the night watch patrol all other city churches and quashed a rumor that Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard, had a fire.

This was unfounded. Only a door was found insecure, police said.

Both fires appeared to have been set in basement rooms adjoining boiler rooms, and spread quickly in extensive woodwork.

All available Victoria firemen and equipment were pressed into the first at St. John's after Canon George Biddle gave the alarm at 4.04.

When the second alarm came in an hour later, Fire Chief James Bayliss called for aid from Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments.

It was the first time outside help had been requested in the city.

40 Firemen

At least 40 firemen were fighting the fires.

Chief William Pearson of Oak Bay, praised Chief Bayliss for his early request and subsequent "save" at First United by Oak Bay firemen.

Saanich fire department sent a truck, laid in hose at First United, but was not required.

Saanich Chief Joseph Law said "We will give them help without hesitation anytime. Victoria fire department has helped Saanich often."

Most of the loss at St. John's is irreplaceable and an insurance adjuster said he doubted whether the city would grant a permit to rebuild the brick and frame structure in its former state, although its outer shell appears intact. It cost $98,000 to build in 1912.

The bell tower and copper-sheathed spire are virtually undamaged, but had the fire spread more rapidly in its direction and weakened the

Both Fires Started In Same Place

Cause of two fires at St. John's and First United Churches today had not been established by noon, Fire Chief James Bayliss said.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver had a quick look at the ruins of St. John's upon his arrival at 11.30, but without a full investigation he would not comment.

All signs indicated an incendiarist was active early in the course of the blazes. City detectives are also working on the case.

Both blazes appeared to have started in identical parts of the respective churches, next to boiler rooms.

Referring to the first outbreak — at St. John's — Chief Bayliss said:

"It was charged and ready to go when I got there. Smoke was thick. Five minutes later the windows blew and away it went.

"It started in the basement."

An early search of the burned basement at First United disclosed nothing.

Verger of St. John's, Jack Brownie, said he checked the church Thursday night and found all in order.

Tuesday morning he found a piece of burnt paper between the pews, leading him to think someone may have tried earlier to set the church afire.

CHURCHES PROWLED

"I guess it didn't work right," he said.

Police have had numerous complaints in recent months about "rubby-dubs" who prowl churches in search of sacramental wines, often using paper tapers to light their quest.

"Rounders are going in and out all the time," caretakers of First Baptist Church, (across Quadra from St. John's) said.

OTTAWA OFFERS PARTNERSHIP

The federal government's offer to help B.C. finance the Columbia River project is somewhat different than proposals which have been mentioned previously—not a loan, but a partnership.

The letter received Thursday by Premier Bennett from federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming proposes:

That Ottawa will put up half the cost of building the three storage dams, at Lower Arrow Lake, at Duncan Lake, and at Mica Creek. (It has been estimated this will amount to about $172,000,000.

This money is to be repaid to Ottawa as and when the project produces revenue over and above operating costs. Ottawa also will receive interest on it at a rate to be fixed at the time, but to be worked out at the most favorable level that can be obtained.

A new federal-provincial agency would be established to arrange for this financing and to supervise terms of the proposed treaty with the U.S.

Actual construction of the works would be handled by the B.C. Power Commission.

(Since the total cost of the big scheme has been estimated at $458,000,000 the offer means that Ottawa would be participating to the extent of about 37 per cent.

Previous discussion has centred around a proposal that Ottawa should simply make a direct loan to the power commission of $172,000,000 and would charge the normal rate at which the federal government can raise money plus ⅛th per cent as a service charge. However, this now appears to have been discarded and superceded by the "partnership investment" scheme.

French Tanks Oppose Rioters

See Page 35

ALGIERS (AP) — Army tanks, backed by troops and riot police, cushed barricades thrown up here today by angry crowds protesting President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area to whip up backing for his home-rule plan for Algeria.

Two army tanks rolled over the wooden barricades across the Rue Michelet in downtown Algiers shortly after they were thrown up by the rioters.

The tanks turned and recrossed the shattered barricades and the crowds tried to surge forward and mount them, but were turned back by about 50 infantrymen surrounding the tanks.

Surrounding the area were steel-helmeted riot troops who then moved in with tear gas grenades to drive the rioters up side streets.

BENNETT THREATENS TO GO IT ALONE ON COLUMBIA

Ottawa Plan Rejected

A sharp clash between the Ottawa and B.C. governments over the financing of the huge Columbia River hydro project erupted into the open Thursday at two independent press conferences.

Out of it developed two main points:

- Ottawa has made a different proposal as to how it will participate in the project than the one mooted previously.
- Premier Bennett has flatly turned it down and intimates that if Ottawa cannot do better B.C. will finance the whole project itself.

Protagonists in the squabble here were Premier Bennett and Justice Minister Davie Fulton, who is in Victoria for discussions on the general Columbia treaty.

Haven't Met

But up to this morning they had not met, doing their sparring at long range through press conferences, and there was some doubt that they would meet at all.

Centre of the dispute was a letter from Federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming to the Premier.

He has now proposed that Ottawa will "invest' about $172,000,000 in the $458,000,000 over-all Columbia program. This will be an advance to cover half the cost of the three main storage dams at Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek.

Ottawa will recover its money from net earnings of the huge scheme when it is in operation and at the same time will reap interest on the money at a rate yet to be determined. When the full advance has been repaid Ottawa will have no further interest. (The Columbia scheme is supposed to be a self-liquidating project).

Ottawa's new proposal supplants a previous suggestion that Ottawa would make a direct loan of the amount to the B.C. Power Commission which will do the work, and charge one-eighth of one per cent over and above the going interest rates.

In addition Ottawa has proposed than an over-riding body be set up to arrange this financing and also to supervise terms of the treaty with the United States.

When the details of the offer were made public by Premier Bennett he rejected it out of hand.

He claimed Ottawa was trying to grab control of the big B.C. hydro resource and that it was going to make money out of it in the process. He is still insisting that Ottawa should make an outright grant toward the scheme as it has done in similar projects in other provinces.

Sharp Conflict

In reply, Mr. Fulton said Mr. Bennett was misrepresenting an honest offer which is designed to ensure the cheapest and best possible deal for handling the project.

There appeared to be sharp conflict between the two interpretations of the proposal.

Mr. Bennett made it clear that he is not discussing financing with Mr. Fulton. He is dealing directly with Mr. Fleming on this aspect of the scheme.

The conflicting views of the two governments were given at separate interviews Thursday.

Premier Bennett, at a press conference issued a statement saying the federal proposal was "unacceptable" to B.C. and implied if there was nothing better offered B.C. would go it alone on the Columbia project.

He said he will deal only with federal Finance Minister Fleming and that he will again ask for an outright grant.

His statement Thursday afternoon was accompanied by a copy of the letter from Mr. Fleming outlining the federal proposals.

Mr. Bennett's interpretation of this letter is that the federal government is offering to advance to B.C. half the cost of the self-liquidating projects in the overall scheme. That is some $172,000,000 towards the cost of dams on the Arrow and Duncan Lakes and at Mica Creek.

Ignored

He said the offer "ignores completely the integral factors of generation and transmission." (Which would cost some $110,000,000.)

"The federal proposal further ignores the already established principle under which an outright grant is so clearly justified," said Mr. Bennett.

In amplification, he said the federal government has given grants to Manitoba for a floodway, the South Saskatchewan Dam and to New Brunswick for a hydro project.

"I'm still hopeful they'll take a second look," he added. "This surely can't be the final say."

Mr. Bennett said the federal proposal would cost B.C. an extra $40,000,000 financing charge. He described this as one-eighth of one per cent over a 50-year period.

(However, there is no mention of any such figure in the Fleming letter and federal officials later told reporters that the extra charge is no part of the offer although it was mentioned in the first tentative offer months ago.)

Mr. Bennett said that Ottawa would charge B.C. interest on the $172,000,000, plus the $40,000,000 "brokerage fee," plus $70,000,000 in federal sales tax on goods and equipment for

BENNETT 'RUDE' SAYS FULTON

Justice Minister Fulton said at press time today any delay or failure in the Columbia River project will be the fault of British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton made a statement to B.C. ministers attending a policy committee meeting on the Columbia project this morning.

He said Premier Bennett's rejection of a federal financing offer is "discourteous and ill-considered" and he criticized the premier for "rudeness."

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

Help to Bridge Gap

Breadwinners in India, like their counterparts here in Victoria, strive to support their families, but there is a vast difference.

The difference is in pay, food, conditions of work, health—in just about everything that goes to make up an existence.

The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, recipient of the Times "Children of India" Fund, provides one way in which Victorians can help to make the difference between us and them a little smaller.

It is the USC which gives much-needed help to Mrs. Sangi Jospeh, 40, a widow and mother of five children. She works as a road coolie outside Kodaikanal and earns the equivalent of $1.10 per week for eight hours of work each day.

Rather, she earns that if she is lucky. Her health is bad, and there are days when she cannot carry heavy stones from truck to fill. She misses the strong hand of her dead husband in keeping her twins under control, and misses her eldest son of 15 who one day simply disappeared—most likely to relieve her of the burden of caring for him.

USC provides her with rice, Canadian milk powder, biscuits, some clothing, and medical care to the limit of its ability. But she needs so much, and there are so many like her.

Contributions to the Times fund help this work. They can be made either by cheque or cash at 2631 Douglas Street, and receipts are given for income tax purposes.

TEXT OF FLEMING'S LETTER TO BENNETT

Text of Finance Minister Donald Fleming's letter to Premier Bennett follows:

I duly received your letter dated October 27th concerning the financing of the Columbia River Power Development. Your writing of the letter followed our personal discussion of the same subject on October 26th.

You will undoubtedly have been advised by now that at the meeting of the Canada-British Columbia Policy Liaison Committee on November 23rd and 24th, the federal ministers amplified the nature and effect of the federal government's offer as first put forward on February 9, 1960, and confirmed in my letter of April 21st. Since the questions in your letter under reply were based on the situation previous to the elaboration made at that meeting, I believe it would be appropriate if I were to repeat the outline of the federal offer here, in order that my answers to your questions may appear in their proper context. Subject to satisfactory agreement on the character and functions of a joint federal-provincial co-ordinating agency, along the lines indicated by federal representatives at the recent Canada-British Columbia Policy Liaison Committee, the federal government would give financial assistance in the following manner:

1. The government of Canada is prepared, subject to the approval of parliament, to advance one-half of the capital cost of creating the storages necessary to implement the proposed treaty between Canada and the United States for the co-operative development of the Columbia River.

Joint Entity

2. The government of Canada will advance these monies as an investment in a joint project of Canada and British Columbia which will be self-liquidating.

3. The government of Canada proposes the creation of a joint entity for the purpose (amongst others) of receiving and advancing the federal government's financial contributions. It is understood that you propose to designate the British Columbia Power Commission as the agency to have physical responsibility on behalf of British Columbia for construction and operation of these projects. Subject to satisfactory agreement between our two governments as to the role and position of the joint entity in safeguarding the obligations of the federal government under the treaty and the interests of the federal government (including such matters as the giving of necessary clearances called for by the treaty, adherence to completion dates as may be agreed in the treaty, Canadian content and employment in construction, etc., and such other matters as are appropriate to be entrusted to the entity) and subject to the approval and authorization of parliament, the joint entity could be authorized to advance the federal monies for capital costs, to British Columbia Power Commission in accordance with the schedule of construction as contracts are approved.

Repayable

4. The financing thus provided by the federal government (or guaranteed, if a guaranty arrangement is agreed to be more suitable) would be looked upon as a joint investment with British Columbia, and be repayable by the operating entity to the joint entity on behalf of the federal government, out of revenue earned from the project after operating costs are met. Since it would be a joint investment, capital repayment out of revenue to the federal government would be in the same proportion to total earnings as the capital contribution by the federal government bears to the total capital contributed to bring the project into operation and would be subject to the same maturity dates and other repayments conditions as were applicable to the capital contributed by the provincial government, or by private investors.

5. Under this arrangement, it would also be possible for the joint entity to receive and disburse the proportion of the capital to be contributed by British Columbia, if the province wishes to handle it that way. Alternatively, it would be possible for the entity to raise the finances directly from the public, with each government agreeing to guarantee the issue proportionately and to purchase proportionately any part thereof from time to time not taken up by public subscription.

Different Form

Subject to the foregoing, I would answer your request for information on five precise points as follows:

(1) and (5) You now enquire as to "the maximum amount which the federal government would be prepared to lend to the B.C. Power Commission." In our oral discussion on October 26th, your question was put in rather different form. You then asked if there would be any strings attached to any loan that the federal government might make and, if the loan were to the B.C. Power Commission, whether the federal government would wish to have a guarantee by the government of the province and, if so, whether on principal, interest, or both. As indicated above and as stated in my letter of April 21st, I wish to confirm that the Government of Canada is prepared, subject to the approval of Parliament, to provide one-half of the capital cost of the approved storage required to implement the proposed treaty between Canada and the United States for the co-operative developments of the Columbia River, as an investment in a joint project of Canada and British Columbia that would be self-liquidating.

(2) The financing provided or guaranteed by the Government of Canada would be recoverable with interest from the revenues earned from the project.

Favorable Rate

(3) The precise interest rate to be fixed would depend on the form of financing agreed to, but it would obviously have to bear a direct relation to the rate at which the entity could borrow in the market. With guarantees as suggested above, and in view of the advantageous nature of the project which has been arranged, it should be possible to secure a favorable interest rate. The point to be emphasized is that, on the basis of this concept of a joint investment, there would be no question of an interest charge to the British Columbia government for any investment by the Government of Canada. Interest will be paid at the same dates as interest is paid on the capital provided by the provincial government, or to private investors on the bonds guaranteed by the provincial government.

(4) Until its investment has been recovered by it, the federal government would be entitled to receive a share of the net revenue earned from the project in proportion to its contribution to the total capital contributed by the two governments.

You will appreciate that, apart from answering your specific questions in the context of the elaboration of the federal offer referred to, I have confined myself to a very general outline of the nature of the offer and of the ways in which it could be implemented. We are ready and shall be pleased to discuss the details of these and all other questions pertaining to the financing of the Columbia River project, in which the Government of Canada has such an important interest, and express the hope that you may see fit to authorize your government's representatives to discuss these questions at the meeting on December 8th and 9th.

SITDOWN of sorts was staged in the United Nations Security Council Thursday by Russian deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin who refused, for 50 minutes, to open a meeting because the Argentine delegation was late.

Financial Help For B.C. Skiers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Amateur Sports Council will grant $1,000 to four British Columbia skiers to help in European training this winter.

The council, in making the grant to the ski association, said it was earmarked specifically for Nancy Greene and Verne Anderson, of Rossland, and Roddy Hebron and Al Perrett, of Vancouver.

CONVICTED WITH GAGLARDI

Montana Man Must Stay in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's appeal court Thursday rejected an appeal by an American road builder who had been given an indefinite prison sentence for contempt of court.

The Appeal Court ordered that Montana contractor C. W. Thornton remain in Oakalla Prison until he pays $25,000 owing to Burton Glazier of Seattle.

Thornton and B.C. Highways Minister Gaglardi were both convicted of contempt of court. They were found guilty of disobeying a 1959 court order which directed that any funds the highways department may pay to Thornton be paid to a receiver in Vancouver. This order followed a judgment granted against the contractor to Glazier.

Glazier brought the contempt charges after the B.C. highways department sent a cheque to Thornton's bank at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho. The bank credited the money to Thornton's company account.

Mr. Gaglardi's appeal against the contempt charge is expected to be heard Monday. He was fined $1,000 on conviction.

Radioactive 'Pill' Found

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—A lost radioactive capsule was found today and preparations were being made to restore it safely to its lead container.

The capsule was found by a radiographer who with a geiger counter covered the ground around a 125,000-barrel tank at the British American Oil Company marine terminal near this Strait of Canso town.

The capsule—about the size of a vitamin pill—broke loose from a control cable Wednesday while being used in a gamma ray camera photographing welds in the tank.

In Halifax, the camera operator, Dennis Fitzpatrick, 34, of Toronto, was given a clean bill of health by hospital authorities. He was exposed to the capsule for about 10 minutes after it broke loose, but no delayed reaction is expected.

BELGIANS IN DANGER

'Let Lumumba Go or Else'

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Supporters of Patrice Lumumba who rule Oriental Province today threatened to kill an unspecified number of Belgian hostages unless the deposed premier is freed.

They made the threat in a telegram to President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congolese army commander whose troops arrested Lumumba and clamped him into prison.

The United Nations took immediate emergency action to protect the estimated 2,000 whites living in the province, half of them in Stanleyville.

WHITES IN DANGER

The UN spokesman said Salumu threatened only Belgians, but was expected to make no distinction between Belgians and other whites.

An unknown number of non-Belgians are believed to live in Oriental province. Many are missionaries.

The United Nations has 1,800 Ethiopian troops in the province. They took over a school building in Stanleyville Thursday as a protected refuge for all whites.

Plans were made to evacuate the entire white population to Leopoldville if necessary.

Salumu's deadline for Lumumba's release, originally made known to UN officials Wednesday, was believed to expire tonight.

The cable said in part:

"Liberation of Lumumba must take place within 48 hours.

"If not will arrest all Belgians in Oriental province and begin by cutting off heads of some of them. . . .

"Will sabotage all Belgian interests if Lumumba not released within fixed delay."

Meanwhile, UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold told the Security Council early today that he had received "deeply disturbing" news from Stanleyville. The 11-nation council meets again tonight at 5.30 p.m. MST, to continue its debate on the new Congo crisis.

The Security Council debate adjourned at 1.30 a.m. EST after a series of bitter charges during which Britain's Sir Patrick Dean described the Congolese policies of the Soviet Union as "disgraceful" and "devoid of truth and replete with slander."

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin accused Hammarskjold of encouraging a "gang of murderers" to carry out inhuman acts against deposed premier Lumumba.

In his 90-minute speech Zorin urged the adoption of a Soviet resolution calling for the immediate release of Lumumba and his supporters and his restoration as premier.

The representative of The Congo itself, Mario Cardoso, criticized both the Soviet Union and the West for their policies in the former Belgian colony of 13,000,000.

He added that the Russians had made a great fuss about the injuries Lumumba suffered at the time of his arrest but doctors had attested he was well. Opponents of Lumumba had been badly beaten without the Russians complaining.

Sentence Increased

EDMONTON (CP) — An Edmonton man, convicted of robbery with violence Thursday, asked an Edmonton judge to increase his sentence to two years from 18 months. Ovide Schmidt explained his strange request by saying he could learn a trade if he went to Fort Saskatchewan jail for two years. His request was granted.

Philip 'Too Arrogant'—Tony 'Shire Horse'

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip is publicly accused today of being "openly arrogant" and his brother-in-law Anthony Armstrong-Jones is rapped for taking life too easy since he married Princess Margaret.

The criticisms come from the barbed pen of one of Britain's most widely read columnists, William Neil Conner, who writes in The Daily Mirror under the pseudonym Cassandra.

"Prince Philip is immensely able, publicly charming," Cassandra says.

But he adds: "In addition to possessing this Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, glamor, he is openly arrogant, and occasionally an expert in the deadly art of being able to offend and get away with it most of the time."

Princess Margaret's husband is described as one of the Jones boys "and therefore has a bank balance of goodwill in every home in the land because of his name."

But if he ever elected to take a title, then beware, the columnist warns.

"So far he has played it safe. Not only has he played it safe but he has played it slow."

The Royal Family has what to most people would be an intolerable burden of duties, notes The Mirror. "Real heavy-on-the-collar stuff that needs a lot of solid carthorse pulling.

"Mr. Armstrong-Jones is the new shire horse that seems to rest a little too often on the shafts."

Down to Bedrock

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has wisely accepted the advice of the opposition and established a National Productivity Council. Its purpose will be to promote, in Canadian industry, a greater output per man-hour of work. Here the Government is trying to reach the core of the Canadian economic problem which is infinitely complex in detail but simple in essence.

During recent years productivity has been increasing in Canada but not as fast as the cost of production in many areas of the economy, and not nearly as fast as in the industries of some other nations.

When wages and other production costs rise faster than productivity the result, mathematically, is an increase in price. And the result of an increase in price is clear now for everyone to see.

When Canada was warned long ago that it would soon price its goods out of the market the warning was usually brushed off either as unsound economics or the invention of predatory capitalists. But it happened to be true.

Canada has already priced itself out of many foreign markets and that fact is not denied by a rise in our exports this year. Of course our exports have risen somewhat but not nearly enough to keep our export industries as a whole working at full capacity; not nearly enough to absorb a continual increase in our labor force. The proof of that can be found in the unemployment statistics.

Besides, though our commodity exports have increased, they are not as large as our imports. And even if our exports far exceeded our commodity imports they would not begin to cover our over-all trade deficit which was $1.4 billions last year, only $400 millions of it in the form of physical goods, the rest in "invisibles."

This year we shall have a deficit almost as large as that, by far the largest, on a per capita basis, accumulated by any nation in the world. It will be proportionately about four times as large as the United States' deficit which is large enough to frighten the American government into all sorts of emergency measures.

We have not only priced Canadian goods out of foreign markets that we could hold with lower prices. We have also priced ourselves out of our own Canadian market.

The people of Canada would buy far more Canadian goods of many kinds if the price were even a little lower. If our manufacturing industries could cut their prices they would not have to demand import restrictions that will only raise prices still higher and worsen the problem.

Yet at the very moment when high prices are so obviously the core of our problem still higher wages are being widely demanded and, when granted, will push prices up again.

We notice that many experts are saying these days that the Government should solve this problem by inflating the currency, that another little drink of this familiar brew wouldn't do us any harm. Perhaps it wouldn't if it did not raise prices, but the latest statistics show that our retail price level has been going up and has reached an all-time peak.

Not only is the consumer penalized but sales of all sorts are discouraged and men are thrown out of work because the products of their labor cannot be sold.

All this is the legacy of a long, inflationary boom. It cannot be talked away. Our economy will not be strong and prosperous again until we can sell our goods in volume adequate to our needs and our labor force.

That is what the Government means when it sets up a productivity council representing business, labor, agriculture and other interests. But it will be some time, at best, before this council can stimulate more efficient industrial methods, and, if production costs continue to rise, they will cancel out all the gains in productivity. To raise costs under present conditions is plain economic lunacy, of which the unemployed workers are the elected victims.

Democracy—Not Worth the Effort?

THE CIVIC AND MUNICIPAL elections yesterday proved two points: for an overwhelming majority of this community's voters, the right to choose the men or women who will handle their business isn't worth a trip to the polls; and for those useful citizens who did vote, the men in office have been quite satisfactory.

Admittedly there were no spectacular issues in the contests. The responsibility before the voters, apart from passage of a sewer bylaw in Saanich and rejection of indemnities for Oak Bay Council, was merely to select the candidates best equipped for office. By returning incumbents wherever possible the electors have shown appreciation for recent policies and the individuals who have carried them out.

To those re-elected and to new men entering public office, we extend our congratulations.

One admonition seems justifiable. Should the members of the community become irate over any actions councils take in the year ahead, at least two-thirds of them must ask themselves where they were on December 8.

Security Costs Money Too

THE SOVIET UNION, WHICH through Mr. Khrushchev's demands at the General Assembly meeting in New York a few weeks ago threatened in effect to plunge a dagger into the back of the United Nations, appears now to be developing a more subtle attack. It will let the UN starve to death.

By refusing to pay its assessed quota of the costs of the United Nations' continuing Suez Canal operation, and now by threatening to refuse payment of its share of the costs in The Congo, Russia is contributing to a very severe financial crisis in the global organization.

Part of the problem has a less sinister origin. Many of the smaller member states which were having difficulty in meeting their original commitments, are in worse straits now that the United Nations' costs are rising. One result has been that the United States is carrying a greater and greater share of the financial load. Washington's share of the Suez expenses, for example, has jumped from 32.51 per cent to 47 per cent within four years. This has been a voluntary increase, it is true, but the situation poses a danger in addition to the financial problem.

It is not a healthful trend for one powerful nation to assume too large a proportion of the burden of cost. The United Nations is primarily a global body and the key word is "United." This connotes an individual responsibility to contribute fairly to the costs of the UN. At the moment the UN faces an operating deficit of $2 millions for this year, plus another $37 millions shortage due to member assessments which have not been paid.

If the United Nations must fail or curtail its work for lack of funds, what can the member nations buy with their money that will be as valuable as the UN's services? There can be only one answer — nothing.

Whose Children Are They?

"LUNAR MADNESS" MAY BE an explanation for the vandalism which left the Beacon Hill Park bust of the Queen without a head and destroyed 10 flowering cherry trees on the Gladstone Avenue boulevard. It is not, by any stretch of the imagination, an excuse.

When such stupid, costly and wilful damage is caused, some parents are making a very poor job of raising their children—whether those children are in the teens or in their twenties.

Hanging By a Hair

THE REPORT FROM THE United States Strategic Air Command, that radar signals bounced off the moon and received in Greenland last October were briefly believed to be signs of a missile approaching the United States, is as chilling as December's north wind.

It is reassuring to learn that a quick check revealed the error of the assumption. But that reassurance must be qualified.

What if the devices used to carry out the check had been misinterpreted also? When retaliation must be almost immediate in the event of missile attack, how thin is the hair that binds us to survival?

—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

PUT ANOTHER NICKEL IN

By B. A. TOBIN

Will She Smile, or Go Clickety-Clank?

IT'S not so many years ago that I knew an elderly gentleman who claimed to have been the inventor of chocolate-vending machines in England. Coin machines have come a long way from the type which he inaugurated. Today you can buy anything from a cup of coffee to a pair of nylons from a machine. You can put your coins in and get back a package of cigarets, a pen, a bag of peanuts, a slice of pie, a rhumba, a bowl of soup or a bottle of pop. You can deposit your dirty clothes along with the coin and get them washed, even ironed.

Tobin

The experts say there will be much more of this; before we know it the coin slot will be the twentieth century gate to the full life.

Some observers, of course, see the rise of the automatic vending machine as a threat to the human race. What will be the need of workers when a machine can hand you everything? The human agent will be displaced by the clicking money gobbler and be left jobless.

As I see it, that is only one danger. A far greater threat is that the automatic dispenser will not displace us but take us over. We won't be refugees from a slot machine: we'll be dragged in and become part of the contraption.

Already the signs are evident. Go into a great supermarket, load up with goods from the attractive display cases and approach the cashier. In a way, the whole store is a giant vending machine, one in which you don't drop your coins into a slot, but carry them through a door with you.

The customer can escape from the machine, clutching bags and cartons, hypnotized and mechanized only for the short time he or she has been inside. But what of the effect on the girls who stand at the weighing counter and tot up the scores?

Custom's Last Stand

Here and there some individualist still holds out against the relentless dehumanization of the system. She retains the alert eye, the pleasant smile, the human look of a human. But most of the girls have succumbed, victims of the superior force of automation.

Like metal robots disguised to look like attractive women, they send out arms and hands which pick up the parcels and packages; register weights, quantities, values in some transistor system within their heads; turn mechanically, push buttons on a sister machine standing next to them which automatically adds the totals. Silently, smoothly, with never a buzz or a clash of gears, they pick up the proffered money, deposit it in the other machine, return your change, push the parcels toward you and swing automatically to the next customer.

These are not women, at least not for the hours of employment. They are mechanical instruments, moving with the quite efficiency of mesmerized agents. They have not been displaced by the machine; they have become the machine.

Fortunately, the transition no doubt does not extend beyond the hours of work. But how long will this reprieve continue? How long can the human mind hold out against daily submergence in the machine without being permanently affected? Will the quitting bell always turn off the machine and turn on the human being, so the latter can go home alive?

Now project the thought to a few years in the future, when not only a few young women will be closely allied with the automatic vending system, but millions and millions of us. Think of the day when a great store may consist of so many machines and humans standing in rows and performing automatic services that it will become almost impossible to perceive which is which.

Which Is Which?

Think of the daily human association with mechanical gadgets, so that in time they become individuals to the persons who work with them—inspiring individual names, respect, perhaps even affection. As persons who live together are said in time to come to resemble each other, robot and human would perhaps become indistinguishable.

Come to think of it—I wonder if the smile on that cashier yesterday was painted on?

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Claptrap'

I see Dr. Linus Pauling has been at the old Communist game again with his ban the bomb meeting (Times, Dec. 5) in Vancouver.

Surely to goodness people must be getting fed up with that old line of Communist claptrap. How on earth would banning the bomb in the West do any good unless Russia banned it too? Or maybe Dr. Pauling wants us to ban it unilaterally, probably without mutual inspection too.

ANTI-COMMUNIST.

No Preserve of Rich

I take strong exception to the statement in Norman Cribbens' article "Work Under Way for Boys' Club" in Saturday's issue of The Victoria Times in which he says the club will cater mainly to "boys from poorer families who are not encouraged to join Wolf Cubs, Scouts or church groups."

I have been associated with Scouting both in England and Canada for many years and I have never known a boy to be refused admission to a scout troop because of lack of funds.

On the contrary boys of poor families are constantly encouraged to join Scouts and Cubs. As for the churches, I am sure many of them cater to poor boys and poor families.

SCOUT LEADER.

Sweep 'Leaks'

It might interest some of your readers to know, in addition to the information given in your editorial, that part of the takings of the Irish Sweepstakes goes to fill the coffers of one of the founders of this charitable enterprise, and the estate of the other. These two men got the law changed to enable them to gamble with other people's money.

OBSERVER.

Attract All Types

In your edition of Saturday, December 3, an article appeared dealing with the work under way for a Boys' Club in Victoria. In this article it suggests that boys from poorer families and delinquent boys, are not accepted in the Wolf Cubs, Scouts or church groups. This is very far from the truth.

As far as the Scout movement is concerned, and I speak with some authority as I have been a leader in this movement for fifty years, we welcome boys from poorer homes and assist them with the purchasing of uniforms and the annual summer camp. Throughout the years I have had many delinquent boys under my care as Cubs, Scouts and Rover Scouts, and have met with a great deal of success. The Scout movement is specially designed to appeal to all types of boys, and attracts boys from rich and poor families alike.

Status of Thetis

Many ratepayers in Victoria are deeply concerned over the status of that area generally referred to as Thetis Lake Park. It is our misfortune that "Thetis" is legally only a watershed area and as such can be regarded as a commercial asset.

We had evidence of this attitude earlier in the year when the City Council sold a portion of this area to the B.C. Electric Company.

For the public therefore, there will always be the danger of losing the park as a permanent possession unless steps are taken to have it properly dedicated either as a civic park or as a provincial park.

May we ask the aldermen to give this matter earnest consideration.

Plain Talk

The Ottawa Journal

MR. CHESTER BOWLES, once American Ambassador to India and more recently a member of Congress, is a foreign policy adviser to President-elect Kennedy.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News and World Report, Mr. Bowles has set forth his views on today's world problems.

These are some of them:

On the rising tide of nationalism and desire for independence evident in Africa and elsewhere—"We must realize that this tide is enormously powerful and that it would still exist even if every Communist in the world handed in his card tomorrow."

On the world conflict—"We should not define it as a struggle between the 'American way of life' and the 'Communist way of life' in which every new, hesitant nation must at once take sides . . .

"We can stop talking as though the future belongs to the nations which can make the most bathtubs and the most missiles and deal out the toughest talk in the United Natjons debates . . . This is not what the struggle is all about."

On idealism—"In today's world practical idealism is the only true realism. And that is where the advantage, if only we have the wit to see it, lies with us. It is the spirit of humanity that distinguishes us from the Soviet Union and the Chinese Communists. This is also what distinguishes the people of Nigeria, Tanganyika, Brazil and India and Japan from the Communists."

Crucial But Complex

(As Canada considers closer ties with Latin American countries, the following review of Brazilian thinking is of particular interest. Mr. Lippmann has just completed a visit to Brazil.)

By WALTER LIPPMANN

I HAVE begun to see what has gone wrong in American relations with Brazil. Inattention and mediocrity and lack of understanding are the causes of the trouble. The rulers and leaders of Brazil feel that since the death of Franklin Roosevelt there has been nobody for them to talk to who had power and who cared about them. Since his death they have had no access to the key people in this country and they have not had contact with the best minds devoted to political and financial international affairs. The deterioration began under President Truman, and the story is generally believed that Secretary Acheson told a leading Latin American diplomat that he was not interested in South America, and that the Latin Americans could talk to one of his subordinates.

Lippmann

Whether the story is true or false, what it signifies is the nub of the matter. It is generally believed in Brazil that when President Kubitchek visited Washington, President Eisenhower went through the ceremonies for him but told him to talk about business to subordinate officials.

When the Brazilians have come in contact with the second and third level, they have found, so they say, that whether under orders from above or by their own preconception these officials did not understand or sympathize with the problems of an under-developed country.

Complex Point

What kind of understanding have the Brazilians not found in Washington during the past ten years? The point is crucial but it is complex, and I am compelled to simplify, perhaps to oversimplify. In Washington, the Brazilians say, they have been confronted with men in the treasury, the state department, and the world bank who have looked upon Brizilian inflation through the eyes of the classical economists of a highly developed country like the United States or Great Britain. That is to say, they have thought that inflation meant that producion was at a maximum and that the government and the people were trying to buy more goods than existed. The remedy for inflation in the classical economics of advanced countries is to spend less and to save more.

This may be true for the United States, say the Brazilians, but it is not true for Brazil. There is inflation in Brazil although there is no full use of the productive resources. Inflation occurs because the economy is strangled by its own backwardness, by the lack of electric power and of fuel, of roads and transportation, of education, of health — of those underlying facilities which are essential to the expansion of a free industrial economy. A country in Brazil's stage of development cannot cure inflation by retrenchment alone, however desirable and necessary it is to do away with the marginal waste and corruption. In order to make its economy work, it must build what the Brazilians like to call the infrastructure — that is to say the public facilities without which a free economy cannot exist and expand.

Public Sector

The Brazilians believe that Sen. Kennedy and his economic advisers understand what the conservative Eisenhower economists do not undersand — the role of the public sector in a free economy. They expect under the new administration to meet much more sophisticated men when they come to Washington.

I do not think that they think that a Kennedy administration can or will or should pay their international deficits. On the contrary, there is a deep moral revulsion against financial dependence on the United States, and the reasons for this arise not from their being anti-American but from their own growing sense of self-respect. They are within sight of economic independence, and more and more they feel and act like an independent nation.

What about their foreign policy? I must warn the reader that what I have to say here is based not on information but on inference. For what it may be worth, I believe that the Brazilian leaders know that the post-war period has ended, that the kind of action represented by the Marshall Plan is no longer possible. But they need capital from abroad, and to get it they will have to go to the unsentimental capital markets of the world, and they will have to become eligible for loans by playing according to the more orthodox rules of the game.

Eliminate Subsidies

To do this they will have to take measures at home to eliminate the more obvious forms of unproductive spending —principally the subsidies to keep down the cost of living. These measures will, of course, be unpopular. Unless all the signs fail, the new Quadros administration will be determined to make it perfectly clear that its financial orthodoxy is not directed by the United States. For that reason, and also for other reasons, we should not be surprised to see the government strike out rather boldly and spectacularly away from the established line of United States foreign policy. Almost certainly the Quadros administration will recognize the Soviet Union and probably also Red China. It may well align itself frequently in the United Nations and elsewhere with countries like India, Egypt, and Yugoslavia.

If this happens, it will be no reason for going into hysterics. Brazil will remain our friend, bound to us by long tradition, by economic and strategic ties. The new Quadros administration derives from the state of Sao Paulo which is the greatest industrial complex and the largest monument to free enterprise in South America.

Pass the Salt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Few things in recorded history are more stirring than man's unceasing quest for a better salt shaker.

In some ways, I think, it is even more thrilling than the quest for a better mousetrap. Certainly, it is more dramatic than the quest for a better pepper shaker.

West

The struggle to make salt flow freely has challenged international ingenuity for more than a century, particularly on rainy days. It has been marked by triumphs and failures, heartbreaks and heartburn.

I learned all of this, and more, from Dr. Arthur G. Peterson, a local citizen who makes a hobby of collecting salt shakers. He is so wrapped up in his hobby he has written a book about it.

As little as we might think about it, and I personally think about it very little, Abraham Lincoln may never have seen a salt shaker. Peterson tells us that salt dispersers with perforated tops were practically unknown before 1865.

The trouble was that salt absorbed too much moisture for use in shakers. Lincoln probably had to make do with a salt dish, but I doubt that he worried much about it. He had a lot of other things on his mind.

Improved methods of refining salt changed the method of dispensing it. The early dispensers were variously known as sprinklers, dusters, boxes and dreges. The term "shaker" did not come into use until the 1890's.

Some folks persisted for a while in calling a shaker a "cellar," but they were generally looked upon as being old stick-in-the-muds.

Despite additives, coatings and other improvements, salt still had a nasty habit of clinging to the shakers in damp weather. People had to unscrew the cap and sprinkle the stuff around with their fingers. By that time, the eggs were cold.

★ ★ ★

In the space of a decade or two, the U.S. Patent Office issued more than 1,000 patents to inventors who thought they had found a way to overcome this difficulty.

Some of them invented agitators, rotors or vibrators to make the shakers shake. Some put brushes in the bottle. Some used propellers.

The next step was to put something in the shakers that would absorb the moisture. The next step after that was to use valves, flanges and stoppers in an effort to keep the moisture out.

Then there was a cycle of pin devices to keep the holes open. Then there was a cycle of scrapers and cutters, and after that a cycle of sifters, strainers and crushers.

It all ended, finally, when someone discovered a way to coat salt crystals to keep them from caking in the first place.

Anyone for mousetraps?

LONDON LETTER By WALLACE REYBURN

Man Who Refused $76,000

LONDON—at random . . . Never realized until now how few Methodists there are in this country. The figure is less than 750,000.

Reyburn

Reason it crops up is that folks here are still arguing the pros and cons of this young married man with two children, who has been saving for a new house and car, turning down a $76,000 win on the soccer pools.

Against his Methodist principles, apparently, to do any more than touch the cheque (to feel he could have had it in his grasp) and then hand it over to charity.

That was the idea at first, anyway. But after talking it over with his family, he decided it would be all right to accept the money after all—which made a lot of folks breathe easier, I can tell you.

Didn't expect to get letters from readers about an item I had the other day about a fellow here who has been asking in the press for all the information he can get on the Teddy bear, since he's doing research on the toy's origin, background, etc.

But letters I did get, including one from Mrs. Violet Clarke of Willowdale.

She tells me (and the Oxford Dictionary confirms it) that the Teddy bear originated with Theodore Roosevelt.

Seems that when he was on a bear hunt in Mississippi in 1902 members of the party caught a small brown bear which they tied to a tree for the President to shoot when he arrived on the scene. He would have none of that, and released the bear.

Cartoonist Clifford K. Berryman of the Washington Post featured the incident in a cartoon which captured the public's fancy in a reprint that was distributed by the thousands, and it wasn't long before Teddy bears became standard equipment in every nursery.

TODAY'S TRAFFIC TROUBLE TIP

Meter Cheating Must End

What about meter cheaters?

For a year now the traffic engineer's department, whose responsibility includes parking meters, has waged war on repeat-metering in mid-town Victoria.

Their objective is to keep parking spaces circulating to provide as much short-term parking for as many cars as possible during business hours, thus reducing traffic congestion.

One of the biggest obstacles to this end is the meter hog, probably close kin to the road hog.

The driver who parks his car right outside his office for the full time allowable on the parking meter, then runs out to drop coins for another hour or two of parking, is a selfish cheat.

He is not only breaking the overtime parking law but depriving other motorists of the curb space they could be using while on legitimate business in the area.

Curbsides glutted with parked cars plug the city's narrow thoroughfares because there remains no space for the transient driver to stop his car for a few minutes, let out a passenger or pick up the groceries.

He is forced to circle block after block, adding to the traffic flow which becomes impeded when, in desperation, he double-parks.

The city is concerned with the parking situation, fearing it will further deteriorate as cars multiply and business hours lengthen.

Meter patrolling has been stepped up in the past year, but according to traffic engineer Norman Worsley, "we are always trying to overcome overtime parking."

We have had a lot of trouble with people who are continual offenders for repeat metering," he said. "Some spend $20 to $30 a month in nickels (for meters) and fines (when caught) for the privilege of having the car right at their door.

"This is not playing ball. The idea is to keep cars moving and spaces available."

To prove re-metering, meter patrolmen use chalk marks on car tires, and "other methods."

So far, chalk marks have not been challenged locally, but on the basis of a recent Vancouver case a more positive proof may be required to convict an offender.

SYNOPSIS—High pressure over most of the province was weakening very slowly this morning as the leading edge of a storm area in the Gulf of Alaska moves slowly closer. This will bring a gradual relief from the dense fog that blanketed the south coast Thursday and most of Thursday night. However, it will probably mean an increase in cloudiness for Saturday as the cloud shield spreads slowly eastward. Very little change is expected for the remainder of the province.

RUSS-CHINESE SPLIT 'JOKE' CLAIMS EATON

"We're only kidding ourselves if we think that the Russians and the Chinese will split up. It's only wishful thinking on our part."

Private TV Net Okayed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors announced today it will permit a company headed by S. W. Caldwell to form a private television network in Canada.

The firm, Canadian Television Network Limited, which is still to be incorporated, must make another application to the board by next Aug. 31, however, to seek permission to operate.

The board said the new company must have affiliation agreements with six television stations not affiliated with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The network must operate at least 10 hours a week, and give the board a satisfactory outline of its programs.

'FORGERY' SAYS BRITON

Secret Nixon Report On Africa Unveiled

LAGOS (Reuters)—A document claimed to contain a "secret policy report" on Africa by Vice-President Richard Nixon, of the United States, was circulated Thursday at the first African regional conference of the International Labor Organization.

The document, labelled a "forgery" by a British delegate, also contained what its authors called a "reproduction" of a secret British cabinet paper on trade unionism in Africa.

It quoted Nixon as saying after his 1957 Africa visit: "American interests in the future are so great as to justify us in not hesitating even to assist the departure of the colonial powers from Africa. If we can win native opinion by this process the future of America in Africa will be assured."

A foreword to the document was signed by Chu Nzeribe, general secretary of the Nigerian Trade Union Congress, which has been accused by the rival Trade Union Congress of Nigeria as having close affiliations with the Communist-backed World Federation of Trade Unions.

The 12-page document, quoting a British "annexe to a cabinet paper on policy in Africa," says in part:

"Since it is difficult to accuse trade unions of serving colonial ends, with their aid it should be possible to establish harmonious relations with the new social and political institutions in Africa now being created, and with the administration of industrial and agricultural interets which we hope to maintain after any political changes."

Charge Against Coyne Due for New Airing

OTTAWA (CP) — The furore over demands that James Coyne be removed as governor of the Bank of Canada likely will get a further airing in Parliament.

Mr. Coyne's removal from the $50,000-a-year job as head of the agency responsible for Canada's monetary policy was demanded by 17 university economists in letters to Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Fleming, who agreed to table them in the House, remarked that the economists gave no grounds for their statement that they have lost faith in the bank's management to pull Canada out of her economic difficulties.

One of the economists, H. Scott Gordon of Carleton University, said today the letter was not written for publication and "we assumed that Mr. Fleming would know what we were talking about because his budget speech last March 31 gave a point-by-point refutation of Mr. Coyne's public statements."

Said Mr. Fleming: ". . . I must say that the indictment is somewhat lacking in any statement of the grounds. I am left in some doubt as to the particular grounds upon which this indictment is based."

The matter rested there in the Commons Thursday but the opposition may revive the issue during the debate on Mr. Fleming's supplementary budget or press for an investigation by a Commons committee.

CCF Leader Argue gave an indication that the CCF will not allow it to die when he asked whether the government will make possible an investigation by the Commons banking committee.

Mr. Fleming replied that the Commons will have to decide that question when committees are set up and when the bank makes its annual report, usually presented in March.

The economists—12 from the University of Toronto, four from Carleton University here and one from St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S.—charged that Mr. Coyne's public statements "have seriously shaken our faith in the wisdom and competence of the bank's management".

They said policies pursued by the bank "have not displayed sufficient concern for the difficulties and uncertainties of the financial market or sufficient awareness of the true state of the economy in general".

They went no farther but Professor William C. Hood, of the University of Toronto, who said he refused to sign their letter, indicated the quarrel centres on the bank's policy with regard to money supply.

Mr. Coyne has come under fire from chartered bank officers for keeping too firm a hand on the amount of money in circulation and Professor Hood, during an appearance Thursday before the Senate manpower committee, echoed their demands for an increase.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coyne remained aloof from the controversy, returning only "No comment" to requests for statements of his position. A lawyer, he was appointed to a seven-year term as bank governor in 1954.

Air passengers to and from Britain in 1960 exceeded passengers by sea for the first time in history.

'Mr. Forester' Title Goes To Ex-Deputy

One of B.C.'s best-known forestry officials Thursday night was honored as "Mr. Forester" of the west.

Dr. C. D. Orchard was awarded the annual Western forestry plaque at a banquet for the Western Forestry and Conservation Association Conference attended by 500 delegates from Canada and the U.S. in the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Orchard was until 1958 B.C.'s deputy forest minister and was credited with setting up the province's sustained yield policy.

He now is a private forest consultant.

Dr. Orchard received the award from Hugh Hodgins, of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., president of the conference.

Banda Urges Followers Keep Peace

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Hastings Banda, head of Nyasaland's Negro nationalists, Thursday urged his followers to keep the peace in the uneasy protectorate and simultaneously defended them against charges of violence against political opponents.

The charges were made by six members of the British Parliament—three Labor members and three Conservatives—who returned Thursday from a two-week tour of the Central African Federation of Southern and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

They said they had photographs to prove their charges against Banda's Malawi Congress party but added that they were not personally criticizing him.

At a press conference, Banda denounced the allegations as a "red herring." He said he has sent a cable to his supporters urging peace and calm and telling them to "simply ignore the stooges and our political opponents."

Murder for Payroll

RANGOON (AP) — A Burmese army officer and eight other soldiers were killed in an ambush Wednesday about 60 miles north of Moulemin, according to reports received in Rangoon. Rebels seized an army unit's payroll which the detail was carrying.

REDS WAGE PAPER WAR

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — "There are some weapons of the Communists that you can't fight with tanks," said the trade expert. "Bills of lading, for instance, and insurance policies."

That was his way of warning what may happen if the West German-East German trade pact, due to expire on December 31, is not renewed. He thinks the business life of isolated West Berlin could be slowly strangled without an issue arising that would call for armed force.

This expert is Dr. Kurt Leopold, who for years has been dealing with the Communists about trade on behalf of the Bonn government.

On September 30 Chancellor Konrad Adenauer cancelled a pact that he had been running nine years. The trade it covered is expected to reach a record $500,000,000 this year.

It was cancelled as a reprisal against the East German Communists who ordered Germans coming from the West to apply to them for a special pass to visit East Berlin.

If the Communists decide to play it rough, strange things could happen Jan. 1. Small sections of West Berlin, and of West Germany, may suddenly find themselves short of gas, electricity and water. This could be only temporary.

A more serious crisis might come because of the bills of lading. Under a Big Four order dating back to 1946, these lists of freight must accompany most shipments across the 110 miles of Communist territory that separate Berlin from the West.

If the trade pact expires, the bills of lading will still be required but there will be no rules on how they should be drawn. The East Germans may ask for impossible information and insist on elaborate inspections if they are not furnished.

Rambler American and Classic again win Gas Economy Test

IN THE RECENTLY CONCLUDED gas economy test, conducted by the Toronto Daily Star, a Rambler American "Custom" with standard transmission and a Rambler Classic "Custom" with automatic transmission again topped their respective classes. The gas mileage figures above represent the average achieved in exhaustive tests, which included stop-and-go traffic as well as high-speed highway driving.

This latest victory proves once again that Rambler is way out in front when it comes to gas economy. But gas economy is only part of the Rambler economy story. Figure out the important savings you get from such features as the ceramic-armoured muffler, guaranteed for the life of the car during original ownership, Rambler's reasonable prices and traditionally high trade-in value and Rambler's quality construction which helps cut maintenance costs to a minimum. CCF Flies Divorce Kite Private Bill Talked Out

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A CCF private member's bill designed to create what would be Canada's first national divorce law was debated for five hours in the Commons Thursday—the full time permitted to such a measure.

No vote was taken on the bill sponsored by Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming.) The result is that it reverts to the bottom of the House order paper and likely will not come up again this session.

The bill would have offered—but not imposed—the new law as a replacement for the existing divorce statutes in eight provinces. In the main these statutes recognize adultery as the only divorce ground.

Added as grounds by the CCF bill would be cruelty—now recognized only in Nova Scotia—and the entirely new ones of desertion, habitual drunkenness, narcotic addiction, non-consummation, insanity, five years' separation of the parties, the husband's habitual failure to support his wife, and certain criminal convictions.

Absence of divorce courts in Quebec and Newfoundland would be overcome, under the CCF plan, by eliminating the one-province aspect of the domicile law. It would provide an all-Canada domicile, allowing residents of those provinces to sue for divroces elsewhere in Canada.

Dishonest Practices Commonplace

In a step new to Canada—but one followed by Australia earlier this year—the new bill would make it a duty of divorce court judges to attempt reconciliation of the parties in every divorce suit.

"Divorce should be resorted to only as a last resort," said Mr. Peters, a married man with three children.

When it does become necessary, he said, the proposed law would make it possible "without lying, cheating, getting involved in collusion with a lawyer, or hiring a dishonest detective."

Mr. Peters said these tactics are common now because the laws permit divorce only for adultery. The present system was "based on hyprocrisy and dishonesty." The proposed change would make possible divorce "with honor, honesty . . . at an economical price and in a respectable manner."

R. D. Caldwell-Stewart (PC-Charlotte), a New Brunswick lawyer, said the bill's proposal for all-Canadian domicile represents "an exceedingly wide departure" from existing law. A person could have only one domicile—the province in which he was born or intends to remain permanently.

Exceptional Cases Unduly Noted

Eldon Woolliams (PC-Bow River), a lawyer, said the problem of finding a divorce law which treats the individual with dignity, compassion and justice is not an easy one.

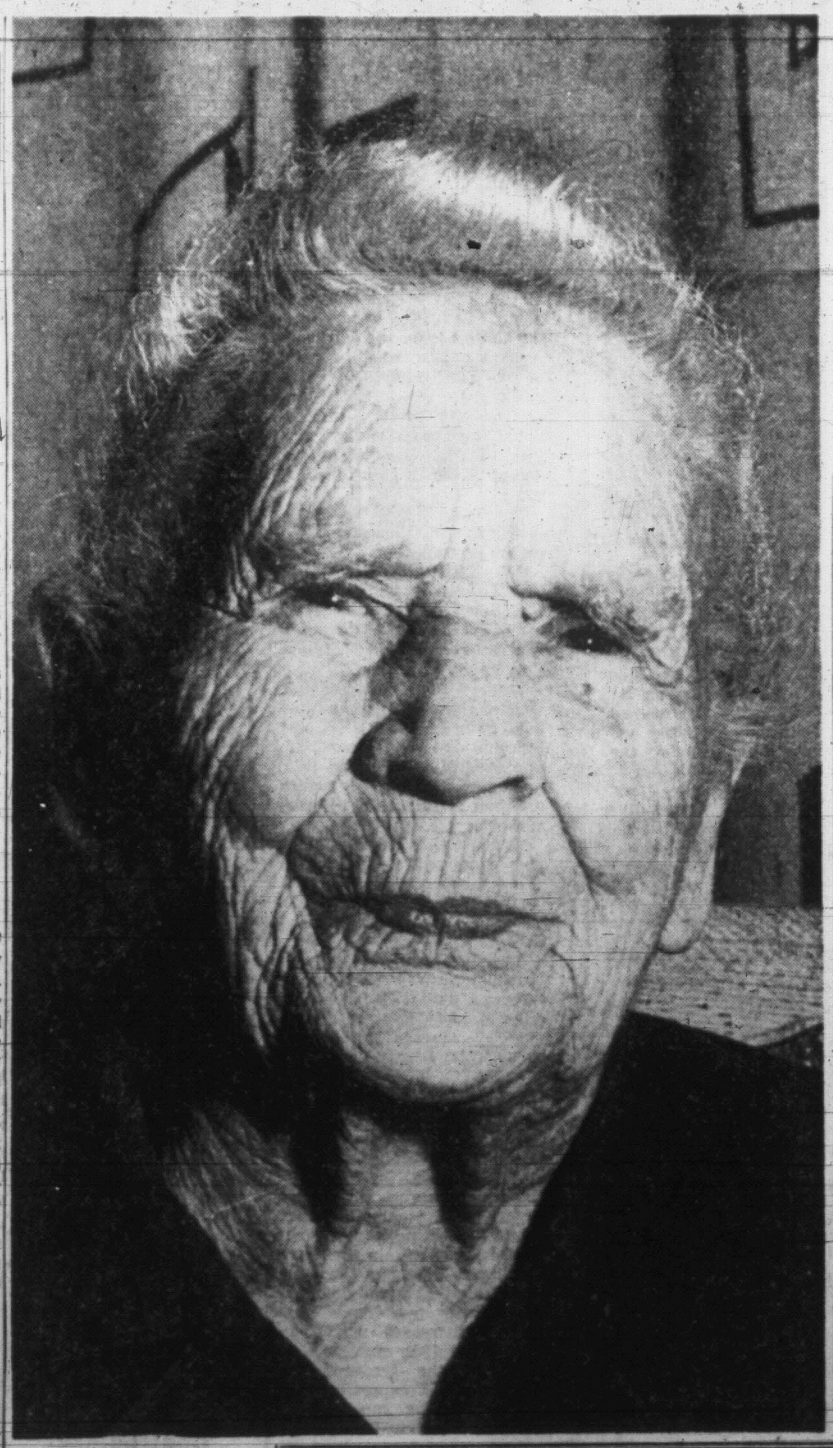
He contended that collusion between parties in a divorce action is spotted by judges who consider the actions. He said he is convinced that there is no collusion in the majority of cases that go before the courts in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The exceptional cases of connivance are exaggerated by newspapers, he said, and should not be considered the main grounds for changing the divorce law.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) supported the bill. He said a change in Canada's divorce laws is "long overdue." The effect of the law at present is such that it condones hypocrisy, collusion, connivance, unhappiness, immorality and perjury.

Just before the debate closed for the dinner adjournment, Robert McCleave (PC-Halifax), chairman of the Commons Private Bills Committee which handles divorce petitions after Senate consideration, said it wanted to correct "some of the fictions" heard during the debate.

The chief fiction, he said, is that the proposed law would suddenly "make honest our divorce laws"—a point of view conflicting with the experience of other countries with laws similar to the one proposed by Mr. Peters.



FACE OF TIME

Beauty in age is exemplified in character-full face of centenarian Mrs. Ruth Driver, who neighbors describe as "always as bright as can be." She has alert mind and interest in world events, knows who holds various civic offices and has a wide circle of friends in Victoria. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

'I'VE LIVED 100 YEARS BECAUSE I'M NEVER SICK'

By TONY DICKASON

Open house is being held today by Mrs. Ruth Driver at 1888 Carnarvon to mark her birthday.

She's aged 100.

The five-foot two-inch little lady, who weighs a mere 85 pounds, wants to see "anybody who wants to come, providing they don't stay too long."

She attributes her longevity to one sensible fact: she has never been sick.

Mrs. Driver lives with her two daughters, Mrs. Edith Milligan and Mrs. Esther Harwood.

She makes her own bed and sets the table for the three of them.

Mrs. Driver is an active member of Esquimalt United Church and "reads all the time."

And this witnout glasses!

The reading comprises daily newspapers and magazines.

Up at 9 a.m., she retires at 9 p.m., takes walks in the garden and goes out for drives.

KNITS FOR EIGHT

In her spare time—not much when a century has passed and the necessary slow-down set in—she knits for her eight great-grandchildren.

Born in "a tiny place," Mineral Point, Wis., a mining camp, Mrs. Driver recalls when the Union soldiers came home at the end of the U.S. Civil War.

The family came to Victoria in 1906 and have lived here since.

Mr. Driver, who worked for the B.C. Electric and whose trade was "horseshoeing," died about 20 years ago.

More Unemployed

LONDON (Reuters) — Unemployed workers in the British auto industry totalled 13,959 persons Nov. 14, the government announced Thursday. The figure was 2,268 in November, 1959.

Soo Line Continues

MOOSE JAW (CP) — The Soo Line passenger train service has been given a reprieve. Intended cancellation of the service has been indefinitely postponed, A. J. Cowie, Canadian Pacific Railway operations superintendent, announced Thursday.

CMS Announces Dividend Increase

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Consolidated Mining and Smelting has announced its second 10-cent extra payment on semi-annual dividend payable, along with the regular 40 cents, Jan. 16 to shareholders of record Dec. 16. Total dividend for this year, is now $1, up 20 cents from last year.

The increase was greeted with apparent disappointment in the market where an extra of 15 or 20 cents had been freely anticipated and the stock dipped slightly following the announcement.

Latest mine merger talk concerns Highland Bell and Mastodon Zinc Mines with a suggestion that Mastodon, which has an established tax loss, will buy out Highland Bell and then the shares of both firms would be exchanged for stock in a single new company.

Ratio of exchange suggested is Highland Bell one for one and Mastodon one for 30 new shares.

A group headed by Home Oil is to resume drilling soon in the Celibeta Lake area of the Northwest Territories where it discovered gas in the Slave Point formation earlier this year. Two more wells are to be drilled on a 1,200,000-acre farmout from Canada Southern and the group must spend $6.5 million to earn a half-interest in the wells and acreage.

Saratoga Processing Co. Ltd., an affiliate of Westcoast Transmission, has applied to the Alberta government for a permit to build Canada's first sour gas transmission line.

It would be a 45-mile, 16-inch line from the Savanna Creek field to a point near Coleman and would initially move 75 million cubic feet of high hydrogen sulphide content gas to a proposed processing plant three miles west of Coleman. The clean gas would then go into the Alberta Gas Trunk line to the Pacific Gas Transmission line and into the U.S. market.

National Association of Purchasing Agents survey of U.S. business for November takes a rather gloomy view of year-end prospects.

The association reports: "There is no doubt that business is ending 1960 on a recessionary note. Most purchasing executives express an uneasy feeling and, at best, say their companies are coasting and hoping."

Many American purchasing agents have reported that to date the real recession has been in profits rather than in volume of business. However, November production and new order figures indicate that both these categories worsened substantially during the month of November.

The pressure of rising costs is not being reflected in overall commodity prices, for prices are still drifting downward despite numerous complaints that present margins of profit are not adequate.

Purchasing men, the association reports, are being extremely cautious in their buying policies these days and are making only minimum commitments required to have material on hand to meet scheduled jobs.

Use of uranium as an alloying agent to improve the fatigue strength, corrosion resistance, and elevated temperature properties of certain commercial steels is seen as offering some hope to the hard-pressed Canadian uranium industry.

The new development is the result of 14 months' research by the physical metallurgy division of the federal department of mines and technical surveys. The program was financed by the department and the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. The process has been patented in Canada and world patents applied for.

SHIP LOADINGS SHOW INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP) — Vessels departing from Canadian ports for foreign countries reported cargoes weighing 50,455,303 tons in 1959, an increase of 25 per cent over the preceding year's 40,298,882 tons, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

All ports recorded increases. Pacific ports loadings advanced six per cent to 10,550,040 tons from 9,923,326 in 1958.

High Voltage Transmission Line Developed

LENOX, Mass. (AP) — The General Electric Company sent electric energy surging at 710,000 volts through a new prototype half-mile transmission line Thursday.

The highest previously reported experimental high voltage transmission was 600,000 volts over a short experimental line near Leningrad in 1954.

The $7,500,000 research under-written by GE and other companies was described by GE officials as of tremendous importance in meeting the problem of an increasing demand for electricity.

Extra high voltage lines would make it possible to locate plants in remote places beside a river or near a coal mine.

New Steel Process Now Available

OTTAWA (CP) — An exclusive Canadian metallurgical process for using uranium as an alloy in strengthening steel has been patented and now is available to the steel industry, Mines Minister Comtois has announced.

The method, developed after 14 months of research by the Physical Metallurgy Division of the mines department, involves the addition of about one pound of uranium to a ton of steel. This small amount of uranium improves the strength of steel, its resistance to corrosion and its properties at high temperatures.

Canada's Air Policy Blasted

HAMILTON, Ont. — Unless Canada's air policy is redesigned to cope with the pressures of the jet era, the air transportation industry could shrivel and die in the fierce heat of foreign competition. This warning was sounded by G. W. G. McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, in a speech to the traffic club here Thursday.

"Under pressure of the unforgiving economics of jet operation, the finest air service in the world will not alone insure the industry's survival. Unless we can expand and develop new route patterns, our air transportation will suffer the same fate as our merchant marine which was swept from the seas by foreign competition," the speaker said.

Criticizing what he termed the "ludicrous" bilateral air agreement between Canada and the U.S., Mr. McConachie said that the negotiations resulting in the present state of trans-border air service had been influenced by "selfish, shortsighted and restrictive policies imposed by special interests."

There should be direct Canadian and American air services linking the major cities of the two countries.

Advocating greater aggressiveness in bargaining for Canadian air rights abroad, Mr. McConachie supported an Air Industries and Transport Association proposal for creating a ministry of civil aviation in the Canadian government.

The one big asset
OUR BALANCE-SHEET CAN'T SHOW...

Big family — the B of M staff... more than fourteen thousand men and women serving two-and-three-quarter million customers in every walk of life from coast to coast.

These are the people who make the B of M — they are our "greatest asset" which no balance-sheet can show.

TRIBUTE

"It is always a rewarding experience to see the Bank in action in the field and, this year, I have been particularly impressed by the way in which our staff have carried the burdens which difficult monetary conditions and intense competition have placed upon them," R. D. Mulholland, B of M General Manager, told the Bank's shareholders at their 143rd Annual Meeting.

"It is in circumstances such as these that the quality of a staff becomes unmistakably clear and I can assure you that the fine spirit which animates our men and women has been much in evidence during the year. I would like to convey to our staff our sincere thanks and appreciation for the great contribution they have made to the results placed before you.

"Conventional expressions of appreciation are always inadequate, but I would like to say also a word of special thanks to my executive associates at Head Office and divisional points for their unfailing support and for the manner in which they have borne with distinction so much of the stress of the past year."

Royal City Re-Elects Grandmother as Mayor

By The Canadian Press

One-woman mayor was re-elected handily and two district reeves were upset in civic elections on the British Columbia mainland Thursday.

Voters also approved some $12,000,000 in money bylaws, put a woman into the top office of one of the province's three towns, defeated a proposal to fluoridate Trail's drinking water supplies and forced the city clerk in Vernon to cast a tie-breaking ballot in an aldermanic race.

In Nelson, the electorate turned down a suggestion to convert the old city hospital into a city hall.

In all, 88 communities went to the polls, with several voting only on money bylaws or referendums, having filled council and school board vacancies by acclamation.

Six more will vote next week, the City of Vancouver on Wednesday and five villages on Thursday — Ladysmith, which received a postponement of a week in its voting date, and Williams Lake, Tofino, Ucluelet and Zeballos, which weren't advised of a change in the Municipal Act setting the date ahead a week from last year.

The remaining 28 organized communities in the province filled all posts by acclamation.

SECOND TERM

In remaining 28 organized communities in the province filled all posts by acclamation.

In the only city mayoralty contest in New Westminster, Mayor Elizabeth Wood, a 53-year-old grandmother, was returned for a second term, winning easily over two male competitors.

She drew 3,486 votes, compared with 2,424 polled by Fred (Toby) Jackson, the man she defeated in 1958 when she first came to office, and 606 by former mayor and alderman, Lewis Sangster.

The result was considered an endorsement of Mrs. Wood's policies, which had brought about Mr. Sangster's resignation from council last summer. Mr. Sangster and the mayor tangled bitterly several times and twice the mayor had Mr. Sangster removed by police from council chambers.

Reeves were defeated in North Vancouver and Kitimat.

In North Vancouver, Dick Hannesson, a 43-year-old lawyer, defeated Reeve Murdo Frazer, who sought a second term.

Kitimat, which had the heaviest turnout of any community Thursday with 80 per cent of the eligible casting ballots, turned out Reeve M. E. Gooding and installed Sam Lindsay.

Mrs. Ethel Ogle, an alderman in the town of Mission City for some time, sent her male opponent out of office in the only mayoralty race among the three B.C. towns. She defeated incumbent W. J. Windebank 554 to 380.

Mayors Frank Spicer of Fort St. John and A. V. Fraser of Quesnel had been returned to office by acclamation on nomination day.

Among the money bylaws before ratepayers, only three major ones were defeated—a $700,000 proposal for a community recreation centre in Kitimat and two public works projects totalling $210,000 in Prince George.

PROJECTS APPROVED

In Kamloops, where the pressure on available space at Royal Inland Hospital has been tremendous for some time, ratepayers in the city and district approved expenditures totalling $2,238,877. Prince Rupert approved a $1,565,000 waterworks improvement bylaw.

In Vernon, city clerk Ian Garven had to cast his ballot to break a tie for the third aldermanic seat open. Frank Ryall and Ellwood Rice each polled 1,059 votes and under the Municipal Act, the returning officer casts the deciding vote in case of a tie. Mr. Rice said he would ask for a recount.

Generally, voting was light, an expected occurrence in an off-year for mayoralty races.

DRAMATIC AIRBORNE GUN BATTLE

Plane Theft Plot Fails in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A band of about 150 anti-Castro insurgents was reported fighting in central Cuba today after a new landing near Corralillo on the north coast 120 miles east of Havana.

Although the armed forces ministry called the report a "counter-revolutionary rumor," sources opposed to Prime Minister Fidel Castro insisted it was true.

Two militiamen were reported killed by one such band which came out of the mountains on a raid for food Thursday.

This report—one of several concerning armed clashes—came amid these other developments:

Authorities at Cienfuegos, near the south central coast, announced one person was killed and four were injured in an unsuccessful attempt of a group of counter-revolutionaries to seize a Cuban airliner in flight and force the pilot to fly out of the country.

A Cuban diplomatic note to the United States charged that a doubleheader space rocket, which fell in fragments near Holquin in eastern Cuba 10 days ago and killed a cow was a part of "that tremendous plot which under the stimulus and financing of your government is being schemed in the United States against our small but erect nation."

The attempt to commandeer the airliner was balked, Cienfuegos officials said when the pilot crashlanded the plane during a dramatic airborne gun battle.

The pilot, Capt. Francisco Martinez, 52, was gravely wounded. A total of 17 persons—all wounded. The co-pilot and Cubans — were aboard the purser also were wounded. plane, a twin-engined DC-3.

Damage Suit Dismissed After 2 Years

An action for damages in a car accident which occurred more than two years ago was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court here Thursday.

Gordon Henry Smith, 30, of 3935 Holland Avenue, Saanich, claimed that he wrenched his back in the accident which occurred on the Trans-Canada Highway on Nov. 9, 1958.

He and his father, Joseph Smith, claimed damages from Ronald William Jones and Barbara Jones of 200 Duke Street, Metchosin, who were travelling in the other car.

However, they asked leave to withdraw the action after George Gregory, counsel for the defendants, had cross-examined Gordon Smith on a number of points involved in the accident — particularly its location.

Mr. Justice H. W. MacInnes then dismissed the case.

FROM REAR

Earlier, Gordon Smith said he was driving a car south on the Trans-Canada Highway when the Jones car crashed into it from the rear as he was making a left-hand turn.

He said he wrenched his back when the car went out of control and crashed into a ditch.

SPORTS PARADE

Junior Jesse James

By OSCAR FRALEY

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — Child prodigies frighten most of us oldsters, giving us a natural sense of inferiority, and it's even worse when you have 10 thumbs and two left feet.

My personal genius is confined to a fumbling ability to replace light bulbs, a golf score which looks like a bowling score and a bowling score which should be a golf score. That's why I shudder when I meet a kid like Johnny la Ponzina.

Johnny is 12 years old, has a six handicap on the golf course and shot a four under par 34-34—68 on the tough Shawnee, Pa., layout.

To look at Johnny, you'd think he was a nice, normal kid instead of a potential Bobby Jones who could cut you up like salami on the greens. He is a pleasant, mannerly youngster with a big shock of black hair and smiling brown eyes.

GENIUS WITH A CLUB

Don't believe all you see. He's got to be a junior Jesse James; a miniature Dillinger of the divots; a pint-sized Pretty Boy Floyd of the fairways. The trouble is he's a genius with a golf club.

A five-foot, five-inch eighth-grader who scales only 135 pounds, Johnny admits modestly that his driving causes him some embarrassment. "I guess my putting and chipping is the best part of my game."

He's serious, too. For this is a youngster dedicated to golf and he plays it every day.

PRACTICE PAYS OFF

Born in New York City, he already is a veteran at 12. Johnny's father played at Bayside, Long Island, and the boy started swinging a club at the age of five. The family now lives in Miami and Johnny hits the Miami Shores Country Club course as soon as classes are over.

That dedicated practice already has paid off handsomely. Johnny won the U.S. national jaycee championship with a 36-hole total of 82-79—161. He also copped the Florida state Jaycee tournament with an 80-78—158. He has played in 20 junior tournaments and only once did he fail to finish among the first three.

Most kids want to grow up to be a garbage man, a fireman, a policeman, Johnny Unitas, a lawyer, a doctor or Jack Dempsey.

KID CAN'T MISS

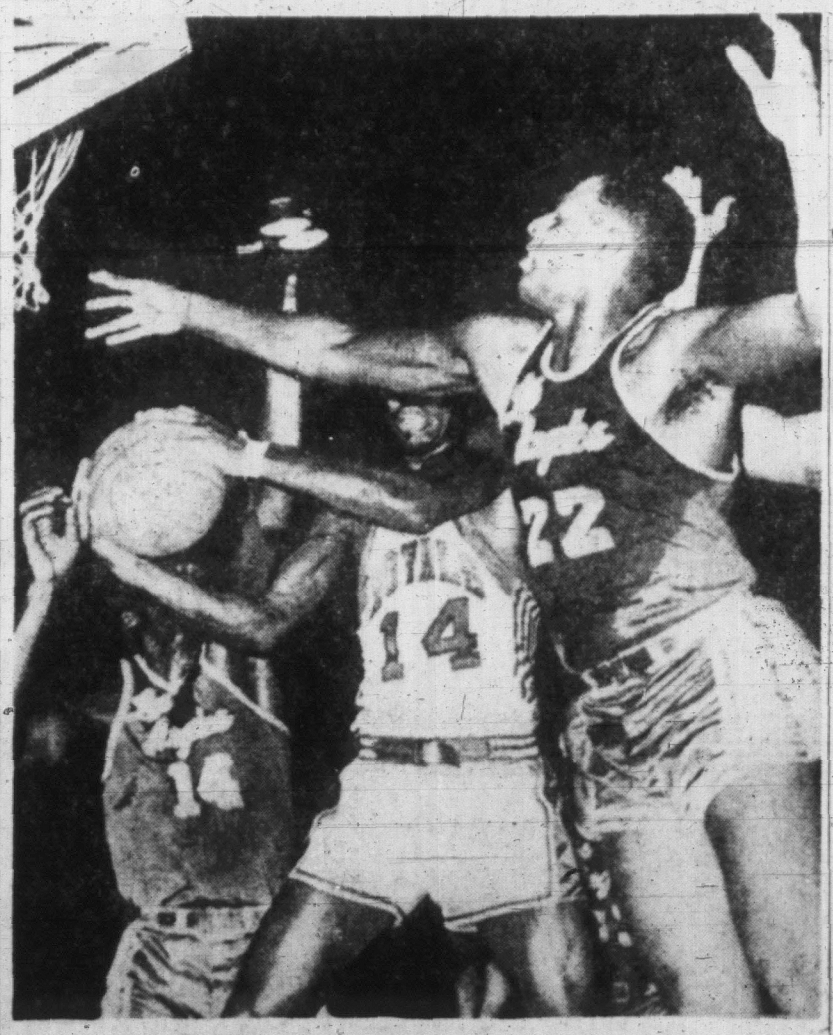
"I want to go to college first of all," Johnny says with a wisdom beyond his years. "That will be very important later on. But after I get out of college I want to be a golf professional."

Take it from Ed Furgol, a former U.S. open champion, the kid can't miss. Ed has been tutoring the boy several years, ever since the day the youngster drove into him from so far back "I couldn't hardly see him." The boy hurried forward and apologized. Ed took an immediate liking to the cut of his jib—and the fluidity of his swing.

Johnny has played with Arnold Palmer, Bob Toski and Furgol, in each instance scoring in the 70s.

"Golly, it makes you nervous when you tee off," he says, "but then you forget all about it after the first drive."

Nervy kid. Imagine him offering me nine a side. Particularly since I should get 10.



NO FOOLING, HE SCORED!

Rearguards Pour Into Cougar Camp

Cats to Clash With Warriors Here Tonight

The Bureau of Missing Persons may be called off the case now.

Georges Roy has been located.

Victoria Cougar coach George Agar announced Thursday that the burly defenceman is scheduled to join the Western Hockey League team when it launches an invasion of Prairie centres with a game in Calgary on Tuesday.

Is that definite?

"It's as definite as I can give it to you right now. Roy says he'll meet us in Calgary and this time I have a feeling he won't pull a disappearing act on us," declared Agar.

TOO FAR FROM HOME

Roy, 33, is the defenceman from Quebec who was scheduled to join the Cats a few weeks ago. His acquisition was announced with some fanfare but the burly rearguard never quite made it to Victoria.

"He explained he thought Victoria was a bit too far from home. He tried to join Hull-Ottawa and then Montreal of the Eastern League, but they wouldn't let him play. He's on the suspended list until he reports to me.

"He found himself on a spot. He has to play, so I guess he's decided Victoria really isn't that far from Quebec."

Cougars, whose prime interest at the moment is tonight's meeting in Memorial Arena with Winnipeg Warriors, now seemingly have an abundance of defencemen, which suggests that when it rains rearguards, it really pours.

LOSING STREAK

Agar, hoping for his charges to snap out of a four-game losing streak, Wednesday came up with big Ted Lebodia, a 200-pound defenceman who is also expected to join Cougars in time for the Prairie swing. Lebodia was offered a five-game tryout.

Thursday, it was time for Agar to announce that Pete Wright, a member of last year's cast, left the door open for his emergence from the ranks of the retired.

Roy was today's good news.

In addition to the aforementioned, Cougars' present cast includes Hugh Currie, Jim Hay, Don McLeod and Wayne North.

"Somewhere," muttered Agar, "in that group there must be four defencemen who'll help us on the way."

Tonight's game with Warriors gets under way at 8.30.

Vs, PACKERS COMBINE TO FORM OSHL TEAM

KELOWNA (CP) — A combined Penticton and Kelowna club will enter the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

This was decided here Thursday night at a meeting between executives from both cities. No details on the new team were immediately available but it was known that the players will be employed residents from both cities.

The Penticton Vs and Kelowna Packers both withdrew from the OSHL last week because of financial difficulties. Penticton, which was drawing good crowds, had difficulty finding jobs for its players.

Kelowna's coach, Jim Middleton, will coach the new entry.

PUCK OFFICIAL WARNS

Smokies Must Increase Speed

STOCKHOLM — A leading Canadian ice hockey official today turned thumbs down on Canada's chances against Russia in next year's world hockey championships unless the Canadian representatives improve 50 per cent.

Amateur federation chairman Jack Roxburgh said the Canadian team in the championships in Switzerland in March, Trail Smoke Eaters, "must improve their strength by at least 50 per cent if they are to have any chance against the very fast and strong Soviet team."

He said Canada must send the strongest team in her history to Switzerland if she is to win the world crown.

Roxburgh watched Chatham Maroons end a nine-game European tour Thursday night with a come-from-behind 3-3 tie with a Swedish national team here.

PUCK LOST IN SNOW

It was their second game against the Swedes. The Ontario club won Wednesday's opener 3-1.

In seven games against Russian teams, the Canadians won only a single game, tied one and lost five.

Thursday's game suffered from a heavy snow storm and play in the outdoor stadium was stopped several times for the ice to be cleared of snow. Several times the puck was lost in the snow.

"I am very impressed by the Russian team," he said. They are "at least 25 per cent stronger" than they were last year.

"Our players at the Switzerlandland tournaments must be very fast and increase their speed. Otherwise they will not have any real chance against the Russian players," he said.

The Russians, he said, are "particularly strong and are in much better physical condition than our players. It was mainly because of weak legs that the Maroons lost their matches. After only one period, many of our players were very tired in the legs."

Roxburgh said the Soviet tour went well.

"It is not true that we got bad food. Instead we got good and much food, but of course it was different from the Canadian."

Jim Says Carbo Helped Keep Managers in Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two prizefight figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed-door questioning by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, which made public a transcript of testimony he gave Thursday.

He testified he associated with Carbo in the fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who howled for more money and threatened to pull out of televised bouts.

Norris, 53, formerly headed the International Boxing Club, disbanded by court order last year for monopolizing championship fights. He was excused from testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. He already has suffered two.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris's contacts with Carbo. Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for undercover manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Of his relationship with Carbo, Norris said:

"It was a reluctant one that in some ways I sought to develop."

KEARNS DISCUSSED

Norris also discussed his employment of Jack Kearns, a veteran boxing manager who other witnesses had said received $137,000 from Norris Enterprises over a period of years. As Norris told it, his televised boxing shows were in desperate trouble caused by Kearns' International Boxing Managers Guild.

Kearns, testifying Wednesday, had made light of his role in the guild, but Norris said he viewed Kearns as a power in the organization.

BLAMED GUILD

Norris said he blamed the guild for labor troubles at Madison Square Garden, boycotting of his fights by some managers, and other troubles. "They were threatening us all the time," Norris said.

Ahead of Norris' appearance, Carmen Basilio's former managers — John DeJohn and Joseph Netro — testified the middleweight began getting into championship calibre fights after they started paying Gabe Genovese, pal of Carbo.

In his statement, Norris said he had been introduced to Carbo by the late promoter Mike Jacobs in New York.

The Senate group also had been told that former bookie Max Courtney had been paid some $76,000 from a company that handled television contracts for Norris' organization.

TURKEY WINNERS

Christmas turkeys were awarded to Mrs. M. Grant, net 71, and Mrs. L. d'Easum, net 73, in the women's tournament Thursday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Earl's Big Shots Produce Cup Lead

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—Young Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., had the big shots when he needed them the most today to beat Orlando Sirola, 6-8, 7-5, 11-9, 6-2, in a rain-interrupted match and give the United States a 1-0 lead over Italy in their Davis Cup inter-zone final.

Big Barry Mackay of Dayton, O., the Yanks' top player, met Nicola Pietrangeli in the second singles match of the best-of-five series to determine Australia's opponent in the challenge round, Dec. 26, 27, 28.

A crowd of only 2,000 took in the opening-day program on a cloudy afternoon. Rain fell about three hours before the start of play, cleared away for a few hours and then came down again in the third set of the Buchholz-Sirola match with the score all even at one set each and 6-6.

Play resumed after a 28-minute delay and both players decided to use spikes.

Sirola's powerful service came into action at that point and the Italian quickly gained two set points with Buchholz serving at 6-7. But then, just as he had done in the second set, Buchholz pulled out of trouble with neat passing shots that levelled the score 7-7. He eventually won the set 11-9 and coasted to a 6-2 win in the fourth set.

Putting Pays Off

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Barun, a husky in his late 40s from Grand Rapids, Mich., literally putted his way to a six-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Coral Gables open golf tournament Thursday.

Barun went out in 32 and came back in 33 over the 6,173-yard Biltmore course, going over par only on the 11th hole, which ironically he three-putted.

Tied at 66 were Marty Furgol and former PGA champion Jim Turnesa.

Sobers Sparks West Indies

BRISBANE (Reuters)—Garfield Sobers lived up to his reputation as one of cricket's greatest batsmen today as he ran up a score of 132, sparking the West Indies to a total of 359 for seven on the opening day of their Test match against Australia.

Veteran Frank Worrell provided strong assistance for Sobers with a score of 65. The two put on 174 runs for the fourt wicket after the West Indies had lost three men in an hour for only 65 runs.

Sobers hit 21 fours. He got his 132 runs in 152 minutes.

SEEK SUITABLE SITE — HOLDS SMALL-CAR MARKS

Russia Aims at Speed Record

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union has its eyes on Briton John Cobb's still-unequalled world land speed record of 394.6 miles an hour, set in 1947 on the Bonneville salt flats in Utah.

So far, Soviet manufacturers have not developed a car capable of approaching this speed, nor have they found a site suitable for such high-speed record attempts. But a small group of car enthusiasts is looking to the day when a Soviet speed artist will try to beat Cobb's record.

The automobile industry here, though developing, is still in its infancy. So record-breaking and motor-racing are really just beginning.

The Soviet Union already has entered the world racing lists. Drivers Eduard Lorent of Kharkov and Alexei Ambrosenkov of Moscow have held world records for small-engined 250 cc and 350 cc cars.

An eventual cracking of Cobb's record would be a great prestige achievement for Soviet motoring.

The search for suitable racing circuits and the right type of high-speed track began three years ago. A site was chosen in the heart of the Kara Kum desert, about 200 miles east of the Caspian Sea, in central Asia.

The track, some 12 miles long, was concrete hard and as smooth as glass. But it proved unsuitable for speeds of more than 150 miles an hour and has been abandoned for high-speed record purposes.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—This guy works down the shop could insult you with a smile. If he says good morning, it's like he just told me to drop dead. Of course, this creep's a New York Yankee fan. What else you expect him to be? He's the kind of a guy a Shylock could ask to be best man at his wedding.

I'm a Giant fan all my whole life. I don't mean the football team. I don't like no sport where everyone turns out to be a rassler. You think guys with a college education would be doctors or lawyers. Instead, they all become rasslers. Besides, I don't like no game that's a big secret. In football, they hide the ball from each other so good I never know what's coming off.

I like baseball, where everything's out in the open. But how could I root for the Yankees? I mean, I hate them since I'm a kid. All of a sudden, the Giants out of town. I never thought it could happen. It's like Chicago bought Broadway off New York.

★ ★ ★

It's like I'm Benedict Arnold's brother. I mean, I don't want to knock the Giants. But what could I do? All I can figure out is to play the evade for this Yankee fan. Anytime he sees me he tells me I better start rooting for the Yankees or I'll wind up getting bugged for being a lush. I mean, he tells me if you don't go up a ball game on a Sunday or a Saturday I'll wind up going to a saloon. He asked me what else is there to do?

★ ★ ★

I admit I tried a few things instead of a ball game, I started in looking at television. But all I see is private eyes slugging people. All I ever hear about private eyes is they peep over transoms to catch husbands cheating. I don't like private eyes. They must be shaking down the people they're trailing. How else could they be driving around in big Caddies and hanging around night clubs with beautiful broads?

The other thing is the cowboy programs. These guys ain't cowboys. You never see a cow even once in a while on these programs. These cowboys on the television are a lot of deputy sheriffs. They got to be on the shake, too. They all got hats on them cost at least a C-note.

All their shirts is made to order. Their pants don't come off a rack, either, because they're real tight to fit them. Another thing is the saddles they put on their horses. You know they must be stealing to afford saddles like that. The horses look like they could win the Kentucky Derby. How could they do that on a cop's pay?

I don't want no part of them.

Old Movies Like Going to a Wake

The only thing left is the old movies. I can't enjoy myself seeing so many dead people. Every picture I see has somebody dead in it. It's like I'm going to a wake every night. That ain't fun with me, looking at dead people.

I give basketball some of my business. But what's so great about some guy who looks like a giraffe dropping a basketball in a basket, just like I put a dime in a telephone? It's like cheering a guy for putting his hands in his pockets.

I even tried going to a few joints which is called art museums. They got a lot of pictures hanging on the walls. I walk around until my feet's sore. I see pictures with people got noses where their mouths should be. They tell me this is art. Some pictures ain't even pictures. They're just a lot of paint. It's like a painter fell off the ladder and spilled a bucket of paint on a hunk of canvas and they put a frame around it.

★ ★ ★

I admit I sneak a few peeks at the Yankees on the television, but I can't stand them. I give up on baseball if I got to root for them, but now we got a new New York team in the National League. You know what the Yankee fan down the shop calls them? He calls them the Nobodies.

★ ★ ★

He says I see you got a team to take the place of the Giants. Yes, I said, I'm happy. He says they ain't even got a player yet. I said they will have. He said, sure, a lot of bodies. I said, after a while, they'll be somebodies. He said they'll be like the poor souls you see down the Bowery flopping in a lodging house. They'll be a lot of derelicts.

What could I say? Can I tell him Willie Mays will be in centrefield or Hank Aaron will be in left? Since they said they was coming, the Yankee fan comes up to me and asks did the Nobodies win today? Who's pitching for the Nobodies? He gives me cramps.

I don't know how to handle the louse. How could I give Mickey Mantle the zing when there ain't even one player on the Nobodies? I got to break the habit. He's even got me calling them the Nobodies.

MIDDIE IN THE MIDDLE

Awarded Heisman Trophy Thursday as outstanding college football player in United States, halfback Joe Bellino of Navy finds himself buried in footballs during autographing session with other All-America gridders at New York.

Battle in NHL Cellar Just a Family Affair

By The Canadian Press

While Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks fight it out for first place in the National Hockey League, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are having their own family affair in the league cellar.

Thursday night, Bruins moved one point ahead of New York by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5-1. It was the sixth time this season last place had changed hands between Boston and New York.

Boston now has 19 points but has played three more games.

General manager Muzz Patrick of New York and his brother Lynn of Boston, engaged in a friendly squabble that began a few years ago, have often been quoted as saying they would rather beat each other than beat another NHL team.

MUZZ HAS UPPER HAND

But Muzz seems to have the upper hand right now. In six games between the two teams, Rangers have taken five decisions to Boston's one.

Charlie Burns led Boston's attack with two goals, both coming when Bruins were short-handed. Leo Labine, Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney tallied once each.

Ken Wharram averted the shutout for Chicago.

CONTINUE BATTLE

Saturday, the brothers Patrick will have a chance to continue their see-saw battle for fifth place when Bruins play in New York. In other games, Detroit is at Montreal and Chicago at Toronto.

Montreal's Dickie Moore, the league's top goal getter will be looking for goal No. 200. If he succeeds he will become the third 200-goal man on the team, along with Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau.

PRO BASKETBALL SCORES

Philadelphia 114, New York 111.
Cincinnati 118, Boston 115.

Evcoes Still Rate As Club to Watch

The spotlight has been on Kickers for most of the Victoria and District Football League season but Evcoes are still rated as the team to watch.

Currently in second place, one point behind Kickers, Evcoes have a game in hand and now boast the league's most impregnable defence with only eight goals against in nine games.

Evcoes are favored to beat Gorge Hotel Saturday at Royal Athletic Park and take a one-point lead but are expected to lose it Sunday when Kickers tackle Brodies Bakery at Heywood Avenue.

In other Sunday games Esquimalt will try for its second win of the season at Central Park in a clash with Canadian Scottish, Heaneys take on Saanich Thistles at Reynolds Road, and Nanaimo hosts Ladysmith.

Hoop Traffic Jammed As Puritans Clip Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Puritans created a traffic jam for second place in the Inter-City Senior Basketball League Thursday night in spite of B.C. Lions' Bob Pickell.

Puritans beat the Lions 90-80 as playing-coach Pickell scored a record 44 points. Puritans, Lions, Alberni and Vancouver Dietrich-Collins are now all tied for second place with four victories each.

League-leading Lethbridge has won eight straight and the last-place Vancouver Harlem Nocturnes have lost nine in a row.

Pickell broke his own scoring record of 39 points for one game. He scored eight points in the first quarter, 11 in the second, 13 in the third and 12 in the fourth. He now has 220 points in nine games.

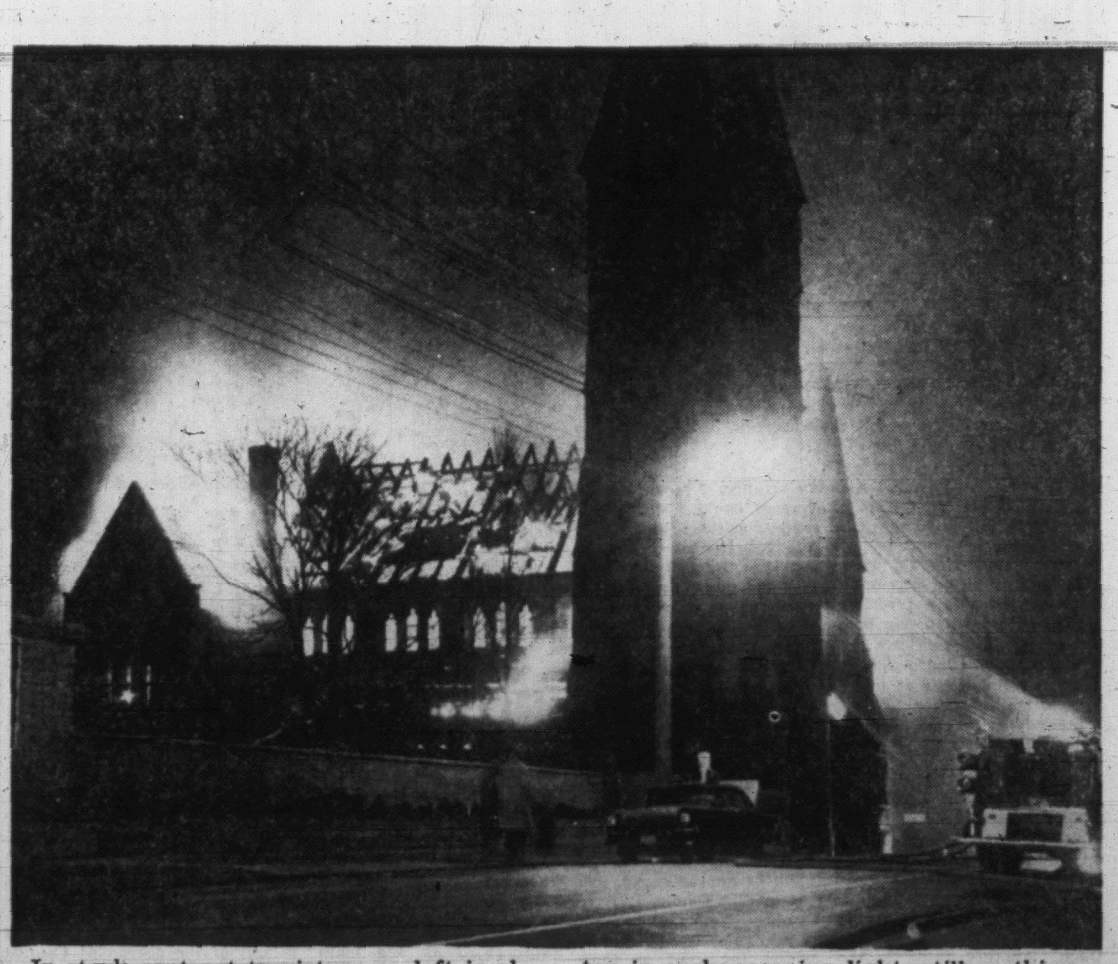
Peaceful Church Erupted Into Blast Furnace

Twisted, charred timbers in church interior look as if they had been strewn by giant, mad hand in horror nightmare. Because of crashing timber firemen couldn't battle flames from inside. Streams of water were sent at flames from all angles outside.



In stark contrast to picture on left is almost beautiful view of church's body skeleton in early morning light, still seething with grasping flame.

'ST. JOHN'S WILL RISE AGAIN'—ARCHBISHOP

St. John's will rise again. Archbishop Harold E. Sexton said today "obviously it will be rebuilt. It will have to be, but whether on the present site or not remains to be seen." Canon George Biddle said earlier "yes, we'll have to rebuild, but you can't replace an edifice like that." The archbishop inspected the fire scene and said "no comment can possibly express our feelings. The whole thing is just dreadful, dreadful. It is obviously the work of a firebug."

FIRE PICTURES BY STRICKLAND AND HALKETT

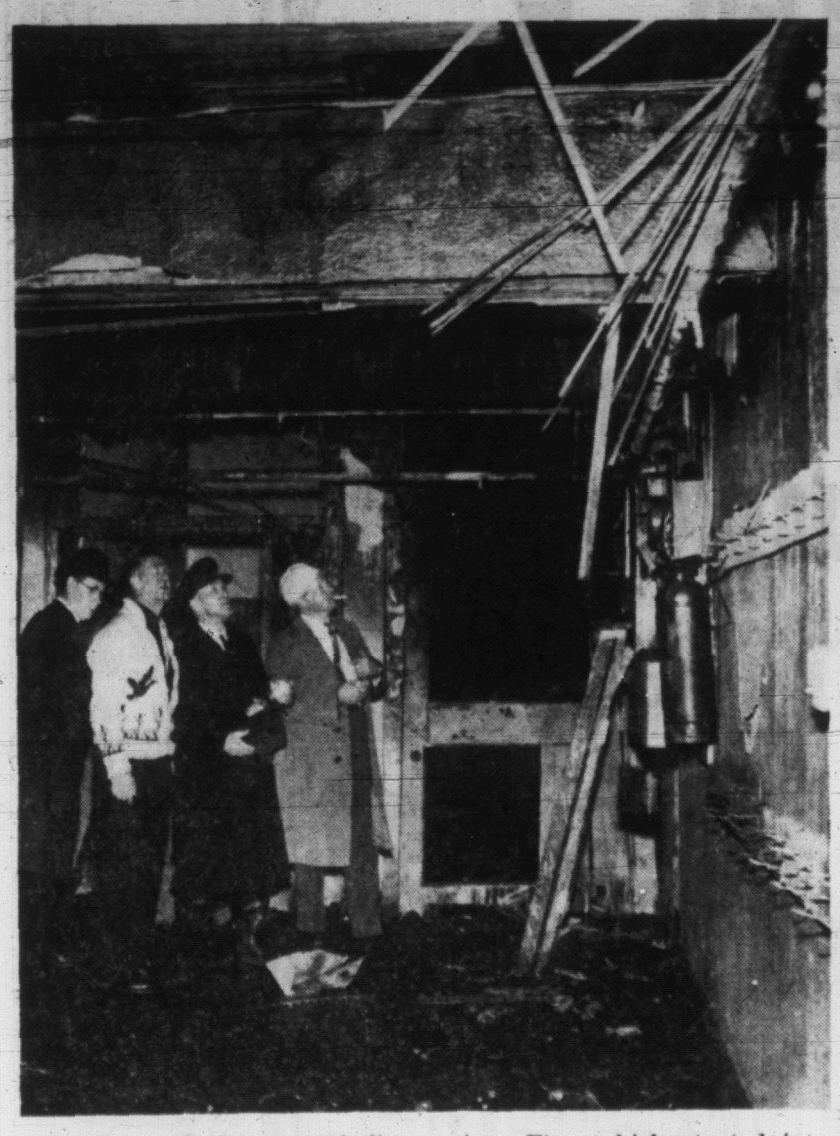
Fire hose lines look like jungle of worms as firemen mop-up shortly after dawn. Ladder in centre was used to give distance to water being thrown.



Members of fire marshal's office today inspected rear-end ruin of First United. On left is minister, Rev. A. I. Higgins. Fire, which started in basement, ate through floor above at back of church.

Looking through windows at flames inside is like view into nether regions or blast furnace. Effect is strangely cloister-like.

FACES CHECKED AT CITY FIRES

Pyromania and arson are no strangers to strangers to Greater Victoria.

Homes, barns and numerous grass fires have been deliberately set over past years.

Sentences up to two years have followed convictions.

Arson is when a fire is set to collect insurance; pyromania is when a person gets a thrill in starting blazes with no financial returns.

And generally the pyromaniac likes to see his "handiwork" burn.

For this reason police at the scene of today's blazes watched spectators closely to see if any undue exhiliration was exhibited by any one.

. . . COLUMBIA

the project, and also would skim off half the profits from the operating project until the federal advance is repaid.

'Cost Plus'

"This isn't at cost, it is cost plus," he said.

"The whole thing was a complete surprise; the whole thing was a very great disappointment."

Mr. Bennett added: "We're not playing any war, these are just hard facts."

The premier said he has already held talks in New York and elsewhere with financial leaders on the possibility of raising money for B.C. agencies such as B.C. Power Commission, which will build the Columbia dams.

B.C. Hydro bonds, mainly long-term, would be guaranteed by the province, he said, to finance the project.

"Thank goodness B.C. is debt-free and its guarantee is good," he added.

Mr. Bennett said profits from the project would be shared with Ottawa in proportion to its investment on the basis of its proposals. As far as he is concerned, he said, profits will stay in B.C. Hydro for turning back into its projects.

Won't Give Up

He stoutly proclaimed his determination not to give up an inch on the Ottawa request for a new, separate agency to oversee the entire project.

He said the Columbia's potential belongs to the people of B.C. and the Ottawa idea would "effectively remove control of that resource from this province."

"There's only going to be one entity, that's the power commission," he said. "We don't want any fifth wheels."

"The proposal of the minister of finance is therefore unacceptable. As stated before, the government of B.C. will meet its responsibility to the people of this province by carrying out the development on their behalf once the international questions are settled.

"We shall proceed forthwith to make the necessary financial arrangements, and in order to facilitate this action I shall again request from Mr. Fleming an answer to my question concerning the amount of the outright federal grant."

After Mr. Bennett had made his statement Justice Minister Fulton held a press conference at the Empress Hotel.

He accused Premier Bennett of misrepresentation, errors and playing politics with the proposal.

He denied that the federal government is seeking profits from the big power project and he denied it was to take the resource away from B.C.

Up to Bennett

He said it is now up to Mr. Bennett to modify his demands.

The reason Ottawa wants to set up a special agency to carry out financing is to ensure the terms of the international treaty with the U.S. are met and to avoid "improvident" actions. It would also see that none of the revenue from the Columbia goes to "pet projects" of Mr. Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett as is his usual custom is presenting a completely false impression on the nature and effect of the federal government offer," said Mr. Fulton in a long statement to reporters in his hotel room Thursday night.

It followed Mr. Bennett's reaction to a letter delivered by Mr. Fulton from Finance Minister Fleming containing the financial proposals.

Remarks attributed to Mr. Bennett are an indication "either of his unwillingness to consider it or his deliberate attempt to misrepresent it," said Mr. Fulton.

'In Error'

Mr. Fulton said Premier Bennett is "in error" on these points:

That Ottawa will charge B.C. $40,000,000 extra interest for kicking in $170,000,000 toward the project;

That Ottawa will take profits from the project over and above repayment of the $170,000,000 and its interest;

That Ottawa will snatch control of the project from B.C.;

That B.C. is entitled to the same deal as Saskatchewan got for its big dam.

He said Mr. Bennett threatens to "go it alone" in financing the entire project because he knows it is such a good project the financing charges will be cheap.

He contended that a new separate federal-provincial Columbia development agency would be able to obtain cheaper money than either of the two governments, or B.C. Power Commission, and that failure to recognize this will prove costly to the people of British Columbia.

He said that British Columbia could go alone on the financing but Ottawa still will insist on some "police" agency to protect the treaty and the benefits from being "sold".

Mr. Fulton also attacked Premier Bennett for airing his view in public and not to the federal government.

Most Generous

Mr. Fulton said the federal government has made the most generous offer ever submitted to a province on hydro power.

"It is this offer which Mr. Bennett has rejected for his own political purposes and to the prejudice of the people of British Columbia."

He said it appears that the premier had made up his mind to reject the offer long before he received the terms.

Mr. Fulton said the federal government is not offering a loan. It wants to make a joint partnership in a self-liquidating project.

He said there is nothing in the offer about a "brokerage charge" to British Columbia of ⅛ of 1 per cent on the money. He said Ottawa will put up the money at the best interest rate obtainable by the federal-provincial agency it proposes, or at the same rate as the province pays for its share.

The premier's suggestion that the federal government wants to share in the profits of the scheme is "completely erroneous," said Mr. Fulton.

Here is how Mr. Fulton explained the federal offer:

"We have offered to advance half the cost of creating storages to produce these enormous benefits for B.C. The present estimate of this federal advance is in the neighborhood of $170,000,000.

The money would be paid in advance as contracts were approved.

No Guarantee

"We offer it on a basis that involves no guarantee or liability on the part of the province as far as the advance is concerned.

"We offer it on the basis of repayment of our investment would be made only as and when the earnings from the project make repayment possible."

He said if the province wanted to it could retire the federal advance more quickly, but the basis of the offer is that if there are no profits, there is no repayment.

"We offer it at interest rates that would be the same as rates applicable to provincial advances and that would be determined by the rate at which funds for such a purpose could be obtained on the open market. Even though it involves some risk, the interest rate we could receive would be lower than the interest rate at which we could borrow."

Misrepresented

Mr. Fulton added: "If there is no profit after operating costs we would get no repayment of our capital advance."

He said it is "complete misrepresentation" on Mr. Bennett's part to suggest B.C. would lose control of the project. "It has been made abundantly clear physical control and operation of the projects would remain with the province."

He gave these reasons for setting up a special control agency: "To ensure discharge of obligations under the treaty"; supervision to see "nothing improvident is done"; the federal government is making the treaty and it is a national policy.

"We are not prepared to allow benefits accruing under this treaty to be sold for cash into provincial general revenues and to be used for other pet projects of the premier of B.C.

"Our interest," he added, "is to ensure the enormous benefits of cheap power are passed on to the people of B.C. — so it will be reflected to the ordinary householder in lower light bills."

HEAT CRUMPLES CEMENT PILLARS

Sampson himself couldn't have created the havoc here. Pillars exuded cement under blast of heat after woodwork had been consumed; gave look like elongated gravestones.

Grief-stricken by the destruction of venerable St. John's Church, Rev. Canon George Biddle (left) watches heroic attempts to quell the blaze with Victoria fire chief James Bayliss who called in extra men and equipment.

CONGREGATION OFFERS SYMPATHY TO CANON

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Widespread sympathy was felt today for Rev. Canon George Biddle, the kindly, good-humored rector of burned-out St. John's.

He celebrated his birthday only last Tuesday and his general popularity was demonstrated in the large birthday cake and the numerous good wishes he received from the congregation.

"It is tragic that he should lose his church after all the devoted 20 years of service he has given to it," said Mrs. Lester Small, a prominent worker for St. John's.

"No one could have shown more courage."

FIRST WAR SOLDIER

Through the years Canon Biddle has suffered recurrent illness and several operations as the result of a severe mustard-gas attack during the First World War in which he served as a fighting soldier.

"With all this, he is a prodigious worker who never knows when to stop," said a member of his congregation.

But, after his night-long ordeal with the burning church, Archbishop Harold Sexton persuaded him to go to bed and cut off his phone.

Victoria Anglicans and members of other churches recognize Canon Biddle as a cheerful man of God whose sermons are notable for their wit, anecdote and good sense, and his church was often packed to the doors.

CLERICAL MR. PUNCH

He has a kindly, humorous countenance that might suggest a clerical Mr. Punch and he carries the light-hearted air of a man who has come to terms with life.

Although he was born at Bournemouth, England, Canon Biddle's habit of hard work was formed in his youth when as a clerical student he rode the Alberta foothills helping farmers and ranchers with their chores and conducting services in remote places.

Once he went to Dinton, Alta., to re-open a church which had been out of use for many years. The church was dirty and unpainted and there wasn't a pane of glass in it. The skunk and the gopher had taken over.

The Dinton townsfolk rallied round him and soon the church was neat as a pin and filled with people. They saw him off en masse when he returned to the Anglican Theological College at Vancouver to complete his training.

FOUR CHILDREN

Later he had charge of St. Barnabas' Church, Calgary, which was burned down in 1957, and of churches at High River and Pincher reek. Then he went to St. Philip's at Dunbar, Vancouver.

Canon Biddle married a High River school teacher, Ethel Mildred Steele, and they spent their honeymoon travelling around Britain in a retired ambulance purchased for $25.

At St. John's he has acquired a reputation for pre-marriage counsel and pictures of many brides and grooms hang in his study in the rambling rectory behind the church.

Canon and Mrs. Biddle have four children—three daughters and one son — and a host of friends among the young people of St. John's.

USED IN TWO CORONATIONS

Priceless Abbey Frontals Saved, Gem Window 'Lost'

By TONY DICKASON

Saved from the flames which ravaged St. John's were two tapestry altar frontals from Westminster Abbey.

They were part of church decorations at the coronations of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The rich frontals were dedicated in 1938 and 1954.

Both were presented the church by the Ker family, Victoria pioneers.

But the priceless stained glass windows are gone.

"These are irreplacable," said Canon George Biddle.

The Gem window alone was valued at $75,000 while the 12 apostle windows had a value of at least $1,000 each.

Then there were the memorial windows, links with early Victoria families.

The windows were among the first to go as pressure built up inside the church.

Canon George Biddle and verger Jack Brownie, assisted by police and firemen rescued the altar frontals and communion silver.

They grabbed an armful of valuables each and ran.

Among the many valuables lost was the oaken pulpit, hand-carved in the late 1800s by Rev. Percival Jenns, rector for 46 years.

Lost also was the reredos, the woodwork behind the altar, also hand carved and designed by First World War veterans in the Red Cross workshop.

Gone, too, are the font and hanging lamps, brought around Cape Horn for the Old Iron Church.

. . . CHURCH FIRE

foundations, firemen and electrical engineers feared it might crash across the street, tear out some principal power lines and demolish Rosedale Manor apartments at 1612 Quadra.

Evacuated

Occupants of the four-suite block and a four-apartment house next door at 1608 were evacuated as a safety measure.

Both St. John's rectory and parish hall escaped fire damage.

A "wedding buzzer" served as an automatic fire alarm at St. John's, where the blaze was well under way.

Through a freak short circuit caused by the heat, the buzzer stuck "on" and its persistent sounding awoke Canon George Biddle, who slept with his wife, son John and daughters Mary and Joan in the adjoining rectory.

He got up to see what was the matter and discovered the house filling with smoke. The church, separated from the rectory by a fire door, already was smoke-filled.

Mrs. Biddle explained the buzzer was used at weddings to signal the rectory, where grooms awaited their bride's arrival on the church steps.

A Favorite

It was a favorite church for weddings and contained many beautiful furnishings. Its wood panelling and beams and many stained glass memorial windows gave it a warmness often lacking in the traditional "high Anglican" church.

Canon Biddle, caretaker Jack Brownie, 1911 Chambers; firemen and police all helped carry portable furnishings and other valuables from the sanctuary.

Communion silver and some Westminster tapestries were among the items saved.

Cons. Gordon Bennett, whose father retired as assistant fire chief last summer, said: "I was coming out of St. John's rectory for the third time with things we grabbed in the smoke. This woman told me the other church was on fire."

The woman was Mrs. T. W. Scott, wife of St. John's assistant rector Canon Scott, 935 Balmoral, who said "I saw smoke over the rectory door and thought I was dreaming at first."

'Your Church'

The fire at First United was reported by a telephone call from building superintendent George Schoeman, who lives next door on Balmoral. He said he was looking at the St. John's fire when a neighborhood boy, Donald Little, 948 Balmoral, pointed and said, "There's smoke coming from your church, too."

"I went right over, but at first I thought, it's just a boy talking. When I got there you couldn't see across the main part of the church for smoke.

"I phoned the fire department and they said, you've got the wrong church, it's St. John's. But I gave them the address—I guess I was excited—and they came in a few minutes."

All doors had been locked, he said, having checked them himself at midnight.

Firemen broke an exit door to get into the basement gymnasium.

The church's new $10,000 carillon, dedicated in October, appeared to have been ruined by intense heat from adjoining banquet room, scene of the blaze that burned through heavy timbers and actually broke through flooring in a main floor hallway.

The organ at St. John's was considered the finest in B.C.

"I watched it burn up. It was a beautiful thing," Canon Biddle said as he stood in the middle of Quadra as firemen poured water on the steaming ruin.

In the rosy-hued dawn, ugly dark shapes and the undamaged spire were etched against the sky.

The sound of windows being blown out in the extreme heat awoke Walter Yeamans, of Rosedale Manor. He looked out from his second floor window directly opposite St. John's and saw flames breaking through the roof.

"I said to my wife, we'd better get out of here. Just then the police came and told us we had to move.

"I kept looking at the church burn. I couldn't believe it could happen right in the centre of the city.

"I feel very sorry for Canon Biddle. He has worked hard. I have lived here about 20 years — and before that in other parts of Victoria — and he built that congregation from a very small one."

'. . . and Whoosh'

Larry Furlong, 1608 Quadra, said he got up about 4 a.m. and heard sirens. "I looked out the bathroom window and saw the trucks. Then I looked out again a few minutes later and—whoosh . . ."

Cons. Fred Acreman, one of the first police to arrive, said when he got there smoke was "coming out of every crack and window. It was burning down below, you could hear it if you walked along the sidewalk, but could not see it.

"I was helping get Canon Biddle and his family out of the rectory. We were just coming around the front from the parking lot when flames broke through and started coming out the windows."

Joan Biddle, well-known amateur swimmer, said: "When I woke up the house itself was full of smoke."

Her sister, Mary, said: "There was a lot of smoke in the church. It was about half an hour before flames broke out."

Firemen Praised

Mrs. Biddle, who with her daughters was sitting half a block away in a darkened car, watching the destruction of the church, said:

"The firemen did wonders. But it means the loss of a lot of pretty and irreplaceable things like the communion silver, the wood carving, the stained glass and the most wonderful pipe organ."

At this time Mrs. Biddle was not aware her husband and others had braved the choking smoke to save some of the valuables.

She said the last service performed in the church was at 10.30 a.m. Thursday, a communion held by Canon Scott.

Plane Wreck Spotted

MONTREAL (CP)—A helicopter crew today spotted the main fuselage of one of two RCAF jets involved in a mid-air collision near the Ontario-Quebec border early Wednesday. No sign has yet been found of the four men aboard the planes.

HISTORY MADE BY 'OUTSIDE' FIREFIGHTERS

Local fire-fighting history was made Thursday night when Saanich and Oak Bay each sent a pumper truck into the city to help battle the St. John's Church blaze.

The assistance was given under a mutual-aid pact covering the four Greater Victoria fire departments.

But Fire Chief James Bayliss told city council this year that although the city had sent equipment to assist the other municipalities, it had never received help itself because the smaller departments usually couldn't spare trucks.

CHUBB DAZED

Organist Mourns Console

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

Churches that have been gutted by fire can be rebuilt and the soaring pipes of new organs can eventually rise above the ashes of the old.

But these things take time. And time, says Frederick Chubb, organist for 15 years of glorious but unostentatious music-making at St. John's Anglican Church, is not in his favor.

Elderly, often ailing, Mr. Chubb is regarded as one of Canada's finest organists and composers of organ music.

But he feels that in the flames that destroyed St. John's church early today, his career as a church organist has come to a virtual end.

MOURNS LOSS

"No doubt we will carry on as well as possible in the parish hall," he comments. "We will get some mimeographed music and there is the little organ . . ."

Mr. Chubb, dazed by news of the fire, mourned for his wonderful console — "undoubtedly the best in British Columbia"—and for the fine library of music he had built up through the years.

"The wardens were always so generous—never a demur no matter what I wanted to order. And last night . . . one of the best choir rehearsals we've ever had . . . all the Christmas music. . ."

OUTSIDE CONCERN

Characteristically, however, one of Mr. Chubb's main concerns is for the effect of the catastrophe on a young Dutchman named Hugo Spilker.

Spilker is a new Canadian and one of the extremely few organ builders and voicers ever to follow his craft in Victoria.

He had spent the last two years working on St. John's organ, repairing and asembling it so that all parts were accessible for maintenance, latterly he had worked on re-voicing the pipes.

This most delicate of organ-building skills, was to have been completed early in the New Year.

Frederick Chubb, fine artist and brilliant musician, knows exactly how Hugo Spilker, fine craftsman and brilliant technician, will be feeling today.

CHURCH HULK MADE SAFE

Farmer Construction Ltd. of Victoria today took over the work of making the burned-out hulk of St. John's Anglican Church safe from falling debris.

"We shall board up the windows and reinforce the structure as far as possible," a spokesman said.

"We will then await instructions as to what is to be done with the church."

Burglar Given Term He Sought To Learn Trade

A 22-year-old Victorian who appeared in city police court today for sentence on two charges of burglary got what he asked for—a penitentiary term.

Robert Barry Jackson, no fixed address, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary by Magistrate William Ostler.

When Jackson pleaded guilty to the charges last week, he asked the magistrate to send him to penitentiary so that he could learn a trade.

He pleaded guilty to breaking into the provincial government Douglas Building, 617 Government, on Nov. 20 and stealing cash from a vending machine.

He also admitted breaking into the Victoria Social Club, 654 Yates, with intent to steal.

Weather Hits Europe

LONDON (AP)—Fog, ice or snow—and in some places all three — blanketed much of Europe and the British Isles today.

Canada Hopes to Keep Inflow of U.S. Money

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is striving to avert application to this country of new United States regulations in the American foreign aid program which might cut into a $10,000,000 special market for Canadian goods in less-developed nations, an informed source said today.

Pressure is being applied on the U.S. to recognize that while this country is in a solid financial position, it cannot be regarded as the same drain on U.S. foreign aid funds as Japan, West Germany, Britain and France.

The problem arose from a U.S. state department order resulting from the Eisenhower cabinet's concern over the foreign aid drain on American funds. The International Co-operation Administration, the state department's civilian foreign aid agency, decided that countries receiving U.S. foreign aid should not spend this money in countries considered to be economically strong.

Canada was listed with Japan, West Germany, Britain, France and most of the West European countries. All are considered by Washington to be economically strong and in no serious balance of payments difficulties.

The Canadian government is trying to impress Washington with the argument that while this country is economically strong, the fact it has no serious over-all difficulty over balance of payments arises from the fact that U.S. investment capital is pouring north into Canada. Without it, Canada would be in serious straits.

EXEMPTIONS ALLOWED FOR

So far, the new state department order has not been worked out in detail. It allowed for some exemptions, and Canada is confident of being able to take advantage of them.

One cabinet source said "we haven't felt any pinch yet." Another said "We won't have anything to worry about."

U.S. foreign aid funds now are coming into Canada at the rate of about $10,000,000 a year from the less-developed countries

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC — ONE OF A SERIES

Europe's Puzzling Periphery

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Though the booming Six of the European Common Market regard the Seven of the European Free Trade Association as an unnatural combination doomed to failure, they are more important and formidable than they sometimes look, especially to Canadian business. Before we consider the real crunch of the deepening North Atlantic dilemma the Seven should be examined as a peripheral factor in the European economy but a cardinal factor in Canada.

Hutchison

Britain joined Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria and Portugal to form a limited free-trade area after France and Germany had rejected a similar arrangement embracing all of Western Europe.

While willing to reduce and finally eliminate all tariffs between the members of the club, Britain insisted that each must fix its own individual tariff against the world. The Common Market of the Six not only proposed to abolish tariffs between its members, but to erect a common tariff against the world. And that common tariff, as we shall see later, is the hubbin of the North Atlantic's developing economic squeeze.

Most Are Poor

Among British statesmen and economists the Seven are variously regarded as a useful counter-weight against the Six, as a bargaining counter to force Britain's way ultimately into the Common Market, or as a dismal proof of Britain's blunder in rejecting the terms of Germany and France in the first place.

Whatever one may think on that score, the most obvious fact about the Seven is their collective poverty (though some are rich individually) as compared with the Six. Among the Seven only Britain is a great, rich and populous nation. The remainder are small in power, population, resources and trade.

Nevertheless, the Seven are in business, they are reducing tariffs between themselves toward zero and they possess some little-noted assets. The thrift and relatively high living standards of the Scandinavians; the skills and marvelous ingenuity of the Swiss; above all, the mighty machine shop and unequalled international experience of Britain make the Seven a substantial grouping whose goods will force their way into markets all over the world. In fact, the Seven are too often discounted only because the Six in combination have so much more wealth, trade and people.

Large Stake

At all events, the Seven buy from Canada far more goods than the Six. Our exports to the Seven were worth some $900 millions last year, of which $790 millions went to Britain. The Six together are buying from us at the rate of about $300 to $400 millions annually. Hence our stake in the Seven is large and has been growing larger as Britain has rapidly increased its purchases in Canada.

But the Seven, by their tariff arrangements, pose immediate difficulties for Canada.

At present Canada enjoys in Britain a system of tariff preferences that do not affect some 60 per cent of our exports, since industrial materials and basic foodstuffs like wheat enter Britain duty-free. The preferences, however, are regarded in Ottawa as extremely valuable in promoting our sales of processed foods and our increasing sales of manufactured goods on which British tariffs against the world are relatively high.

As Britain reduces its tariffs against its trading partners our preferences on manufactures in the British market will be eroded and will finally disappear, so far as competition with those six partners is concerned. We shall continue to enjoy our advantage over all other sellers in the British market, and our sales of most agricultural products will not be much affected since they are generally excluded from the free-trade arrangements of the Seven.

Unforseen Effects

The main preferences affected by these arrangements, says Mr. Fleming, cover wood and paper products other than newsprint, certain machinery items, magnesium and some chemicals. In these products the other members of the Seven compete with us for the British market.

No one can foresee the final effects of the Seven's free-trade system on Canada. At first sight these plans appear to be damaging because they assure six European nations an easier entry into the British market for manufactured goods than Canada enjoys. Those nations will not only erode our existing preferences but will establish even larger preferences of their own.

On the other hand, our competitors are relatively small sellers in Britain compared to Canada because they are themselves relatively small producers. They supply only about 17 per cent of Britain's imports from non-Commonwealth countries. Their competition with us will be sharp in some areas, not large, relatively, in total.

Moreover, if the Seven increase their general prosperity by increasing their joint trade, as they hope, they will buy more from the world at large and Canada can participate in this growth. But important and imponderable as these prospects are, they do not touch the central problem and fear of the Canadian government.

Federal Gov't Launches Own Trade Newspaper

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has launched its own international trade newspaper, the Canada Courier, an eight-page tabloid that will carry the story of Canadian products and industry around the world.

The first issue was unveiled at the current export promotion conference here. It will be distributed from Canada's trade offices in 49 countries.

A trade department announcement said the newspaper will be published every three months in English, switching to a monthly basis as soon as possible.

UNION CHARGE

'Principle Of Justice Reversed'

The 17,000-member B.C. Railway Unions Thursday asked the provincial government to repeal Bill 43 and that labor be given a chance to make further representations on any changes of labor legislation at the next session of the legislature.

The requests were made in a brief delivered to the cabinet by the legislative committee of the International Railway Brotherhoods.

J. A. Rennie, of New Westminster, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said the brief contains no reference to checkoff of union dues by employers, abolition of which has been sought by the construction industry.

OPPOSED

"We are opposed to abolition of the checkoff though," he said.

He added that most of the railway union men are employed by federal companies and many of them do not have the checkoff.

"It is respectfully suggested that when your government proposes changes in labor legislation," said the brief," that representatives of labor be afforded an opportunity to make representation prior to final enactment."

REVERSED

The brief also says that Bill 43, the government's Trade Union Act, has cancelled many protections previously given to labor and "reverses the accepted principle of justice whereby it provides that a trade union is presumed to be guilty until its innocence is proven."

The brief contains request for a number of revisions in the amount of compensation which may be paid, a shorter waiting period for the compensation to start, wider interpretation of the word accident, full compensation for injuries aggravating already existing conditions.

SAFETY

There are also a number of recommendations on highway safety.

They include a law making traffic remain in the right-hand lane except when passing, a province-wide course in highway safety education in schools, mandatory jail terms for persons driving while their licences are under suspension and more highway first aid stations.

Another road recommendation is a ban on trucks on the highways from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday.

The brief says this is laid down in the Lord's Day Act.

Other requests include: a government sponsored medical insurance plan, higher jury fees, no provincial sales tax on school supplies, domestic fuels and lighting, and pensions for widows.

'Near Riot' By Students

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) Police Thursday night used tear gas to break up what they described as a "near riot" and "mob scene" involving about 200 Waynesburg college students.

Eighteen were arrested on disorderly conduct charges, jailed four hours and then released after paying fines of $10 apiece.

Police said the crowd was gathered around two students who had been seized, stripped of all clothes except underwear and tied up.

Freighter Christened

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters)—A new 14,825-ton freighter was christened Stove Transport Thursday by Mrs. Gordon Southam, daughter of H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver, head of Canadian Transport Company. The ship, to be launched in about a week's time, will be chartered by Canadian Transport from owners L. Lorentzen of Oslo for three years as soon as it is ready to sail.

Five-Vote Difference In Aldermanic Race

WHO WILL IT BE? YOU OR ME?

Watching recounts intently this morning were city aldermanic candidates, in background, W. C. Hudson on left and A. W. Toone, as city workers went into a fifth count of their votes. Mr. Hudson was ahead by two votes Thursday night when they went to bed. Mr. Toone was ahead by one vote this morning as the lunch hour approached. There was a possibility that a judicial recount might be called.

Sixth Recount Looms in City

A judicial recount to decide who won the fourth aldermanic seat in Victoria's civic election Thursday night appeared probable today.

After five counts, which saw the two contenders leading at various times by one or two votes, W. C. Hudson appeared to have the current hold on the seat with 1,866 votes—five ahead of A. W. Toone, at press time.

It was the closest race for a city council seat on record.

Mr. Toone, awaiting confirmation of the fifth count just before press time said he probably would ask for an official recount by a judge as provided under the Municipal Act.

Saanich Sewers Finally Win

Interest in the other municipalities centred on Saanich's approval of sewering the Cadboro Bay - Gordon Head - Shelbourne area after two previous defeats, and Oak Bay voters' forceful "no" to the principle of paying their councillors a salary.

The dramatic battle between Mr. Hudson and Mr. Toone began early Thursday night when the first count showed Mr. Hudson had 1,867 votes, 21 more than Mr. Toone.

A routine recount narrowed the gap to two votes more for Mr. Hudson than Mr. Toone and at that point the ballot boxes were locked up for the night and everyone went to get some sleep.

Mr. Toone at the time observed that Curtis, Dowell, Griffin and Hudson appeared in that order at the top of the long ballot and this may have had "a psychological effect" on the voters. Mr. Toone's name was 10th.

Mr. Hudson admitted that the evening had been very exciting."

This morning, about a score of counters began a second recount in City Hall with returning officer Frank Hunter, Mr. Toone and Mr. Hudson and their agents, watching the count.

It wound up giving Mr. Toone a two-vote edge. A fourth count was made and this showed Mr. Toone only one vote ahead of Mr. Hudson's 1,858.

The fifth count was held using a new technique — all the Hudson votes were segregated and counted and then all the Toone votes were segregated for a count.

Only 31 Per Cent Voted

A "so-so" turnout for a non-mayoralty year saw 31 per cent of the city's voters go to the polls. The city election campaign was the dullest of the three in Greater Victoria with no sharp issues to divide the candidates.

Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. Arthur Dowell ran one-two in the polling, repeating a familiar pattern set in several past elections. Close behind came newcomer Michael J. Griffin, a plumbing firm director, who entered the race only half an hour before nominations closed last week.

Saanich voters elected three familiar faces to the 1961 council and finally approved installation of sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head-Shelbourne area.

It was the third time that the $1,200,000 project was put before the west-side voters. Only those affected by the two money bylaws — for a trunk sewer and a system of laterals —had a vote on the issue.

Both previous votes were defeated narrowly but this time the measure went through with a 3 per cent margin over the required 60 per cent approval.

"I think the people will find it is a wise decision. It means a great step forward for Saanich," said Reeve George Chatterton, who campaigned hard for the favorable vote.

Former Reeve Tops Saanich Poll

In filling the three council vacancies, Saanich voters gave solid support to Joseph Casey, former reeve and councillor, who led the returns from the first poll. Re-elected were Coun. Ainslie Worthington and Coun. Harold Todd.

But newcomer Robert Chard fought a see-saw battle with Coun. Todd throughout the counting until he lost out finally by 31 votes.

George Curran came from behind to beat David Nightingale for the School District 61 trustee vacancy. Richard Hilton trailed both.

Oak Bay voters split their votes to re-elect three councilors, who favored pay for civic office holders, and solidly rejected the principle of pay for council.

The pay referendum was defeated 1,394-901 and although the 1961 council is not bound to act on the voters wishes, it appears likely that Oak Bay will return to its former practice by cutting out the $720 annual salary for reeve and $240 for councillors that was inaugurated last year.

Only other municipality in B.C. refusing to pay its councillors is Central Saanich.

Veteran councillor Fred Hawes topped the poll. He was followed by John Watts, seeking his second term, and another veteran, Fred Robinson. Newcomer Harry Gregson lost out by 150 votes.

CARS COLLIDE

Alderman, Mayor Meet —Hard Way

Michael J. Griffin bumped into Mayor Percy Scurrah on the street a short time after he was elected as an alderman for the first time Thursday night—but he didn't say hello.

The accidental meeting occurred about midnight on the slippery Foul Bay-Fort intersection and it sent the chief magistrate's car into a utility pole.

This is how it happened: Mayor Scurrah's car was attempting a left turn when Mr. Griffin's car collided with its rear.

The mayor's car spun across the intersection in an arc and sheared off a telephone pole at its base but the overhead wires prevented it from falling.

Medium damage was caused both cars, according to a police estimate. No one suffered injuries.

"I'm told that it was Mr. Griffin but I personally haven't any idea who it was. All I saw was a bunch of people around the other car," the mayor said today.

$4,500 DEPOSIT MISSING

Disappearance of a $4,500 bank deposit from a Victoria bank last weekend was disclosed by Chief John Blackstock today.

Refusing to name the depositor or bank while an investigation is in progress, the chief said so far the matter is simply one of "money missing."

He said an 18 or 19-year-old stock man and an assistant manager from a department store (not one of the major two) took nearly $4,500 in a deposit bag to a night depository slot Saturday.

Whether the money actually was put in the slot was not known definitely, the chief said.

The two employees have both been interviewed.

The depositor notified police of the loss Wednesday afternoon.

2-Year Terms For Burglary At Elk Lake

Robert Alister Borgal, 723 Yates, and Donald Nelson, no fixed address, were sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to two years less a day on charges of breaking and entering and theft from an Elk Lake service station Nov. 14.

The terms will be served concurrently with similar terms imposed the day before in Colwood police court by Magistrate A. I. Thomas for offences at Ladysmith, Chemainus and the Malahat.

At the same time Magistrate Thomas sentenced Albert Jenik of Vancouver and Robert Jackson, no fixed address, to two years for their part in the Up-Island offences with Nelson and Borgal.

'IN LOVE'

Also charged in Saanich court in connection with the Elk Lake offence was Bela Piocza, no fixed address, who was sentenced to 18 months.

He had asked for leniency on grounds that he was "in love with a very lovely girl and wanted to get married."

'Time Come for New Look' At Use of B.C.'s Forests

Responsibility for recreational use of privately-owned land in B.C. is "not a one-way street," the provincial government was told today.

Hugh J. Hodgins of Vancouver, retiring president of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, said at the concluding session of the 51st conference:

"The time has come in B.C. when we should examine now whether or not the government is meeting its responsibilities where public use of private facilities and land are more or less demanded for recreation purposes.

"I refer specifically to responsibilities which concern, first, fire losses through carelessness and the cost of fighting such fires; second, malicious damage to property and equipment upon which many men's livelihood depends, and, third, the cost of administering and supervising public access programs on privately-owned areas."

Speaking at the end of a morning session at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Hodgins pointed out that "no reasonably-minded forest operator or forest owner will have any argument with a reasonable multiple-use concept . . . but there comes a time when it is necessary to examine the situation.

"In my opinion the time is here in B.C."

Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, predicted that recreational activity on some kind of forest land will increase 40 times over in the next 40 years.

"Recreational physics will dwarf space physics and we may be taking in billions instead of millions," Dr. Turner said.

EXPLODE

He warned that a stampede of "city-jaded" humanity towards the forests would explode in the faces of public and private land managers unless they made plans to cope with the problem.

Dr. Turner said all forest land managers are on "a recreational treadmill" since, as more areas are made available, more people pour in.

"Private companies must furnish recreational areas and co-operate with public agencies," he said.

Compromise Not Backed By Ramsay

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, city arena sub-committee chairman today indicated he will oppose a compromise proposal sent to council by Memorial Arena commission.

The compromise was to be received and discussed by city council this afternoon at a special meeting. It involves rehiring of arena manager Joe Dukowski as a promoter, rehiring of all six employees who quit in September, and creation of a general manager's post.

"I don't see how I can support that," said Ald. Ramsay. "I don't see how it is workable."

Ald. Ramsay said he was not certain what council could do.

"It appears, under our by-law, we will have to accept it or ask for the commission's resignation. Technically there is no middle course, such as amending the proposal."

Tory Leader's Resignation Due Saturday

Provincial Conservative leader Deane Finlayson is expected to resign at a meeting in Vancouver Saturday.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Provincial Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Finlayson said in October that "there's an appropriate time for announcements and indicated he is planning to quit.

"We think this is an appropriate time," said a local Tory who will attend the meeting.

"If Mr. Finlayson doesn't tender his resignation there'll be pressure put on him to do so," said the delegate.

The Tories did not win a single seat in the provincial legislature in the Sept. 12 election.

Mr. Finlayson has been leader since 1952.

Another big issue at the meeting Saturday will be an attempt to reunite provincial and federal Conservatives.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN MILL FIRE

A planer shed and motor lumber carrier were destroyed by fire of undetermined cause that broke out at 3.46 p.m. Thursday at Acorn Lumber, Tyee at Bay.

There was no estimate of damage, but an unofficial figure of $50,000 was suggested.

Blaze lit up the sky and attracted people from all over the city, causing a traffic jam.

Protection Falls Apart

A ridge of high-pressure air which gave Victoria its clear weather this week has collapsed and cloudy skies are on the menu for the weekend.

A weak weather front will pass over the city tonight, according to weatherman William Mackie, to give cloudy skies and the possibility of a little rain.

Skies will be cloudy Saturday, and a disturbance suspected of lurking somewhere between here and the Hawaiian Islands likely will arrive with showers Sunday.

Temperatures overnight will drop to as low as 31 degrees, depending on location, and the maximum Saturday will be 45 degrees. Winds will be easterly at 20 miles per hour Saturday night and Sunday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

John Scott Arniel, 1497 Myrtle Avenue, $50 careless driving.

Arthur Dickworth, 1744 Adanac, $35 careless driving, licence suspended, $50 failing to remain at scene of accident.

John R. Angus, 3672 Crestview Road, $40 careless driving.

Gary A. Taylor, 2610 Avebury Avenue, $40 careless driving.

Curtis LeRoy Thibault, HMCS St. Laurent, $25 no driver's licence.

Robert Sam, 9 Cooper Road, $20 inadequate emergency brakes.

$1,100 Forgery Charged in City

Pleading not guilty to a charge of forging a cheque to the value of $1,100, Norman Bradley of Victoria, was remanded in city police court today to December 16 to set a date for trial.

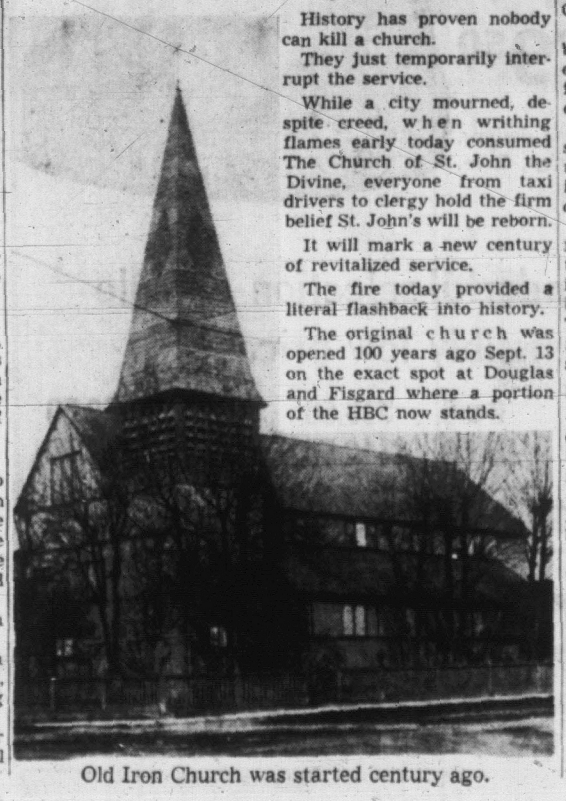
Churches Don't Succumb Easily —Only the Service Interrupted

★ ★ ★



Old Iron Church was started century ago.

By TONY DICKASON

History has proven nobody can kill a church.

They just temporarily interrupt the service.

While a city mourned, despite creed, when writhing flames early today consumed The Church of St. John the Divine, everyone from taxi drivers to clergy hold the firm belief St. John's will be reborn.

It will mark a new century of revitalized service.

The fire today provided a literal flashback into history.

The original church was opened 100 years ago Sept. 13 on the exact spot at Douglas and Fisgard where a portion of the HBC now stands.

It was known as the "Iron Church."

The almost legendary story began in London when Baroness Burdett-Coutts offered funds to build a church in far-off Victoria.

She didn't send money. She sent the church itself, prefabricated sections of galvanized iron, around Cape Horn by clipper ship.

The property was purchased from the HBC for $1 and when the new St. John's was built in 1912, the land was bought back by the HBC for $140,000. The money went to build the new church — the one destroyed today.

FIRST CONSECRATED

Thousands of Victoria residents were baptized, confirmed, married and buried in and from both churches.

The Iron Church was the first church in the colony to be consecrated.

Centenary of the founding was observed in September with unveiling of a bronze plaque on the HBC by then Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

Cornerstone of the original church was laid by Sir James Douglas, then governor of the Vancouver Island colony and governor of the HBC on April 13, 1860.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Is there a Communist party in the United States and if so, is it legal? D.C.

A. The Communist party, as a political party in the United States, was outlawed by an act signed by the president, on August 24, 1954.

Q. Is attending school in British Columbia compulsory or can one arrange correspondence tuition if considered more desirable and beneficial. This is referring to junior grade children. F.L.

A. No, if there is a school available, or unless the child is disabled and cannot attend.

SHOPPING GUIDE

These Monstrous Crackers Give Zip to a Party!

By PENNY SAVER

Today I saw the most monstrous cracker ever! If you are planning a children's party soon you're bound to please your little guests if you have one of them as a colorful centre-piece. They're a full 21 inches long, are in rosebud pink and decorated with golden bands, stars and pink roses. Inside are 12 assorted decorated hats, 12 novelties and, of course, the same number of amusing mottoes. Giant crackers are priced at $1.25.

To really get the party off to a good start use some of the novel snowmen I saw selling at 60 cents. They'd be ideal for place markers for they have hollow "tummies" that could be filled with their favorite candies.

One rotund snowman is carrying a parcel and has a bright red cap and scarf. His dapper companion is smartly dressed in a black top hat, yellow pants and sky blue tie.

Have you ever met a child who could resist delicious milk chocolate? One store is importing several novelty items in English chocolate that are worth considering when you're out looking for Christmas stocking goodies.

Little girls will love chocolate manicure sets that sell at 35 cents and contain scissors, nail file, emery board and nail polish. Their brothers will whoop with delight when they get one of the "milk cartons" that contain six bottles of chocolate "milk." These are priced at 49 cents. There's a chocolate Christmas tree, priced at 35 cents.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"I'll bet if Floyd Patterson could see this he'd be shaking in his boots."

Poinsettias and Yule Logs St. Mary's Bazaar Decor

Sum of $1,050 was realized at annual Christmas bazaar of the St. Mary's Women's Parish Guild held recently in the church hall. Green boughs and scarlet poinsettias were used as decor and tiny Yule logs, glistening with glitter, centred individual tea tables. Mrs. Thomas B. Bird, president, and the general convener, Mrs. E. E. Lord, received guests.

Presiding at head table were Mrs. H. J. Jones, Mrs. R. O. Wilkes, Mrs. A. E. de L. Nunns, Mrs. W. A. Stokes, Mrs. M. W. Turner and Mrs. H. A. Bowden.

Conveners were: Candy, Mrs. C. W. Duck, Miss N. MacDonald, Mrs. A. L. Harvey and Mrs. T. R. Mackay; plants, Mrs. T. S Whittemore and Mrs. G. Ingledew; gifts, Mrs. T. W. This molded Star of Bethlehem salad is made with grated fresh carrots and diced oranges

Special Glamor for Holiday Buffet

This is no time to forget "auld acquaintances"! If you have been wanting to invite some of your favorite people, but hesitate because you feel this calls for an elaborate spread, just remember that the modern style in entertaining is simple, even though the food should be as good as you can make it.

Plan your menu around a fresh fruit or vegetable salad, either molded or arranged attractively. An orange and carrot Star of Bethlehem is as good as it is beautiful. Serve this with cold roast chicken, thin bread-and-butter sandwiches, one or two good cheeses and a plate of Christmas cookies or fruit cake and coffee.

As accompaniment, consider open-face cheese sandwiches run under the broiler until bubbly. Or small hot rolls filled with crisp bacon, pork sausages or turkey salad.

The tart-sweet flavor of fruits sharpens the appetite and makes everything else taste better—especially meats. Guests who are weight-watching can relax and enjoy the refreshments since fruits are famous for their low calorie count.

If you want classic simplicity plan your menu around an arrangement of the finest fruits and vegetables you can find and let guests help themselves.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM SALAD (Orange and Carrot)

Four envelopes unflavored gelatine, 1¼ cups cold water, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup hot water, 6 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1½ cups fresh orange juice, 1½ cups grated fresh raw carrots, ½ cup diced oranges.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add sugar, salt and hot water. Stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Pour in lemon juice and orange juice. Mix well. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in carrots and oranges. Turn into a 1½-quart star mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Just before serving, turn out onto a serving plate. Garnish with holly. Serve with mayonnaise. Yield: Six servings.

DEAR ABBY

Need I Say More?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I went to a card reader who told me my lucky number is three. I know she is right because on the third of September I met Louie and I fell for him right away. This card reader said I would find happiness with the third man I fell in love with and she was right again because Louie is my third big love affair. He has been married twice before. (See, I am lucky three!)

I want to know if you think I am putting too much trust in the card reader. (She described Louie to a "T" and she never even saw him, and everything in my past happened just like she said it did.) My brother says I am plum nuts. MAGGIE.

DEAR MAGGIE: When you have an expert like your brother to consult, why go to a card-reader?

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A soft-hearted young miss wrote that she loved a young man but hesitated to marry him because his favorite sport was hunting, and she thought it was cruel. You advised, "If you feel that way about it, don't marry him."

Abby, the young lady and you (along with countless other uninformed people) should learn more about conservation and wild life. More wild birds and game starve to death, or are killed by weather or other wild animals than by hunters. By comparison, an arrow or bullet is a merciful death. I hope you are big enough to change your advice in print. Many sportsmen are waiting for this one. A. R. K.

DEAR A. R. K.: Thank you for your very enlightening letter. You've changed my mind and now I am changing my advice. To the reluctant young miss: If you really love the guy, don't let a couple of dead ducks stand between you.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband lies for his buddy and expects me to do the same. When this buddy's little pregnant wife calls here looking for her husband, I am supposed to say, "He WAS here but he just left." Then I'm supposed to call a number where this no-good chiselling bum is, and tell him his "mother" is looking for him.

My husband says we are helping to save a marriage, but I don't see it that way. My conscience bothers me. What would you do in my place?

DEAR TROUBLED: I'd refuse to be a party to the whole evil mess. Your husband would be a better friend to his buddy if he sat down and tried to straighten him out.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHOM IT MAY CONCERN": He who cannot forgive others destroys the bridge over which he himself one day must pass, for everyone needs to be forgiven.

In the children's classes, winners were Barbara McNeill, green and gold arrangement; Judy Johnston, tree ornament, and Valerie Barnes, place cards.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. 59

Colombo Plan Student Good Ambassador for Ceylon PM

By Elizabeth Forbes

Mr. K. D. H. Dharmawardene, one of five Ceylonese in Victoria at present as Colombo plan students, is more interested in making the first woman Prime Minister of his country — indeed, in the world — come alive for you, than he is in explaining his own place in the government of Ceylon.

Forbes

The visitor grew up in Attanagalla (the rock), where Prime Minister Sirima Bandaranaike and her late husband, Solomon W. D. R. Bandaranaike (assassinated in September, 1959) lived and were well known.

"My parents knew Solomon Bandaranaike; his parents and my grandparents also knew each other," Mr. Dharmawardene explained, his dark eyes shining.

"We knew the Prime Minister's father, Barnes Ratwattee, too. He belonged to the influential hill country people. He owned much land and was a local chieftain during the British rule in Ceylon."

In quick, high voice, the visitor sketched in the background of Sirima Ratwattee Dias Bandaranaike, who came out of her home to carry on her husband's political policies shortly after a Buddhist monk shot and killed him.

While her husband was alive Mrs. Bandaranaike remained much in the background, Mr. Dharmawardene told me.

"Within her home, however, she did learn much from her husband, who was the Prime Minister before her. They talked together, for Solomon Bandaranaike respected his wife's opinion. There are those who say she had much influence in the just decisions he made."

Mr. Dharmawardene's eyes softened when he added: "He was a very kind man and very thoughtful of his people. His wife is very kind, too, but she can be very firm, and this perhaps leads her to stronger decisions."

She Followed Husband's Footsteps

Sirima Bandaranaike was born 44 years ago and was educated at exclusive St. Bridget's Convent. She married her late husband in 1940 when he was minister of local government. There are three children, two daughters and a son, all in their teens.

Mrs. Bandaranaike is a devout Buddhist, as is Mr. Dharmawardene.

There was a time when Mrs. Bandaranaike used to say she was not the political type. But her husband's untimely death and her dedication to his cause changed her mind.

She plunged openly and actively into politics, took over the leadership of her late husband's middle-of-the-road Socialist Freedom party ("It is like a Social-Democrat party," Mr. Dharmawardene explained) and decided to seek the nation's highest post of prime minister.

"It was not for power," Mr. Dharmawardene said earnestly, "she was firmly convinced that it was her duty to make whatever contribution she could towards the welfare of the millions of people in Ceylon who loved her husband and were devoted to his cause."

In July this year, her party won control and she was elected prime minister.

Mr. Dharmawardene is an investigating officer in the local government department of municipal affairs and public administration. He was in this work before last summer's election.

With his four companions he was named a Colombo Plan student after going through rigid examinations — "so it would be certain that the best men were chosen in the various categories".

He, of course, is a member of the Sri Lanka (Freedom Party).

The Ceylonese visitors will be in Victoria, studying at the Parliament Buildings, and on the Lower Mainland, with headquarters in Vancouver for three months, before returning to their country.

The past three months were spent in the Prairie Provinces, with headquarters at Regina.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Governor to Attend Ballet

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will attend the performance of the National Ballet in the Royal Theatre on Boxing Night. They will be accompanied by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Pearkes of Vancouver, who will be spending the Christmas weekend with them at Government House.

Next Week at Government House

Calendar of events at Government House next week is filled with engagements both here and in Vancouver. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will cross to Vancouver on Monday where, after a tour of the Delta, he will attend a reception in the home of Mr. L. L. Goodwin, president of the Delta Board of Trade, and also the 50th anniversary dinner of the Board of Trade at Ladner.

On Tuesday the Consul of Japan, Mr. Muneo Tanabe and Mrs. Tanabe will call on the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes at Government House. That evening, the Lieutenant-Governor will be guest of honor at a mess dinner given by the First Battalion, PPCLI, Work Point Barracks, Esquimalt.

Thursday, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will give a small luncheon at Government House and in the evening will attend the annual reception and Christmas dinner given by the Toastmasters' Club, No. 38, 1st Canadian, in the Pacific Club.

Next Friday, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the annual Christmas party of Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the Empress Hotel and the same day will cross to Vancouver where they will be guests of honor at a dinner given by Chief Justice and Mrs. Sherwood Lett.

The Lieutenant-Governor will act as chairman of a Rhodes Scholarship selection committee meeting at University of British Columbia on Saturday, Dec. 17. That afternoon in Victoria, Mrs. Pearkes will attend a Christmas party of the Junior Branch of the Victoria SPCA at Spencerhouse and will present prizes to winners in art and literary competitions.

Women

Tiny sisters pictured with their mother were principals in the last double christening in St. John's Anglican Church before it was gutted by fire Thursday evening. In a ceremony last Sunday the nine-month-old was given the names Kellie Ann, and her sister, 23 months, the names Dorothy Erin. Canon George Biddle officiated. Children are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Moriarty. Godparents for Erin are Mrs. Richard J. McCarthy and Mr. and Mrs. Austin E. Smith, and for Kellie, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Newnham and Miss Linda Redden. Grandparents are Mr. Emerson Smith and the late Mrs. Smith of Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moriarty of Okanagan Falls, B.C. A tea followed at the family home on Linden Avenue where Mrs. John Houston presided at the tea table.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB

Mrs. Pearkes to Attend Annual Christmas Tea

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, who has consented to become honorary president of the Women's Canadian Club, will be an honor guest at the club's annual Christmas tea for members, to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 14, in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel. Honorary vice-president, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, will also be a special guest.

Club president, Dr. Olga Jardine will be hostess

Hostess at the tea will be club president, Dr. Olga Jardine.

Program will include a presentation of the Christmas story, correlating the two media of music and graphic art, with Mrs. Douglas Abbott, soprano, and Mrs. Hans Gruber, contralto, contributing duets and solos. They will be assisted by Mrs. W. B. Milburn at the piano.

Decorations will be in the Christmas theme. Doors will open at 2.30 p.m.

From Halifax

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Challice of Halifax, N.S., arrive in Victoria on Thursday. They will spend an extended visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Lt.-Cmdr. Charles R. Manifold and Mrs. Manifold in their home on Kings Mill Road.

Of Personal Interest

Badminton Weekend

A team from Esquimalt Badminton Club will visit Port Angeles this weekend where it will participate in inter-club matches with Port Angeles and Seattle Badminton Clubs. A buffet dinner and a party will follow the day's play on Saturday. Members of Esquimalt Club taking part are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Atkinson; Misses Karen Mowat, May Inglis, Janet Butler, Pam Johnson, Ruby Atkinson and Veral Mowat and Messrs. Ray Guilhmoulie, Frank Karpick, Charley Faulkner, Bob Davies, Fred Jenkins, Bob Linworth and Frank Tahouney.

At Royal Roads

Members of the Vancouver Island branch of the Royal Military College of Canada and their wives will attend a buffet supper at the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads this evening. There will be 45 guests. Col. R. O. Bull will preside at the annual meeting which follows the supper.

Deanery Tea

Eighteen members of the James Bay Christ Church Cathedral Parish Guild were entertained at the tea hour on Wednesday by Mrs. Brian Whitlow in the Deanery. Decorating the rooms and the tea table were chrysanthemums grown at the Deanery. Mrs. H. Wilkinson presided at the tea table.

Coffee Party

Miniature Christmas trees were used to decorate reception rooms in the Upper Terrace Road home of Mrs. A. W. J. Smith when she entertained at the coffee hour on Thursday. Green and blue baubles highlighted pine boughs that were used with copper candelabra on the head coffee table. Mrs. E. A. A. Boulden and Mrs. Arthur Poyntz presided and Mrs. Larry Wagner and Mrs. Len Acres acted as serviteurs. There were 50 guests.

Birthday

Mr. Edgar Crossley, 1539 Bay Street, is celebrating his 97th birthday today. Mr. and Mrs. Crossley, who is 84, will be at home to friends and relatives this evening from six o'clock on. The couple who celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary in 1958 have been residents of Victoria for past 12 years. Family includes six children, 14 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. Mr. Crossley was born in Centreville, Ontario, in 1863.

St. Richard's Ladies' Guild, Monday, at 8 p.m., church hall. Election.

Family Sends Taped Messages From Jamaica for Wedding

When Miss Fay Hope Carter of Victoria became the bride of Allan Ronald Boyd, RCN, of Vancouver last Monday, surprise of the evening reception was playing of a tape recording from the bride's family who live in Mandeville, Jamaica.

In return a recording of the wedding service and reception was sent, along with messages from several of the guests, back to Jamaica. Mayor Percy B. Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah were among guests sending their good wishes.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carter of Mandeville and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Boyd of Vancouver.

The double-ring ceremony took place in St. Paul's Naval Garrison Church, Esquimalt, with Rev. J. A. Roberts officiating. White daisies and chrysanthemums decorated the candlelit chapel.

The attractive bride entered the church on the arm of Sqdn.-Ldr. Sam Lane. She wore a gown of off-white satin cut on empire lines with long chantilly lace train and a shoulder-length veil held by a dainty headdress of tulle trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a shower bouquet of Esther Reid daisies.

Miss Yvonne Clearie was maid of honor in a gown of floral chiffon over satin. Miss Rosina Lane and Miss Dorothy Lane were bridesmaids in dresses of peau de soie in deep purple and flame.

Ross Sinclair was best man and Bill Lockhead was the usher.

Sqdn.-Ldr. Lane and Mrs. Lane were hosts at a wedding reception in Olde England Inn. Rooms were decorated with holly, white wedding bells and colored lights. A four-tier wedding cake was cut.

Receiving guests were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd and Mayor Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah. Mrs. E. C. Conarroe sang and David Palmer played the Hammond organ.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to the United States, Mrs. Boyd donned a navy blue dress with white yoke and topped it with a powder blue coat. A white fur hat, white accessories and corsage of pink carnations completed the going-away ensemble.

Upon return, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will live on Richmond Avenue.

Canadian Daughters, Assembly No. 5, Christmas party, Monday, at 8 p.m., in Newstead Hall. Church parade Sunday postponed until December 18 in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

KENNEDY HEIR BAPTIZED

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr., 13 days old, was baptized Thursday.

President-elect John F. Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, went to the chapel of Georgetown University Hospital for the baptism of their first son and second child.

A score of persons were in the small white chapel when Rev. Martin J. Casey, pastor of the Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, which the Kennedys attend, baptized the baby.

H. Partridge, long-term members of the branch, were presented with a plant and a book respectively, by the new executive.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She Fears Overweight Will Wreck Her Home

Q. "I Just read your article in last night's paper and want to tell you about myself. I have been married for five years. My husband loves me very much but I have gained 50 pounds since our first child arrived. I have lost all personal pride. My husband has begged me to lose weight. He has even been interested in another woman. He says she is everything I am not, pleasant, attractive and neat.

Lowman

"I have got to lose weight or wreck my home. Please help me. I start on a diet and gradually get off. When we were married, I was very attractive and had a very nice figure. My husband begs me to return to the girl he married.

If there is anything you can say to help me, please do."

A. I thought I had heard everything but this is a new one on me! You seem interested in keeping your husband and your home. You know that your relationship with your husband is endangered and yet you will not lose weight to save it. Certainly you have had the strongest activation any woman could have, to know that her husband is interested in another woman.

It seems to me that you are caught in a vicious circle which is composed of many conflicting elements. In the first place, you know that your husband loves you. He no doubt shows you this in many ways. You may even suspect that his remarks about the other woman are made to jog you into a reducing routine.

I imagine that his interest in this woman is not yet serious or you would be more concerned. However, do not push your luck too far. If you do, the time may come when he no longer notices or cares how you look. So long as he does, for goodness sake get busy and do something about it!

On the other hand, it is extremely depressing and discouraging to be told by the man you love that you are unattractive, that he finds someone else more attractive. It was a stupid and cruel thing to say to you. However, perhaps it was a last resort effort on his part. Perhaps many men would have given up, said nothing more, and gone their way. Evidently your husband is still in love with the girl he married — YOU — so don't let him or yourself down. You probably are depressed by your overweight yourself and will be much happier when you lose it.

Don't think of the 50 pounds you must lose. Take it five pounds at a time. Every five pounds lost will encourage you to lose the next five.

Q. "I am 22 years old, five feet two inches tall and weigh 101 pounds. My husband insists that I am underweight and is perpetually trying new ideas to make me gain. I am in good health and have plenty of energy. Do you think I should try to add pounds?"

A. Even if you have a small build, you are on the slim side. Why not gain five or six pounds to make him happy?

Crowning Gift

NEW YORK (AP)—Before she left Brussels to become the bride of Belgium's King Badouin on Dec. 15, Dona Fabiola de Mora Y Aragon was presented with a royal crown, gift from the Spanish people, that she will wear at her wedding. The crown is in gold, studded with diamonds, emeralds, pearls and other precious stones. Presentation was made in Madrid by Dona Carmen Polo de Franco, wife of Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

NEW YORK-MELBOURNE 88 MINUTES

This Plane Plain Fast!

WASHINGTON (AP) — A design for an airliner which would fly from New York to Melbourne, Australia, in one hour and 22 minutes with passenger fares lower than available at present was outlined before the American Rocket Society Thursday.

A normal feature would be seats individually molded to each passenger, with the airline hostess "freezing" the passenger's mold after he had snuggled deep into the structure.

The design was described by William M. Swenson, project engineer for preliminary design at Bell Aerospace Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y.

It calls for mounting a 30-passenger transport piggyback on top of a six-engined mother craft.

When the big mother craft, or booster plane had attained an altitude of 120,000 feet and a speed of 5,300 miles an hour, 100 miles from its airport of departure, the rocket-powered transport on top would take off from a rail launcher.

The rocket engine would burn for four minutes, climbing to an altitude of 300 miles and attaining a speed of 16,000 miles an hour — only 2,000 miles an hour less than orbital velocity.

Swenson said the booster plane would cost $15,000,000, the transport craft $5,000,000, and the operational cost of each flight would be $23,000.

That would permit a round-trip fare of $1,550, compared with the current first-class fare of $1,800 for the 10,200-mile New York - Melbourne route. The trip now takes 37 hours and 50 minutes using jet facilities where they are available.

SOUTHEAST U.S. HIT BY HEAVY SNOWSTORM

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — One of the heaviest—and earliest — snowstorms in recent years has stranded motorists, isolated communities and cut off communications through wide areas of southwestern United States.

The storm blanketed Arizona and New Mexico with up to 15 inches of snow in some areas while a heavy rain preceding the storm threatened a major flood in east Texas.

New Mexico was the hardest hit in the three-state area. All major highways in the state were closed stranding many motorists in out-of-the-way cowtowns.

TO BRING 3 CHINESE TO CANADA

Agent Wanted $500

TORONTO (CP) — A young Chinese agent testified Thursday that travel agent George Chan wanted $500 to bring his fiancee and two sons to Canada, and $150 if he failed.

Lee Lip Yee, who entered Canada at Vancouver in 1955 by claiming his 78-year-old grandfather Lee Hang of Hamilton was his father, was testifying at Chan's preliminary hearing.

Chan, 49, a notary public and justice of the peace, is charged with illegally conspiring to bring Chinese into Canada and making a false affidavit.

Magistrate T. S. Elmore, granting protection of the Canada and Ontario Evidence Acts, told Lee his testimony would not be used against him if he told the truth.

Lee said he came to Canada under his own name after writing to Lee Hang who told him to go to Hong Kong from Communist China and wait at an address there.

Lee said he asked Chan to help him get to Canada and Chan replied he would. Lee then received papers from a Hong Kong man bearing the names of Lee Hang and two others listed as Lee's brothers. Only one was a brother.

He said that after reaching Canada he asked Chan to help him bring his fiancee and two sons to Canada.

People of Victoria!

Do you want to see Victoria continue to miss out on ¾ of the talent that comes to Vancouver?

"Oh," you will say, "Victoria is too dead for most of that talent. It's even too dead to keep 'THE SCENE.' it's only real night spot, going." We of the Varsity Jazz Society disagree.

We have taken over "The Scene" at 1306 Wharf Street and plan to bring in BIG-NAME, worthwhile talent. We have tie-ups with "The Cellar" in Vancouver and will get every worthwhile jazz artist that plays there. We also have made arrangements with "The Question Mark" in Vancouver, who have agreements with nationally known folksingers such as Ed McCurdy, that we will get.

Our activities will not be confined to jazz and folksinging alone. We plan to sponsor the Actor's Theatre of Vancouver production of "Romeo and Juliet" at Victoria College in February. We will also have such plays as are adaptable put on at "The Scene." We will also sponsor any big-name talent that is available for Victoria. As well as our Fri.-Sat. late night openings, we plan to have a series of 5 January Sunday Jazz Concerts at "The Scene" starting Jan. 1st. They will feature at different weeks, Clinton SALIMAN Quartet, Chris GAYE Trio; Alto Sax, LENNIE NIEHAUS (of the STAN KENTON Orchestra), the Master Sounds and the Dave QUARIN Quartet. Admission will be by memberships, to be purchased in advance at the cost of $6.00 or $11.00 per couple for the series.

Also this Sunday at 9 p.m. at the Fox Theatre we will have a "SAVE THE SCENE" concert with Freddie SCHREIBER Trio, Prof. Tony Emery, Vancouver Folksinger Vera McKenzie, plus CJVI'S Joe Easingwood.

As for our regular Fri.-Sat. talent we have been indeed fortunate to get for our opening the FREDDIE SCHREIBER TRIO, with Freddie (who has played with Gene Krupa and Zoot Simms on bass), Tommy Donnetti from Chicago (who has played with Dizzy Gillespie and Chet Baker) on piano, and drummer Paul Humphries.

Also to celebrate our opening we have arranged with Mr. Wm. Guild at CJVI to have a 7-hour special concert. Jazz and Folksinging starting at 11.10 p.m. tonight (with no commercials), to be hosted by Joe Easingwood. The first three hours will be broadcast direct from "The Scene." The next four hours will consist of a "HISTORY OF JAZZ" show, where rare recordings will be featured.

Admission to The Scene will remain $2.00 for yearly membership and $1.50 each time, and $2.00 for guests. For reservations or information, phone EV 5-8142.

The future of live entertainment lies in your hands. We cannot do any of the things we have planned without your support.

GARRY NIXON,
President.

TED MARVEY,
Talent Director.

2 A.M. PARTIES OK

New Year's Eve Curfew Stretched

Midnight "curfew" on New Year's parties will be lifted this year because Jan. 1 is a Sunday.

Saturday dances and public affairs usually must stop at midnight on Saturdays.

This year, the attorney-general's department has let it be known it is expecting police to turn a blind eye on parties up to 2 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 1.

The department points out that it's up to local police to keep order in areas with police commissions and their own forces.

But, says an official, it "does not expect to receive complaints" up to 2 a.m.

The Copenhagen Stock Exchange was built by King Christian IV of Denmark in the 17th century.

SHE'S A QUEEN — Wearing an abbreviated velvet and gold lame costume, British actress Sabrina reigned as queen of the recent annual New York Artists and Models Ball.

Red Skelton Faces Hernia Surgery

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Skelton will undergo major surgery Monday for correction of a diaphragmatic hernia. Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said Thursday the 47-year-old comedian of stage, movies and television is suffering from a rupture of the diaphragm, the thin membrane separating the stomach from the upper chest.

A palace, built by Cortes, now decorated with murals done by Diego Rivera, is a tourist attraction at Cuernavaca in Mexico.

ONE BLAST BRINGS ANOTHER

Canadian's Book Banned

WINNIPEG (CP) — A novel by Canadian author Hugh MacLennan dealing with the 1917 Halifax explosion is creating another one in Manitoba education circles.

Manitoba school trustees suddenly discovered "Barometer Rising" was approved reading in provincial schools and decided to get rid of it.

Delegates at the trustees' convention described "Barometer Rising" as both profane and vulgar.

They voted unanimously to ask the education department to remove the book from all classrooms, school libraries and take it off curriculum lists.

The move brought a sharp response from both Mr. MacLennan and the book's publisher, Macmillan Publishing Company of Canada Ltd.

In Montreal, Mr. MacLennan said the request for the ban does not make sense.

SOME SWEARING

"I don't know what they are kicking about," he said. "The book seems pretty mild to me and everything was censored out of it before it went into the school curriculum."

Mr. MacLennan admitted the book, published in 1945, does contain "a certain amount of military swearing."

Macmillan Company president John Gray said in Toronto the fuss was ridiculous.

"A little rough language was left out, and a little left in."

"The book is quite suitable. It's an important statement of today's world. Many school books just do not deal with the world that the children know at all."

Mr. Gray said "there are some old-fashioned people you can never please."

Displeased is A. J. Thiessen, president of the Canadian School Trustees Association.

Mr. Thiessen said: "I can't see how that book could have passed if it had been read by department of education officials."

Delegate P. P. Dunn was blunter. "This book has no place in, society, let alone in schools."

World's longest covered bridge, the 1,282-foot wooden span over the Saint John River at Hartland, N.B., was constructed in 1897 and rebuilt in 1920.

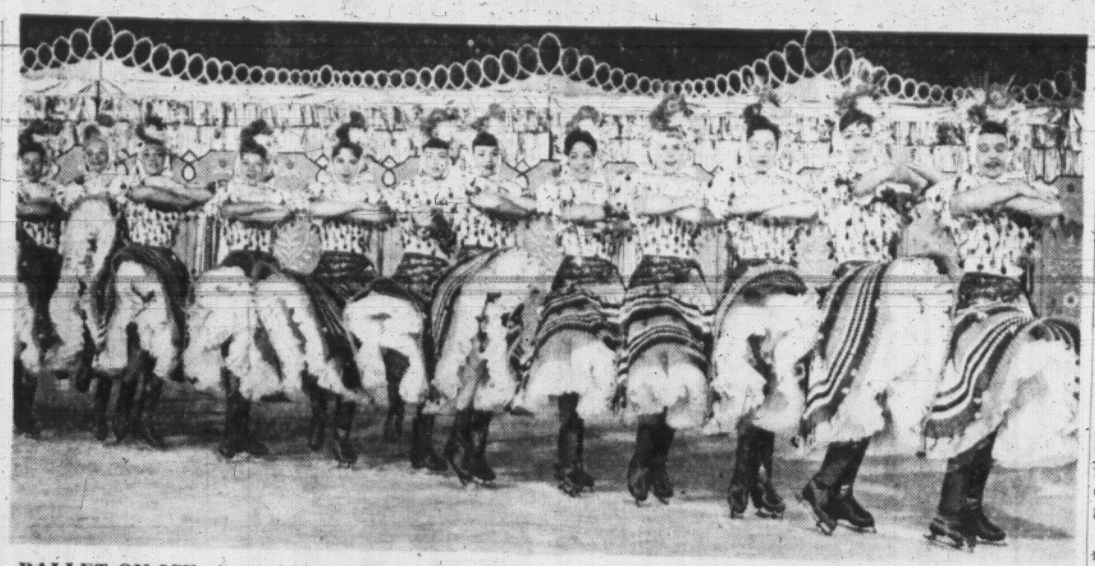
Whisky Maker Dies

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) Herbert M. Ross, 75, Scotch whisky manufacturer who gave more than £1,000,000 to charities, died Wednesday. Ross lost a leg in the First World War and said it led to his fortune. In hospital he met another one-legged soldier and together they started up two distilleries.



BALLET ON ICE pictured here is one of 10 spectacular productions in the 20th birthday edition of Ice Capades, on view all next week at Victoria's Memorial Arena. With the Ice Ca Pets and Ice Cadets are world skating champions Aja Zanova and Jimmy Grogan; German champions Peter Voss and Helga Neff; European champions Rika Schropp and Lucien Boyer presenting their idea of the Moiseyev ice ballet.

THEY FIGHT OFF BEETLES

'Oomph' Trees No Saps

Only trees with "oomph" can fight off the depredations of bark beetles, according to J. P. Vite, professor of entomology at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore.

"Oomph" in trees, professor Vite told Western Forestry Conference meeting in the Empress Hotel Thursday afternoon, is hydrostatic sap pressure—measureable in a new technique by gauges inserted into holes drilled two inches deep in ponderosa pine second growth.

It's almost like measuring a man's blood pressure, Professor Vite said. A healthy tree pumps out enough oleoresin to drown any bark beetles trying to locate a happy home under the bark. But if its vigor is low—if it lacks "oomph"—a colony of beetles can establish a beachhead and start their deadly burrowing.

Foresters for years have been able to judge the ability of open-grown old growth ponderosa pines to resist beetle attacks. External indications such as shape, color and conditions of the trees crown have proven reliable guides.

But in younger and denser stands of pine the old method of judging health is no longer reliable and as a result foresters have taken to carrying pressure gauges and drills to test the vigor of the trees.

NO TWO WAYS ABOUT IT!

'END OF WAR, POVERTY WITHIN GRASP'

Keep Columbia Project Out of Politics—Shrum

A plea to keep politics out of the Columbia River hydro power project was made Thursday night by Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C. and chairman of the B.C. Energy Board.

Dr. Shrum was guest speaker at a banquet of the Western Forestry and Conservation conference at the Empress Hotel.

His billed topic was power. But Dr. Shrum pointed out he was speaking against a background of vital negotiations between Ottawa and the provincial government and limited his remarks on hydro to a few brief sentences.

Among guests at the banquet were Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the International Joint Commission.

'CONSIDER FACTS'

"I hope all the very distinguished ministers here and other representatives will give careful consideration to the scientific facts, take into consideration all the engineering studies and interpret all the economic facts so that no one will attempt to take political advantage in a thing like the Columbia," said Dr. Shrum.

He said energy "is the key to all development," and sidestepped into the potentialities of nuclear energy.

Once physicists have solved the problem of fusion and converted the hydrogen bomb to peaceful energy, he said, there will be energy aplenty for hundreds of years.

"The end of war and the end of poverty are almost within our grasp.

NEW FRONTIER

"The physicists should retire when they solve the problem of fusion and leave things to biologists and so on to solve our social problems."

Dr. Shrum called knowledge the "new frontier"—particularly of science.

Russians have the faith in science which is lacking in North America, he said. An awareness of its importance will dominate the future of man.

NORTHERN B.C. FORESTS RICH SAYS POGUE

Utilization and intensive management of all the existing forests of northern British Columbia was urged Thursday by H. M. Pogue of the B.C. Forest Service.

Mr. Pogue told the 51st annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association that such a development would permit a sustained annual wood harvest estimated at 1.3 billion cubic feet in trees with a breast-high diameter of 9.1 inches and larger.

This would be a volume 30 per cent greater than the cut from the southern half of the province, he said.

"The key to unlocking this vast cellulose storehouse is a pattern of pioneer roads, plus a railroad," Mr. Pogue said.

Southern B.C., according to Mr. Pogue, is still largely based on a sawmill logging and milling economy and still leaves as much residue in the woods as it uses.

Premier's Parley All For Verwoerd

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, of South Africa, told the South African Broadcasting Corporation in an interview on Thursday night he definitely would attend the conference of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London next March. He said he would not visit any other European country, however, as time would not permit him to do so.

Top Timber Surrounded By 'Slums'

Some of the best timber growing sites in the Vancouver forest district are encompassed by "silvicultural slums" according to a paper prepared by John W. Ker and Harry G. Smith of the UBC faculty of forestry and presented Thursday afternoon at the 51st annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association in the Empress Hotel.

Ker and Smith told the 500 industrial and government forestry officials that B.C. must spend $20 to $30 an acre now to plant a minimum of 200 good Douglas fir seedlings from superior parents on every acre logged that otherwise would grow only brush or less desireable species for years to come.

The report charged that sufficient effort has not yet been devoted to prompt reforestation or to rehabilitation of forest land managed by the Crown in its public working circles and sustained yield units.

Adequate laws now exist to secure reforestation on both public and private lands alike and the first step should be taken by providing for adequate reforestation of all lands logged under timber-scale contracts, with particular emphasis on high-quality lands.

Science Series Deals With 'Thread of Life' at 9 on C-5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE "DUNKIRK" EDITION in the remarkable Winston Churchill series, Wednesday night brought back to mind vividly the face of an old friend.

He was slight, kindly and his head was topped by a neatly parted thatch of red hair. He was my first ship's first lieutenant during the Battle of the Atlantic.

He told the story well but then he had the knack of telling most of his stories well.

He was a bank clerk in Montreal and one day he chanced to read in the local papers that a board would be sitting soon for the purpose of selecting officer candidates for the RCN. He duly presented himself and the upshot of it was that scarcely had the ink dried on his fingers than he was aboard ship being transported across the Atlantic to HMS King Alfred, training college in England.

Days after his arrival he and his classmates still didn't possess uniforms. They spent the long, arduous hours learning how to salute without knocking their caps off, whenever they should get their caps; to differentiate between port and starboard, how to slope arms, ground arms and come to a halt with one resounding decisive step without appearing as though they were the worse for wear. They were also discovering that the sex in sextant was purely categorical and were wondering if, after all, they hadn't joined the army by mistake.

One day, on one of their rare days off, a staff officer strode into the gunroom and silently counted heads. "I need six volunteers," he told them, which happened to be exactly the number of bodies reposing there.

Ere long my friend was given a slip of paper and found himself on a train bound for Southampton and from there was transported to the Isle of Wight. The paper they had given him allowed him to commandeer any craft of his own choosing.

* * *

HE DULY PICKED one out, located the owner and his brother. Together the three set out for Dover, still not knowing what was in store. But they didn't have long to wait. Soon they were part of that gallant armada, the pleasure boats from Margate and all the others, most of them more intended for a happy weekend than for the grim realities ahead.

And so it was my friend, then an "acting-someday-probationary-sub-lieutenant" as we used to style ourselves—had his first command and was headed towards the flaming shores of Dunkirk.

It has been some years now, of course, since he and I sailed together and my memory may be faulty. But as I remember it he and the two brothers made three shuttle trips across, taking off the wounded and any others who could make it from those heroic shores. When they were through the boat was beached, battered and holed by the pounding from the enemy.

What then? He was given three days leave from King Alfred before he was required to return to pick up his lessons where he had left off, learning how to salute without knocking off his cap, how to differentiate between port and starboard and all the other things in the making of a first-rate seaman.

I often wonder how life has treated these very gay young men of 1939-1945.

Hooded Assailants Beat Freedomite Woman Leader

(From Times News Services)

NELSON — A Freedomite woman, Mrs. Mary Malakoff, was reported to have been beaten by a group of hooded assailants at her home in Krestova near here during the early hours of Tuesday morning.

No official report has been made to the RCMP about the incident.

She was reported to have been treated at Castlegar and district hospital but not detained. The woman could not identify her assailants but believed them to be men.

Mrs. Malakoff, who lives alone in the village, is spokesman for and considered leader of a group of 14 women who were evicted by RCMP from the home of John Lebedoff at Wynndel in November.

The same group of women were also reported to be those which disrobed at Claybrick near here last Sunday when Freedomite spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin ordered his people to return their children to school after about 100 of them were kept out of school by their mothers last Friday.

OCEAN HIKER JAILED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Richard Lancaster, 32, was sentenced Thursday to 10 days in jail for attempting to hitch a ride home to Ireland on an ocean liner.

Lancaster, a seaman on the Swedish freighter Jane Maersk, missed his ship out of Yokohama, Japan, and stowed away on the Pacific Orient liner Orcades.

FOG PROVES COSTLY

VANCOUVER — Thick fog Thursday cost a Vancouver shipping company $3,000. The fog prevented the American freighter Mormacquide from docking until noon.

Pacific Marine Freighters Company had hired a work crew of 220 men to unload 290,000 boxes of Japanese oranges for 8 a.m. and had to pay wages of $750 an hour for the four hours the gang sat idle.

SICK MAN CAPTURED

GREENWOOD — A young Oakalla prison farm convict who fled a Vancouver hospital early Thursday was captured by RCMP here later in an auto stolen in Vancouver.

Thompson, 19, who breathes through a metal tube following a neck operation, fled Vancouver General Hospital by knotting a bed sheet and climbing down from a window. The prison guard assigned to guard him was suspended following the escape.

TEACHER PAY 'HELD'

LILLOOET (CP) — A third teachers' salary dispute has been settled in B.C. with an arbitration board ruled of a "hold-the-line" on salaries.

An arbitration board award in the Lillooet school district gave no wage increase to the district's school teachers.

Two other disputes at Kamloops and Barriere, were settled by an arbitration board which decided that teachers should not get a salary boost.

BARBITURATE KICK

VANCOUVER—Health Minister Martin said Thursday he would consider proposing legislation to tighten control on the sale of barbiturates if a request is made by the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association.

Mr. Martin said his department was guided by the association in such matters and hadn't taken any action regarding barbiturates because it had received no recommendations.

Mr. Martin issued his statement when asked to comment on a report that mixing liquor with barbiturates had killed more than 50 persons in Vancouver this year.

FORTUNE FROM FARM

LYTTON — Sale of the Earlscourt Farm here and more than 200 head of cattle by the estate of the late Col. Victor Spencer is expected to realize about $250,000.

The purebred cattle farm will be sold to Norman Gregory of Haney for an estimated $125,000.

U.S. OFFERS ATOM SUBS TO NATO

LONDON (AP) — The United States government has given its Atlantic allies advance notice that it intends to offer the North Atlantic Treaty Organization five or six Polaris-armed nuclear submarines, informants said today. The offer is expected to be made at the NATO ministerial conference in Paris next week.

Omer Joseph Bertrand, 4794 West Saanich, $40, careless driving.

Ship Issues SOS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian grain carrier Starbelle, her sides and main deck cracked in a gale-force storm, issued a distress call today from the middle of Lake Superior. The United States coast guard in neighboring Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., said it had been told the ship was in no immediate danger of sinking.

HEES, CUBANS TALK TRADE

OTTAWA (CP) — A Cuban trade delegation today launched its bid for a big increase in trade with Canada at a morning conference with Trade Minister Hees.

Mr. Hees, who left a cabinet session to receive the nine-man delegation in his office, and Dr. Regino Boti, Cuban economy minister and delegation leader, both expressed satisfaction with the course of the discussions.

Mr. Hees said he is confident that an increase in trade will materialize to a large extent.

De Gaulle to the Stake Yell French Algerians

ALGIERS (AP) Mob violence erupted in Algeria today and angry right-wing crowds threw up barricades in downtown Algiers in protest against President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area.

About 10,000 Europeans skirmished bloodily with riot police throughout the day. Toward nightfall some 2,000 demonstrators — who want to maintain Algeria as French territory — set up barricades as they had done last January when they came close to overthrowing de Gaulle's government.

Reuters news agency said the demonstrators traded stones and tear gas grenades with police as the rioting worsened following a series of explosions.

Facing the barricades were two army tanks, their guns levelled. About 50 soldiers clustered around the tanks.

But no one made any move to storm the barricades made of anything handy and reminiscent of the French Revolution.

DE GAULLE FAR AWAY

De Gaulle himself, on a trip to promote his idea of self-determination for Algeria, was not near the centre of today's violence in Algiers and Oran.

He arrived tonight at Tlemcen, 45 miles southwest of Oran. Thousands of persons lined the streets despite a blinding hailstorm.

The crowd behind the Algiers barricades hoisted French flags and shouted:

"De Gaulle to the stake."

"The army to power."

The United States Cultural Centre, just reopened after being sacked Armistice Day, was shut again today when violence broke out.

Hard-pressed police announced that some 400 rioters were herded off to jail here in seven hours of rioting.

Demonstrators and riot police fought a running battle along almost two miles of the winding Rue Michelet as marchers tried to reach the summer palace, official residence of government delegate-general Jean Morin. Morin is a de Gaulle appointee.

Soldiers also moved into the city square of Oran, 220 miles northwest of Algiers, to control a mob of thousands.

A call for a general strike proclaimed by the Front for French Algeria, largest group of die-hard settlers, was heeded to a large extent in most big cities.

But the French chief of state went ahead with his tour, pressing his plan that could even lead to Algeria's independence from France. This is what the settlers fear most, for they would be far outnumbered by Algeria's Moslem majority.

De Gaulle's first stop was a Ain Temouchent, a city of some 25,000 people, about half of them European.

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled and strode erect to the city hall. After he had gone inside an army colonel addressed the crowd. He told them to "demonstrate peacefully."

Electoral College Plan For Africa

CAPE TOWN (AP) — The Republic of South Africa, to be proclaimed next May 31, will be headed by a president who will be elected by an electoral college of members of the two houses of Parliament it was announced today.

The South African president will succeed as head of state the Queen, who is represented here by a govenor-general while the monarchy under the British crown.

Last Oct. 5 the whites voted for a republic in a proposal by the Nationalist government of Hendrik Verwoerd.

The president will serve one seven-year term and will not be eligible for re-election.

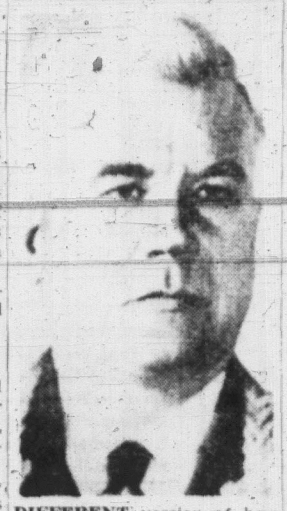
His salary will be 20,000 rand annually.

The rand is a new denomination of South African currency to be introduced next February when this country forsakes the sterling system and adopts decimal currency.

The salary will be equivalent to the £10,000 annually received at present by South Africa's Governor-General C. R. Swart.

Swart is one of the most prominently mentioned candidates for president.

The presidency will be largely ceremonial and political power will continue to be invested in the prime minister.



DIFFERENT version of how Marshal Mitrovan Nedelin, Soviet armed forces rocket chief, met his death recently, was reported Thursday by an Italian news agency. Mitrovan, says Continental Agency, was killed along with 10 top soldiers and scientists at unidentified missile site and not in aircraft crash as reported by Moscow.

McGILL STUDENTS GET LECTURE ALL FOR NOTHING

Teetering Behan at His Best

MONTREAL (CP) — Brendan "they'll never stop me" Behan rolled over a desperate attempt to cancel a scheduled lecture Thursday night and lectured 450 McGill University students on France's Algerian policies.

The hard-living Irish playwright turned up more than an hour late for a lecture at the university, ignored lecture officials who told him the talk was off, and strode in an almost straight line to the stage.

From there, he launched into a savage attack on France's Algerian policies, interrupting himself to sing a few French songs, tell some off-color stories and to say his $500 lecturing fee had been cancelled.

Officials had tried to cancel the talk when Behan, who had been reported "incapacitated" after an afternoon spent in what he called "convivial compan" at a private club, did not appear on time.

They had started to refund the money to the audience — who had paid $1 to $2 to listen to Behan in action — when the playwright arrived.

'I LIKE YOU'

His collar was open and his hair dishevelled. His shirt front was stained, but he raised his fist over his head in answer to the students' burst of cheers and headed for the auditorium.

After giving the students and some faculty members time to return to their seats, he strode forward and announced he was giving his performance "which I understand I am not being paid for" — because "I like you and you're people well worth speaking to."

After a chorus of a French-Canadian ballad, he suddenly began to attack France and President de Gaulle.

"I don't like nazis — I don't like French Nazis any more than I do German Nazis," he said.

"I like France. They entertained me last year but now they are murdering Algerians.

"Montrealers love France, but now France is led by madmen, gangsters and collaborators."

Teetering close to the edge of the stage and shaking his fist at the audience, he said: "I love the French people, but I don't like what they're doing in Algeria and any one who says he does is a liar," Behan exclaimed.

He said French-speaking Canadians could influence the French government.

"If you won't, who will?" he asked.

"What can those other idiots English-speaking Canadians can't call them Canadians, because they're not, and I can't call them Indians, because they're not — what can they do to help Algeria?"

After his unexpected attack, Behan reverted to the unpredictable bohemian the audience expected him to be.

Contract Let On New Wharf

NANAIMO — Federal public works department has awarded a $724,814 contract to Fraser River Pile Driving Co., Ltd. of New Westminster, for reconstruction of the assembly wharf here.

The bid was the lowest of eight, and the job is to be finished within 14 months.

It involves renewal of a ship and scow wharf, a freight shed, movable slip, sub-station, and part of a bulkhead wall. The ship berth will be 600 feet long and the scow wharf 279 feet long.

The freight shed, to be built of steel, will be 40 fet by 120 feet and will provide office space of 460 square feet.

The new slip also will be of steel with a capacity of 50 tons.

About 80 deep-sea ships dock here annually to take on cargoes of lumber, shingles, pulp and plywood, and to land chemicals used in the pulp and paper industry.

Existing facilities were built in 1935 and are in poor condition, with load restrictions imminent.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Rammond Atlas or Globe

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Barb Johnson, age 13, of Rockford, Ill., for the question:

Why are male birds prettier than females?

Mrs. Mallard and Mrs. Pintail, both of the large duck family, wear modest plumage of speckled brown. Mrs. Mallard has a few stiff feathers of brilliant blue tucked in her wings, but this is her only decoration. In contrast, Mr. Mallard wears a headdress of shimmering green above a white necklace. There are patches of bright blue, chocolate brown, white and green among his stiff wing feathers and he has a sassy little upturned tail. Mr. Pintail has a chocolate brown face above a white collar and bright patches of color in his wings. Mr. Wood Duck is decked in patches of color from his beak to his legs and Mrs. Wood Duck wears speckled brown.

The birds of paradise of New Guinea and northern Australia are among the most beautiful in the world. There are about 36 cousins, each one more handsome than the next. But all these fine feathers are worn by the males of the glamorous family. The females, like the ladies of the wild duck family, wear plumage of modest brown. Mr. Ring-necked Pheasant wears a long, conspicuous tail and outstanding patches of color on his head. His wife wears dull brown with a much shorter tail.

There are countless examples in which the male bird outdresses his wife. But in the world there are also many families in which both birds dress alike. Flamingos, sea gulls, eagles, hawks, owls, swans and penguins are just a few bird families in which both parents wear the same styles and colors. The gaudy males of the bird world attract a lot of attention. But they are actually outnumbered by the male birds who dress just like their wives.

A gaily-colored creature attracts attention and this may not be safe for the whole family. When our handsome ring-necked pheasant takes to the air he is an eye-catcher. The hunter raises his gun, the fox makes some long-range plans. Meantime Mrs. Pheasant is sitting safely hidden among the brown grasses which match her drab brown feathers. She does not attract any attention to herself or to her precious nest. The females of the wild duck family also blend in with the foliage around their nests. If they were gaily dressed like the drakes, they would attract unwanted attention.

The birds of modest colors, then, seem to be safer. This makes us wonder why the male birds risk gay coloring. The fact is this: they may not want to attract our attention. But they do want to attract the attention of the female birds. A male bird wears his brightest colors and sings his sweetest song in the courting season. He may sing or dance or display his plumage before the drably-dressed female. Chances are, she will choose the fellow who attracts the most attention.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Those French papers have gone too far. One of them says Marilyn Monroe has Yves Montand's Paris phone number, has called him several times while Simone Signoret wasn't home — and that he finds it very trying being so popular. (DeGaulle, this means war!)

★ ★ ★

Billy Rose's pretty ex-wife Joyce Mathews flew back from Europe in time to celebrate her seventh month of being Billy's house guest, to observe her birthday with Billy, to attend the "Camelot" opening, and to bring her Christmas stocking. She travels so often to Switzerland that Billy may give her her own airline. Joyce says if Howard Hughes can have one, why can't she?

★ ★ ★

I took some notes on the dialogue at the wonderful party Jan Mitchell gave at Luchow's for "Camelot" and here are some samples: "There's ——. His hobbies are old cars and young girls . . . There's Doc ——, the plastic surgeon, out with his latest nose job . . . There's —— the newspaperman. I wanted to ask him at the show how he liked it but I thought I'd better wait till he woke up."

★ ★ ★

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Tina Louise told the Paris press she wouldn't mind marrying Arthur Miller . . . That was La Dietrich with "Camelot" star Richard Burton at El Morocco the other night.

Salvador Dali met Kim Novak at the Top-of-the-Mountain party and said, "She is one work of art I could never equal" . . . Sammy Davis Jr.'ll work at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, though old pal Frank Sinatra owns part of neighboring Cal-Neva Lodge . . . Ava Gardner signed a new agent, Irving Lazar . . . At the Harwyn: Ex-Queen Soraya with investment banker Tom Flaherty . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor who'll accompany Bob Hope on his Christmas tour of GI bases, says she'll buy a N.Y. town house . . . The Wooly Donohues (Judy Church) are expecting.

EARL'S PEARLS: An optimist is a middle-aged fellow who thinks that cleaners have been shrinking the waistband of his trousers.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Andy Griffith decided this Christmas he'll give his wife something to go with the car he gave her last Christmas—driving lessons.

I WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's sad but true—money and hair only seem important when you no longer have any.

Protocol demands the entire inaugural party wear the same kind of hat as the president. And that is why we'll never have a woman president . . . That's earl, brother.

Less Russian Polio

MOSCOW (AP) — A sharp drop in poliomyelitis cases in the Soviet Union was reported Thursday by Mikhail Chumakov of the Medical Sciences Academy. The Soviet news agency Tass quoted him as saying more than a third of Russia's population was vaccinated this year with live virus polio serum, taken mostly in the form of candy.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Thursday:

James Irvine, Ladysmith, and Stuart W. Fleming, 3147 Marrs, $40 each for careless driving.

Thomas Harold Wigston, Work Point, $25 each for driving without a licence and insurance and $15 for driving without a hand brake.

George William Golia, HMC Dockyard, $25 for driving without insurance, $15 for driving without a hand brake and $10 for driving without a horn.

John Mooney Shirley, 160 Burnside East, $20 and licence suspension for speeding over 30.

Robert Edward Kirby, 1825 Dean Park, $35 for speeding over 20.

Larry Blaine Elgood, Sidney, $10 for driving a car with tail lights mounted too low.

Francis D. Morris, 655 Baxter, $15 for driving a trailer without a safety chain.

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday:

David Charles Ferguson, 3490 Short, and Arnold William Gibson, 1715 Stanley, $10 and $3 costs each for failing to stop at a stop sign.

John William Clark, 3441 Happy Valley, $35 and $3 costs for careless driving.

Rajinder Singh Manhas, 4032 Martha, $25 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.

IN RETURN FOR FAIR DEAL

Home Publications Must Help

MONTREAL (CP) — Leslie Roberts, Montreal author, today suggested Canadian publications be assured fair competition in the home market but in return should be ready to make firm commitments.

These commitments would be in respect to expressing a Canadian viewpoint, in giving leadership in forming public opinion and in informing the Canadian people.

In a submission to the royal commission on publications, Mr. Roberts said much has been made of the need to provide the Canadian people with a mirror of Canadian life.

"But I do not see many publishers holding that mirror up."

Magazine Tariff Opposed

MONTREAL (CP) — The chairman of the royal commission on publications said Thursday he "wouldn't want to pay 10 cents more for some U.S. publications to support Liberty magazine."

M. Grattan O'Leary, outspoken president of the Ottawa Journal, made the statement during questioning of Montreal's Wallace Publishing Company Ltd., who had submitted a brief to the commission.

It was perhaps the clearest indication yet that the commission, nearing the end of its series of cross-country hearing, does not favor any general duty or tariff on all American magazines entering Canada as a means of protecting Canadian periodicals.

Mr. Wallace, publisher of The Montrealer and a number of trade magazines, suggested a general 25 per cent tariff might be levied on advertising in surplus copies of U.S. magazines which are sold in Canada.

Mr. O'Leary said such a tax might force U.S. publishers to raise their prices in Canada as a similar tax had done in the 30s and he said a number of persons who appeared before the commission across the country had voiced strong opposition to such a move.

Mr. Wallace suggested their testimony might be biased.

Mr. O'Leary said several governments were among those opposing such a move and he felt they were accurate indicators of public opinion.

Dams Radioactive

WINNIPEG (CP) — J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, Thursday said that existing power dams 'put more radio activity into the Red River at Winnipeg than the proposed Whiteshell nuclear reactor would.

Five Men Adrift

TYOBOREON, Denmark (Reuters)—An 11,000-ton floating dock with a five-man crew was adrift in the North Sea Thursday after losing its towline. The dock was being towed from Bremerhaven to a German Baltic port when the towline broke.

WHOLESALER TELLS PROBE

No Package Deal With Magazines

MONTREAL (CP) — An executive of the largest magazine distribution company in the Montreal area firmly denied Thursday that his company had any influence on how magazines were displayed by dealers or that it forced any dealers to take some publications as "package deals."

Gerald Benjamin, secretary of Benjamin News Company, came under heavy cross-examination from Grattan O'Leary, chairman of the royal commission on publications, when he submitted a brief to the commission.

"Is it true you exert some 'influence,' let us say, on a news vendor on how he displays magazines," Mr. O'Leary asked.

"We do not exert influence, we discuss it," Mr. Benjamin said.

"He (the vendor) is at liberty to cancel any magazine he doesn't want," he said.

This led Mr. O'Leary to ask if there was such a thing as a "package deal," which forced a vendor to take certain magazines he did not want in order to get other publications he did want.

He said later he referred to a case some years ago in Ottawa concerning salacious literature during which vendors testified they were forced to take some books on pain of not getting others.

"It is not done here," Mr. Benjamin said.

Mr. O'Leary then asked if the Benjamin company's contract with the Curtis Distributing Company in the U.S. included provisions on how magazines were to be displayed.

But under persistent cross-examination, Mr. Benjamin reiterated he had no such agreement with the Curtis company.

Newcomer Beats Veteran For C. Saanich Reeveship

R. Gordon Lee, a Central Saanich councillor for the past two years, won election to the reeveship Thursday with a 450-366 victory over Ray M. Lamont.

The election attracted 53 per cent of the eligible voters.

Reeve-elect Lee is a comparative newcomer to the district, while Mr. Lamont is a long-time resident and member of every council since the municipality was formed in 1951.

Thomas G. Michell, with 658 votes, led the polls for election to a two-year term as councillor, followed by A. K. "Bert" Hemstreet with 484. Third member elected for a two-year term was Albert Vickers, with 447 votes.

Defeated candidate was Coun. Mrs. Gladys Ronson, who polled 429 votes.

Coun. Frank Grimshaw was re-elected for a one-year term on council, with 365 votes.

Defeated were Kelly Troup, with 253 votes, and Jack Southern, 176.

SCHOOL BOARD

'No Frills' Candidate Wins Easily

Lewis Harvey of Lands End Road, who campaigned against school frills, was named to Saanich District 63 School Board Thursday in the only election in the North Saanich area.

He defeated board chairman J. D. Helps, who stood strongly behind the $784,000 school bylaw defeated in October. It was the third building bylaw in a year to be defeated in this area.

Mr. Harvey was elected by voters of the unorganized portion of the school district, who cast ballots for the first time. Previously representatives were named from individual school areas, and these selected a trustee from among themselves.

'BROKEN FAITH'

The winner said the present board had "broken faith" with ratepayers in not removing nonessentials from the recent bylaw before presenting it for the third time. He said he is in favor of more classrooms for the area, but simpler schools.

Elected to the board by acclamation were Reginald Sinkinson for Saanich, and Cuthbert Brown, Central Saanich.

NO ELECTION

There was no contest in Sidney this year. Commissioner J. H. Laroque and J. E. Bosher were elected by acclamation to the two vacant seats on the commission. The nomination marked the return of Mr. Bosher to public life after a year away from the commission.

NOT JUST ONE, but an entire cavalcade of guest artists will dazzle a Duncan audience tonight when dozens of the diminutive actors pictured here with their "master," multi-gifted Daniel Llords, perform to strains of Victoria Symphony Orchestra in a "pop" concert at Cowichan High School. The internationally-famous Llords' Puppets will be seen in Victoria at the Royal Theatre in this weekend's repeat pair of symphony "pop" concerts. Hans Gruber and Clifford Evens will conduct.

NON-CONFIDENCE VOTE

Mayor's Foes All Elected

ALBERNI — Ald. Tom Barnett, leader of a city council faction which has opposed Mayor Mabel Anderson, was re-elected Thursday.

Also elected were newcomers Thomas S. Hamilton and C. Roy James.

All three had the support of the Alberni Voters' Association, which last week sent a 776-name petition to Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black asking that the mayor be removed from office.

Mr. Hamilton led the poll with 728 votes, and Ald. Barnett drew 721. There were 705 votes cast for Mr. James.

HALF AS MANY

Losing candidates, generally understood to have the mayor's support, received only about half as many votes as the victors.

They were Ald. Gordon Lundine, 350; Wilfred K. McKenzie, 339, and Edwin A. Beck, 317.

ALD. TOM BARNETT
. . . vindicated

With the candidates in effect forming teams as those in favor of Mayor Anderson and those opposed, the vote was taken as an expression of non-confidence in the mayor's regime.

YEAR TO SERVE

Mayor Anderson was elected a year ago, and has a year yet to serve.

During the first half of her term council meetings were marked by lengthy disputes over procedure, difficulties in having minutes adopted, constant discussions with the city solicitor over interpretation of the Municipal Act, and disputes over use of tape recorders by press and radio reporters.

At one time the mayor asked police to remove Ald. Barnett from a council meeting, and on another occasion she rapped so hard on her desk with her gavel that she broke the glass top.

Main objections have been, however, that city projects have not proceeded as they should.

SCHOOLS, SEWERS WIN RATEPAYERS' APPROVAL

Bylaws fared well in municipal elections on Vancouver Island Thursday.

Both Alberni and Port Alberni supported a $1,006,000 Alberni School District 70 school building bylaw by ample margins, and Nanaimo voters gave substantial approval to a School District 68 building bylaw of $496,000.

Courtenay sewer bylaw for $764,000 passed comfortably by a vote of 624 to 302. It was defeated in October by a margin of 25 votes.

Farmers Relieved As Cougar Leaves

COBBLE HILL — A cougar sighted within 50 feet of a Hutchison Road farm Tuesday afternoon is believed to have left the district, relieved sheep breeders reported today.

A tracking dog owned by Steve Carrothers failed to pick up the predator's trail late Tuesday and was unsuccessful in locating any fresh cougar tracks Wednesday.

ISLAND DIGEST

DUNCAN THRILLER

Recount Likely In One-Vote Win

(From Duncan Bureau)

A one-vote victory by a veteran Duncan alderman highlighted the civic election in the Up-Island city Thursday, and a recount appears almost certain.

Ald. J. H. Saunders topped the polls with 365 votes, but in the contest for second place Ald. R. K. Cairns finished with 27 votes to 270 cast for James Patterson, a contractor and newcomer in civic politics.

Mr. Patterson has five days in which to apply for a recount and said today it is "quite likely" he will make application Monday.

"I am almost obliged to do so on behalf of the many people who supported me," he said.

STAPLES TOPS

Coun. Tony Staples, of Maple Bay, headed the polls in the North Cowichan election with 896 votes, and Coun. Gerry Smith, of Chemainus, with hometown voters tipping the scales in his favor, won re-election with 761 votes.

David Barr, of Jaynes Road, in the south end of the district, trailed with 506 votes.

The Chemainus ratepayers assured Coun. Smith of re-election when they gave him 512 or 553 votes.

Jan. (2) Deadline

DUNCAN — Closing date for entries in the Cowichan Music Festival, to be held next March 4 to 11, is Jan. 21.

Sponsors of the event are the Cowichan PTA Council and PTA groups in School Districts 65, 66 and 67.

THE COMPACT CAR

WITH THE

"BIG CAR FEEL"

IT'S BIGGER WHERE IT COUNTS...

BIG CAR POWER—Choose either of two great engines... the new, more powerful O.H.V. 6 or the economy winner V-8. Both these fine engines are loaded with power.

BIG CAR COMFORT—Enjoy limousine luxury that the so-called "standard" cars can't offer. You get really generous legroom, hatroom and hiproom, plus chair-high seating. It's a revelation!

BIG CAR SAFETY—Relax with new, fade-free, bonded brakes; wide, all-round vision; solid construction and finger-tip steering... you're in command of the road.

BIG CAR "FEEL"—You be the judge. Test-drive the '61 Lark before you decide on ANY car. You, too, will likely exclaim: "I wouldn't have believed it!"

IT'S COMPACT WHERE IT'S SENSIBLE

COMPACT FOR ECONOMY—You'll like the Lark's saving ways—even if you can afford a car with useless overhang and the extra gas to drive it around.

COMPACT FOR DRIVING EASE—You'll find the '61 Lark easier to park and manoeuvre—as you'd expect—but its masterful "Big Car Feel" will really amaze you. You have to Drive it to Believe it!

TURKEY SHOOT AT FAIRBRIDGE

DUNCAN—Cowichan Fish and Game Club will hold a pre-Christmas turkey shoot at the Fairbridge gravel pit on Sunday at 10 a.m.

It is the first shoot ever staged by the club and its success will determine whether or not others will follow.

The gravel pit is located at Cowichan Station opposite Mountain Road. Shooters are asked to follow the signs.

Youths Survive As Car Rolls To Destruction

(From Duncan Bureau)

Two Duncan teen-agers escaped serious injury Wednesday night when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the Trans-Canada Highway near Koksilah bridge and rolled over several times.

The car, driven north by William Nicholas Klinick, 16, of Old Hillcrest Road, ended up in a ditch on the west side of the highway. The driver and a passenger, Bobby Whittaker, 16, were thrown clear.

Klinick suffered a bad head cut but his companion had only scrapes and bruises.

Roof of the car, a 1959 model owned by Klinick's father, was pushed down to hood level and was considered a total loss.

$329,000 BYLAW

Sooke School Vote Set for Saturday

Sooke ratepayers will go to the polls Saturday to vote on a $329,000 school building bylaw to provide additional space in schools in the district.

Major item will be an addition to Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School on Jacklin Road.

Voting will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at all elementary schools and at Shirley Community Hall.

'NO BURDEN'

Ronald J. Weir, school board chairman, has said the bylaw will cost the district about $7,000 per year, and that with 5,000 owner-electors "it is obvious that it cannot prove a burden to anyone."

"Our district's high rate of construction, which added $1,700,000 to our assessment rolls this year, will, with our present rate of 18 mills, bring in over three times the amount of additional revenue required to finance this building project," he said.

Historic Church Destroyed; Police Suspect Firebug

Greedy Fingers of Flame Reach From All Windows of St. John's Church

Blaze Halted At Second City Edifice

By AB KENT

A pyromaniac is blamed for the near-total destruction of one of the city's finest old churches and heavy damage to a neighboring one three hours before dawn today.

The 48-year-old Church of St. John the Divine, Quadra at Mason, stands a $500,000 to $750,000 ruin of blackened rafters and brick, like a bombed-out skeleton of wartime London.

First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, is heavily damaged—between $30,000 and $35,000—by smoke and heat from a fire that burned a 10-foot hole in the main floor before it was stopped.

Both buildings were fully insured.

City detectives began working on the "fire bug" angle shortly after the second fire was reported at 5.09 a.m. and interrogated two suspects in the first two hours.

An investigator from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was called in at the same time and arrived late this morning.

Reserves Called

Police Chief John Blackstock called in reserves to help the night watch patrol all other city churches and quashed a rumor that Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard, had a fire.

This was unfounded. Only a door was found insecure, police said.

Both fires appeared to have been set in basement rooms adjoining boiler rooms, and spread quickly in extensive woodwork.

All available Victoria firemen and equipment were pressed into the first at St. John's after Canon George Biddle gave the alarm at 4.04.

When the second alarm came in an hour later, Fire Chief James Bayliss called for aid from Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments.

It was the first time outside help had been requested in the city.

40 Firemen

At least 40 firemen were fighting the fires.

Chief William Pearson of Oak Bay, praised Chief Bayliss for his early request and subsequent "save" at First United by Oak Bay firemen.

Saanich fire department sent a truck, laid in hose at First United, but was not required.

Saanich Chief Joseph Law said "We will give them help without hesitation anytime. Victoria fire department has helped Saanich often."

Most of the loss at St. John's is irreplaceable and an insurance adjuster said he doubted whether the city would grant a permit to rebuild the brick and frame structure in its former state, although its outer shell appears intact. It cost $98,000 to build in 1912.

The bell tower and copper-sheathed spire are virtually undamaged, but had the fire spread more rapidly in its direction and weakened the

Both Fires Started In Same Place

Cause of two fires at St. John's and First United Churches today had not been established by noon, Fire Chief James Bayliss said.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver had a quick look at the ruins of St. John's upon his arrival at 11.30, but without a full investigation he would not comment.

All signs indicated an incendiarist was active early in the course of the blazes. City detectives are also working on the case.

Both blazes appeared to have started in identical parts of the respective churches, next to boiler rooms.

Referring to the first outbreak — at St. John's — Chief Bayliss said:

"It was charged and ready to go when I got there. Smoke was thick. Five minutes later the windows blew and away it went.

"It started in the basement."

An early search of the burned basement at First United disclosed nothing.

Verger of St. John's, Jack Brownie, said he checked the church Thursday night and found all in order.

Tuesday morning he found a piece of burnt paper between the pews, leading him to think someone may have tried earlier to set the church afire.

CHURCHES PROWLED

"I guess it didn't work right," he said.

Police have had numerous complaints in recent months about "rubby-dubs" who prowl churches in search of sacramental wines, often using paper tapers to light their quest.

"Rounders are going in and out all the time," caretakers of First Baptist Church, (across Quadra from St. John's) said.

OTTAWA OFFERS PARTNERSHIP

The federal government's offer to help B.C. finance the Columbia River project is somewhat different than proposals which have been mentioned previously—not a loan, but a partnership.

The letter received Thursday by Premier Bennett from federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming proposes:

That Ottawa will put up half the cost of building the three storage dams, at Lower Arrow Lake, at Duncan Lake, and at Mica Creek. (It has been estimated this will amount to about $172,000,000.

This money is to be repaid to Ottawa as and when the project produces revenue over and above operating costs. Ottawa also will receive interest on it at a rate to be fixed at the time, but to be worked out at the most favorable level that can be obtained.

A new federal-provincial agency would be established to arrange for this financing and to supervise terms of the proposed treaty with the U.S.

Actual construction of the works would be handled by the B.C. Power Commission.

(Since the total cost of the big scheme has been estimated at $458,000,000 the offer means that Ottawa would be participating to the extent of about 37 per cent.

Previous discussion has centred around a proposal that Ottawa should simply make a direct loan to the power commission of $172,000,000 and would charge the normal rate at which the federal government can raise money plus ⅛th per cent as a service charge. However, this now appears to have been discarded and superceded by the "partnership investment" scheme.

BENNETT THREATENS TO GO IT ALONE ON COLUMBIA

Ottawa Plan Rejected

A sharp clash between the Ottawa and B.C. governments over the financing of the huge Columbia River hydro project erupted into the open Thursday at two independent press conferences.

Out of it developed two main points:

• Ottawa has made a different proposal as to how it will participate in the project than the one mooted previously.

• Premier Bennett has flatly turned it down and intimates that if Ottawa cannot do better B.C. will finance the whole project itself.

Protagonists in the squabble here were Premier Bennett and Justice Minister Davie Fulton, who is in Victoria for discussions on the general Columbia treaty.

Haven't Met

But up to this morning they had not met, doing their sparring at long range through press conferences, and there was some doubt that they would meet at all.

Centre of the dispute was a letter from Federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming to the Premier.

He has now proposed that Ottawa will "invest" about $172,000,000 in the $458,000,000 over-all Columbia program. This will be an advance to cover half the cost of the three main storage dams at Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek.

Ottawa will recover its money from net earnings of the huge scheme when it is in operation and at the same time will reap interest on the money at a rate yet to be determined. When the full advance has been repaid Ottawa will have no further interest.

(The Columbia scheme is supposed to be a self-liquidating project).

Ottawa's new proposal supplants a previous suggestion that Ottawa would make a direct loan of the amount to the B.C. Power Commission which will do the work, and charge one-eighth of one per cent over and above the going interest rates.

In addition Ottawa has proposed than an over-riding body be set up to arrange this financing and also to supervise terms of the treaty with the United States.

When the details of the offer were made public by Premier Bennett he rejected it out of hand.

He claimed Ottawa was trying to grab control of the big B.C. hydro resource and that it was going to make money out of it in the process. He is still insisting that Ottawa should make an outright grant toward the scheme as it has done in similar projects in other provinces.

Sharp Conflict

In reply, Mr. Fulton said Mr. Bennett was misrepresenting an honest offer which is designed to ensure the cheapest and best possible deal for handling the project.

There appeared to be sharp conflict between the two interpretations of the proposal.

Mr. Bennett made it clear that he is not discussing financing with Mr. Fulton. He is dealing directly with Mr. Fleming on this aspect of the scheme.

The conflicting views of the two governments were given at separate interviews Thursday.

Premier Bennett, at a press conference issued a statement saying the federal proposal was "unacceptable" to B.C. and implied if there was nothing better offered B.C. would go it alone on the Columbia project.

He said he will deal only with federal Finance Minister Fleming and that he will again ask for an outright grant.

His statement Thursday afternoon was accompanied by a copy of the letter from Mr. Fleming outlining the federal proposals.

Mr. Bennett's interpretation of this letter is that the federal government is offering to advance to B.C. half the cost of the self-liquidating projects in the overall scheme. That is some $172,000,000 towards the cost of dams on the Arrow and Duncan Lakes and at Mica Creek.

Ignored

He said the offer "ignores completely the integral factors of generation and transmission." (Which would cost some $110,000,000.)

"The federal proposal further ignores the already established principle under which an outright grant is so clearly justified," said Mr. Bennett.

In amplification, he said the federal government has given grants to Manitoba for a floodway, the South Saskatchewan Dam and to New Brunswick for a hydro project.

"I'm still hopeful they'll take a second look," he added. "This surely can't be the final say."

Mr. Bennett said the federal proposal would cost B.C. an extra $40,000,000 financing charge. He described this as one-eighth of one per cent over a 50-year period.

(However, there is no mention of any such figure in the Fleming letter and federal officials later told reporters that the extra charge is no part of the offer although it was mentioned in the first tentative offer months ago.)

Mr. Bennett said that Ottawa would charge B.C. interest on the $172,000,000, plus the $40,000,000 "brokerage fee," plus $70,000,000 in federal sales tax on goods and equipment for

BENNETT 'RUDE' SAYS FULTON

Justice Minister Fulton said at press time today any delay or failure in the Columbia River project will be the fault of British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton made a statement to B.C. ministers attending a policy committee meeting on the Columbia project this morning.

He said Premier Bennett's rejection of a federal financing offer is "discourteous and ill-considered" and he criticized the premier for "rudeness."

French Tanks Oppose Rioters

See Page 35

ALGIERS (AP) — Army tanks, backed by troops and riot police, cushed barricades thrown up here today by angry crowds protesting President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area to whip up backing for his home-rule plan for Algeria.

Two army tanks rolled over the wooden barricades across the Rue Michelet in downtown Algiers shortly after they were thrown up by the rioters.

The tanks turned and re-crossed the shattered barricades and the crowds tried to surge forward and mount them, but were turned back by about 50 infantrymen surrounding the tanks.

Surrounding the area were steel-helmeted riot troops who then moved in with tear gas grenades to drive the rioters up side streets.

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

Help to Bridge Gap

Breadwinners in India, like their counterparts here in Victoria, strive to support their families, but there is a vast difference.

The difference is in pay, food, conditions of work, health—in just about everything that goes to make up an existence.

The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, recipient of the Times "Children of India" Fund, provides one way in which Victorians can help to make the difference between us and them a little smaller.

It is the USC which gives much-needed help to Mrs. Sangi Jospeh, 40, a widow and mother of five children. She works as a road coolie outside Kodaikanal and earns the equivalent of $1.10 per week for eight hours of work each day.

Rather, she earns that if she is lucky. Her health is bad, and there are days when she cannot carry heavy stones from truck to fill. She misses the strong hand of her dead husband in keeping her twins under control, and misses her eldest son of 15 who one day simply disappeared—most likely to relieve her of the burden of caring for him.

USC provides her with rice, Canadian milk powder, biscuits, some clothing, and medical care to the limit of its ability. But she needs so much, and there are so many like her.

Contributions to the Times fund help this work. They can be made either by cheque or cash at 2631 Douglas Street, and receipts are given for income tax purposes.

TEXT OF FLEMING'S LETTER TO BENNETT

Text of Finance Minister Donald Fleming's letter to Premier Bennett follows:

I duly received your letter dated October 27th concerning the financing of the Columbia River Power Development. Your writing of the letter followed our personal discussion of the same subject on October 26th.

You will undoubtedly have been advised by now that at the meeting of the Canada-British Columbia Policy Liaison Committee on November 23rd and 24th, the federal ministers amplified the nature and effect of the federal government's offer as first put forward on February 9, 1960, and confirmed in my letter of April 21st. Since the questions in your letter under reply were based on the situation previous to the elaboration made at that meeting, I believe it would be appropriate if I were to repeat the outline of the federal offer here, in order that my answers to your questions may appear in their proper context. Subject to satisfactory agreement on the character and functions of a joint federal-provincial co-ordinating agency, along the lines indicated by federal representatives at the recent Canada-British Columbia Policy Liaison Committee, the federal government would give financial assistance in the following manner:

1. The government of Canada is prepared, subject to the approval of parliament, to advance one-half of the capital cost of creating the storages necessary to implement the proposed treaty between Canada and the United States for the co-operative development of the Columbia River.

Joint Entity

2. The government of Canada will advance these monies as an investment in a joint project of Canada and British Columbia which will be self-liquidating.

3. The government of Canada proposes the creation of a joint entity for the purpose (amongst others) of receiving and advancing the federal government's financial contributions. It is understood that you propose to designate the British Columbia Power Commission as the agency to have physical responsibility on behalf of British Columbia for construction and operation of these projects. Subject to satisfactory agreement between our two governments as to the role and position of the joint entity in safeguarding the obligations of the federal government under the treaty and the interests of the federal government (including such matters as the giving of necessary clearances called for by the treaty, adherence to completion dates as may be agreed in the treaty, Canadian content and employment in construction, etc., and such other matters as are appropriate to be entrusted to the entity) and subject to the approval and authorization of parliament, the joint entity could be authorized to advance the federal monies for capital costs, to British Columbia Power Commission in accordance with the schedule of construction as contracts are approved.

Repayable

4. The financing thus provided by the federal government (or guaranteed, if a guaranty arrangement is agreed to be more suitable) would be looked upon as a joint investment with British Columbia, and be repayable by the operating entity to the joint entity on behalf of the federal government, out of revenue earned from the project after operating costs are met. Since it would be a joint investment, capital repayment out of revenue to the federal government would be in the same proportion to total earnings as the capital contribution by the federal government bears to the total capital contributed to bring the project into operation and would be subject to the same maturity dates and other repayments conditions as were applicable to the capital contributed by the provincial government, or by private investors.

5. Under this arrangement, it would also be possible for the joint entity to receive and disburse the proportion of the capital to be contributed by British Columbia, if the province wishes to handle it that way. Alternatively, it would be possible for the entity to raise the finances directly from the public, with each government agreeing to guarantee the issue proportionately and to purchase proportionately any part thereof from time to time not taken up by public subscription.

Different Form

Subject to the foregoing, I would answer your request for information on five precise points as follows:

(1) and (3) You now enquire as to "the maximum amount which the federal government would be prepared to lend to the B.C. Power Commission." In our oral discussion on October 26th, your question was put in rather different form. You then asked if there would be any strings attached to any loan that the federal government might make and, if the loan were to the B.C. Power Commission, whether the federal government would wish to have a guarantee by the government of the province and, if so, whether on principal, interest, or both. As indicated above and as stated in my letter of April 21st, I wish to confirm that the Government of Canada is prepared, subject to the approval of Parliament, to provide one-half of the capital cost of the approved storage required to implement the proposed treaty between Canada and the United States for the co-operative developments of the Columbia River, as an investment in a joint project of Canada and British Columbia that would be self-liquidating.

(2) The financing provided or guaranteed by the Government of Canada would be recoverable with interest from the revenues earned from the project.

Favorable Rate

(3) The precise interest rate to be fixed would depend on the form of financing agreed to, but it would obviously have to bear a direct relation to the rate at which the entity could borrow in the market. With guarantees as suggested above, and in view of the advantageous nature of the project which has been arranged, it should be possible to secure a favorable interest rate. The point to be emphasized is that, on the basis of this concept of a joint investment, there would be no question of an interest charge to the British Columbia government for any investment by the Government of Canada. Interest will be paid at the same dates as interest is paid on the capital provided by the provincial government, or to private investors on the bonds guaranteed by the provincial government.

(4) Until its investment has been recovered by it, the federal government would be entitled to receive a share of the net revenue earned from the project in proportion to its contribution to the total capital contributed by the two governments.

You will appreciate that, apart from answering your specific questions in the context of the elaboration of the federal offer referred to, I have confined myself to a very general outline of the nature of the offer and of the ways in which it could be implemented. We are ready and shall be pleased to discuss the details of these and all other questions pertaining to the financing of the Columbia River project, in which the Government of Canada has such an important interest, and express the hope that you may see fit to authorize your government's representatives to discuss these questions at the meeting on December 8th and 9th.

SITDOWN of sorts was staged in the United Nations Security Council Thursday by Russian deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin who refused, for 50 minutes, to open a meeting because the Argentine delegation was late.

Financial Help For B.C. Skiers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Amateur Sports Council will grant $1,000 to four British Columbia skiers to help in European training this winter.

The council, in making the grant to the ski association, said it was earmarked specifically for Nancy Greene and Verne Anderson, of Rossland, and Roddy Hebron and Al Perrett, of Vancouver.

CONVICTED WITH GAGLARDI

Montana Man Must Stay in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's appeal court Thursday rejected an appeal by an American road builder who had been given an indefinite prison sentence for contempt of court.

The Appeal Court ordered that Montana contractor C. W. Thornton remain in Oakalla Prison until he pays $25,000 owing to Burton Glazier of Seattle.

Thornton and B.C. Highways Minister Gaglardi were both convicted of contempt of court. They were found guilty of disobeying a 1959 court order which directed that any funds the highways department may pay to Thornton be paid to a receiver in Vancouver. This order followed a judgment granted against the contractor to Glazier.

Glazier brought the contempt charges after the B.C. highways department sent a cheque to Thornton's bank at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho. The bank credited the money to Thornton's company account.

Mr. Gaglardi's appeal against the contempt charge is expected to be heard Monday. He was fined $1,000 on conviction.

Radioactive 'Pill' Found

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—A lost radioactive capsule was found today and preparations were being made to restore it safely to its lead container.

The capsule was found by a radiographer who with a geiger counter covered the ground around a 125,000-barrel tank at the British American Oil Company marine terminal near this Strait of Canso town.

The capsule—about the size of a vitamin pill—broke loose from a control cable Wednesday while being used in a gamma ray camera photographing welds in the tank.

In Halifax, the camera operator, Dennis Fitzpatrick, 34, of Toronto, was given a clean bill of health by hospital authorities. He was exposed to the capsule for about 10 minutes after it broke loose, but no delayed reaction is expected.

BELGIANS IN DANGER

'Let Lumumba Go or Else'

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Supporters of Patrice Lumumba who rule Oriental Province today threatened to kill an unspecified number of Belgian hostages unless the deposed premier is freed.

They made the threat in a telegram to President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congolese army commander whose troops arrested Lumumba and clamped him into prison.

The United Nations took immediate emergency action to protect the estimated 2,000 whites living in the province, half of them in Stanleyville.

WHITES IN DANGER

The UN spokesman said Salumu threatened only Belgians, but was expected to make no distinction between Belgians and other whites.

An unknown number of non-Belgians are believed to live in Oriental province. Many are missionaries.

The United Nations has 1,800 Ethiopian troops in the province. They took over a school building in Stanley ille Thursday as a protected refuge for all whites.

Plans were made to evacuate the entire white population to Leopoldville if necessary.

Salumu's deadline for Lumumba's release, originally made known to UN officials Wednesday, was believed to expire tonight.

The cable said in part:

"Liberation of Lumumba must take place within 48 hours.

"If not will arrest all Belgians in Oriental province and begin by cutting off heads of some of them. . . .

"Will sabotage all Belgian interests if Lumumba not released within fixed delay."

Meanwhile, UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold told the Security Council early today that he had received "deeply disturbing" news from Stanleyville. The 11-nation council meets again tonight at 5.30 p.m. MST, to continue its debate on the new Congo crisis.

The Security Council debate adjourned at 1.30 a.m. EST after a series of bitter charges during which Britain's Sir Patrick Dean described the Congolese policies of the Soviet Union as "disgraceful" and "devoid of truth and replete with slander."

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin accused Hammarskjold of encouraging a "gang of murderers" to carry out inhuman acts against deposed premier Lumumba.

In his 90-minute speech Zorin urged the adoption of a Soviet resolution calling for the immediate release of Lumumba and his supporters and his restoration as premier.

The representative of The Congo itself, Mario Cardoso, criticized both the Soviet Union and the West for their policies in the former Belgian colony of 13,000,000.

He added that the Russians had made a great fuss about the injuries Lumumba suffered at the time of his arrest but doctors had attested he was well. Opponents of Lumumba had been badly beaten without the Russians complaining.

Sentence Increased

EDMONTON (CP) — An Edmonton man, convicted of robbery with violence Thursday, asked an Edmonton judge to increase his sentence to two years from 18 months. Ovide Schmidt explained his strange request by saying he could learn a trade if he went to Fort Saskatchewan jail for two years. His request was granted.

Philip 'Too Arrogant'—Tony 'Shire Horse'

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip is publicly accused today of being "openly arrogant" and his brother-in-law Anthony Armstrong-Jones is rapped for taking life too easy since he married Princess Margaret.

The criticisms come from the barbed pen of one of Britain's most widely read columnists, William Neil Conner, who writes in The Daily Mirror under the pseudonym Cassandra.

"Prince Philip is immensely able, publicly charming," Cassandra says.

But he adds: "In addition to possessing this Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, glamor, he is openly arrogant, and occasionally an expert in the deadly art of being able to offend and get away with it most of the time."

Princess Margaret's husband is described as one of the Jones boys "and therefore has a bank balance of goodwill in every home in the land because of his name."

But if he ever elected to take a title, then beware, the columnist warns.

"So far he has played it safe. Not only has he played it safe but he has played it slow."

The Royal Family has what to most people would be an intolerable burden of duties, notes The Mirror. "Real heavy-on-the-collar stuff that needs a lot of solid earthorse pulling.

"Mr. Armstrong-Jones is the new shire horse that seems to rest a little too often on the shafts."

Down to Bedrock

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has wisely accepted the advice of the opposition and established a National Productivity Council. Its purpose will be to promote, in Canadian industry, a greater output per man-hour of work. Here the Government is trying to reach the core of the Canadian economic problem which is infinitely complex in detail but simple in essence.

During recent years productivity has been increasing in Canada but not as fast as the cost of production in many areas of the economy, and not nearly as fast as in the industries of some other nations.

When wages and other production costs rise faster than productivity the result, mathematically, is an increase in price. And the result of an increase in price is clear now for everyone to see.

When Canada was warned long ago that it would soon price its goods out of the market the warning was usually brushed off either as unsound economics or the invention of predatory capitalists. But it happened to be true.

Canada has already priced itself out of many foreign markets and that fact is not denied by a rise in our exports this year. Of course our exports have risen somewhat but not nearly enough to keep our export industries as a whole working at full capacity; not nearly enough to absorb a continual increase in our labor force. The proof of that can be found in the unemployment statistics.

Besides, though our commodity exports have increased, they are not as large as our imports. And even if our exports far exceeded our commodity imports they would not begin to cover our over-all trade deficit which was $1.4 billions last year, only $400 millions of it in the form of physical goods, the rest in "invisibles."

This year we shall have a deficit almost as large as that, by far the largest, on a per capita basis, accumulated by any nation in the world. It will be proportionately about four times as large as the United States' deficit which is large enough to frighten the American government into all sorts of emergency measures.

We have not only priced Canadian goods out of foreign markets that we could hold with lower prices. We have also priced ourselves out of our own Canadian market.

The people of Canada would buy far more Canadian goods of many kinds if the price were even a little lower. If our manufacturing industries could cut their prices they would not have to demand import restrictions that will only raise prices still higher and worsen the problem.

Yet at the very moment when high prices are so obviously the core of our problem still higher wages are being widely demanded and, when granted, will push prices up again.

We notice that many experts are saying these days that the Government should solve this problem by inflating the currency, that another little drink of this familiar brew wouldn't do us any harm. Perhaps it wouldn't if it did not raise prices, but the latest statistics show that our retail price level has been going up and has reached an all-time peak.

Not only is the consumer penalized but sales of all sorts are discouraged and men are thrown out of work because the products of their labor cannot be sold.

All this is the legacy of a long, inflationary boom. It cannot be talked away. Our economy will not be strong and prosperous again until we can sell our goods in volume adequate to our needs and our labor force.

That is what the Government means when it sets up a productivity council representing business, labor, agriculture and other interests. But it will be some time, at best, before this council can stimulate more efficient industrial methods, and, if production costs continue to rise, they will cancel out all the gains in productivity. To raise costs under present conditions is plain economic lunacy, of which the unemployed workers are the elected victims.

Democracy—Not Worth the Effort?

THE CIVIC AND MUNICIPAL elections yesterday proved two points: for an overwhelming majority of this community's voters, the right to choose the men or women who will handle their business isn't worth a trip to the polls; and for those useful citizens who did vote, the men in office have been quite satisfactory.

Admittedly there were no spectacular issues in the contests. The responsibility before the voters, apart from passage of a sewer bylaw in Saanich and rejection of indemnities for Oak Bay Council, was merely to select the candidates best equipped for office. By returning incumbents wherever possible the electors have shown appreciation for recent policies and the individuals who have carried them out.

To those re-elected and to new men entering public office, we extend our congratulations.

One admonition seems justifiable. Should the members of the community become irate over any actions councils take in the year ahead, at least two-thirds of them must ask themselves where they were on December 8.

Security Costs Money Too

THE SOVIET UNION, WHICH through Mr. Khrushchev's demands at the General Assembly meeting in New York a few weeks ago threatened in effect to plunge a dagger into the back of the United Nations, appears now to be developing a more subtle attack. It will let the UN starve to death.

By refusing to pay its assessed quota of the costs of the United Nations' continuing Suez Canal operation, and now by threatening to refuse payment of its share of the costs in The Congo, Russia is contributing to a very severe financial crisis in the global organization.

Part of the problem has a less sinister origin. Many of the smaller member states which were having difficulty in meeting their original commitments, are in worse straits now that the United Nations' costs are rising. One result has been that the United States is carrying a greater and greater share of the financial load. Washington's share of the Suez expenses, for example, has jumped from 32.51 per cent to 47 per cent within four years. This has been a voluntary increase, it is true, but the situation poses a danger in addition to the financial problem.

It is not a healthful trend for one powerful nation to assume too large a proportion of the burden of cost. The United Nations is primarily a global body and the key word is "United." This connotes an individual responsibility to contribute fairly to the costs of the UN. At the moment the UN faces an operating deficit of $2 millions for this year, plus another $37 millions shortage due to member assessments which have not been paid.

If the United Nations must fail or curtail its work for lack of funds, what can the member nations buy with their money that will be as valuable as the UN's services? There can be only one answer — nothing.

Whose Children Are They?

"LUNAR MADNESS" MAY BE an explanation for the vandalism which left the Beacon Hill Park bust of the Queen without a head and destroyed 10 flowering cherry trees on the Gladstone Avenue boulevard. It is not, by any stretch of the imagination, an excuse.

When such stupid, costly and wilful damage is caused, some parents are making a very poor job of raising their children—whether those children are in the teens or in their twenties.

Hanging By a Hair

THE REPORT FROM THE United States Strategic Air Command, that radar signals bounced off the moon and received in Greenland last October were briefly believed to be signs of a missile approaching the United States, is as chilling as December's north wind.

It is reassuring to learn that a quick check revealed the error of the assumption. But that reassurance must be qualified.

What if the devices used to carry out the check had been misinterpreted also? When retaliation must be almost immediate in the event of missile attack, how thin is the hair that binds us to survival?

PUT ANOTHER NICKEL IN

Will She Smile, or Go Clickety-Clank?

By B. A. TOBIN

IT'S not so many years ago that I knew an elderly gentleman who claimed to have been the inventor of chocolate-vending machines in England. Coin machines have come a long way from the type which he inaugurated. Today you can buy anything from a cup of coffee to a pair of nylons from a machine. You can put your coins in and get back a package of cigarets, a pen, a bag of peanuts, a slice of pie, a rhumba, a bowl of soup or a bottle of pop. You can deposit your dirty clothes along with the coin and get them washed, even ironed.

Tobin

The experts say there will be much more of this; before we know it the coin slot will be the twentieth century gate to the full life.

Some observers, of course, see the rise of the automatic vending machine as a threat to the human race. What will be the need of workers when a machine can hand you everything? The human agent will be displaced by the clicking money gobbler and be left jobless.

As I see it, that is only one danger. A far greater threat is that the automatic dispenser will not displace us but take us over. We won't be refugees from a slot machine: we'll be dragged in and become part of the contraption.

Already the signs are evident. Go into a great supermarket, load up with goods from the attractive display cases and approach the cashier. In a way, the whole store is a giant vending machine, one in which you don't drop your coins into a slot, but carry them through a door with you.

The customer can escape from the machine, clutching bags and cartons, hypnotized and mechanized only for the short time he or she has been inside. But what of the effect on the girls who stand at the weighing counter and tot up the scores?

Custom's Last Stand

Here and there some individualist still holds out against the relentless dehumanization of the system. She retains the alert eye, the pleasant smile, the human look of a human. But most of the girls have succumbed, victims of the superior force of automation.

Like metal robots disguised to look like attractive women, they send out arms and hands which pick up the parcels and packages; register weights, quantities, values in some transistor system within their heads; turn mechanically, push buttons on a sister machine standing next to them which automatically adds the totals. Silently, smoothly, with never a buzz or a clash of gears, they pick up the proffered money, deposit it in the other machine, return your change, push the parcels toward you and swing automatically to the next customer.

These are not women, at least not for the hours of employment. They are mechanical instruments, moving with the quite efficiency of mesmerized agents. They have not been displaced by the machine; they have become the machine.

Fortunately, the transition no doubt does not extend beyond the hours of work. But how long will this reprieve continue? How long can the human mind hold out against daily submergence in the machine without being permanently affected? Will the quitting bell always turn off the machine and turn on the human being, so the latter can go home alive?

Now project the thought to a few years in the future, when not only a few young women will be closely allied with the automatic vending system, but millions and millions of us. Think of the day when a great store may consist of so many machines and humans standing in rows and performing automatic services that it will become almost impossible to perceive which is which.

Which Is Which?

Think of the daily human association with mechanical gadgets, so that in time they become individuals to the persons who work with them—inspiring individual names, respect, perhaps even affection. As persons who live together are said in time to come to resemble each other, robot and human would perhaps become indistinguishable.

Come to think of it—I wonder if the smile on that cashier yesterday was painted on?

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Claptrap'

I see Dr. Linus Pauling has been at the old Communist game again with his ban the bomb meeting (Times, Dec. 5) in Vancouver.

Surely to goodness people must be getting fed up with that old line of Communist claptrap. How on earth would banning the bomb in the West do any good unless Russia banned it too? Or maybe Dr. Pauling wants us to ban it unilaterally, probably without mutual inspection too.

ANTI-COMMUNIST.

No Preserve of Rich

I take strong exception to the statement in Norman Cribbens' article "Work Under Way for Boys' Club" in Saturday's issue of The Victoria Times in which he says the club will cater mainly to "boys from poorer families who are not encouraged to join Wolf Cubs, Scouts or church groups."

I have been associated with Scouting both in England and Canada for many years and I have never known a boy to be refused admission to a scout troop because of lack of funds.

On the contrary boys of poor families are constantly encouraged to join Scouts and Cubs. As for the churches, I am sure many of them cater to poor boys and poor families.

SCOUT LEADER.

Sweep 'Leaks'

It might interest some of your readers to know, in addition to the information given in your editorial, that part of the takings of the Irish Sweepstakes goes to fill the coffers of one of the founders of this charitable enterprise, and the estate of the other. These two men got the law changed to enable them to gamble with other people's money.

OBSERVER.

Attract All Types

In your edition of Saturday, December 3, an article appeared dealing with the work under way for a Boys' Club in Victoria. In this article it suggests that boys from poorer families and delinquent boys, are not accepted in the Wolf Cubs, Scouts or church groups. This is very far from the truth.

As far as the Scout movement is concerned, and I speak with some authority as I have been a leader in this movement for fifty years, we welcome boys from poorer homes and assist them with the purchasing of uniforms and the annual summer camp. Throughout the years I have had many delinquent boys under my care as Cubs, Scouts and Rover Scouts, and have met with a great deal of success. The Scout movement is specially designed to appeal to all types of boys, and attracts boys from rich and poor families alike.

Status of Thetis

Many ratepayers in Victoria are deeply concerned over the status of that area generally referred to as Thetis Lake Park. It is our misfortune that "Thetis" is legally only a watershed area and as such can be regarded as a commercial asset.

We had evidence of this attitude earlier in the year when the City Council sold a portion of this area to the B.C. Electric Company.

For the public therefore, there will always be the danger of losing the park as a permanent possession unless steps are taken to have it properly dedicated either as a civic park or as a provincial park.

May we ask the aldermen to give this matter earnest consideration.

Plain Talk

The Ottawa Journal

MR. CHESTER BOWLES, once American Ambassador to India and more recently a member of Congress, is a foreign policy adviser to President-elect Kennedy.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News and World Report, Mr. Bowles has set forth his views on today's world problems.

These are some of them:

On the rising tide of nationalism and desire for independence evident in Africa and elsewhere—"We must realize that this tide is enormously powerful and that it would still exist even if every Communist in the world handed in his card tomorrow."

On the world conflict—"We should not define it as a struggle between the 'American way of life' and the 'Communist way of life' in which every new, hesitant nation must at once take sides . . .

"We can stop talking as though the future belongs to the nations which can make the most bathtubs and the most missiles and deal out the toughest talk in the United Nations debates . . . This is not what the struggle is all about."

On idealism—"In today's world practical idealism is the only true realism. And that is where the advantage, if only we have the wit to see it, lies with us. It is the spirit of humanity that distinguishes us from the Soviet Union and the Chinese Communists. This is also what distinguishes the people of Nigeria, Tanganyika, Brazil and India and Japan from the Communists."

Crucial But Complex

(As Canada considers closer ties with Latin American countries, the following review of Brazilian thinking is of particular interest. Mr. Lippmann has just completed a visit to Brazil.)

By WALTER LIPPMANN

I HAVE begun to see what has gone wrong in American relations with Brazil. Inattention and mediocrity and lack of understanding are the causes of the trouble. The rulers and leaders of Brazil feel that since the death of Franklin Roosevelt there has been nobody for them to talk to who had power and who cared about them. Since his death they have had no access to the key people in this country and they have not had contact with the best minds devoted to political and financial international affairs. The deterioration began under President Truman, and the story is generally believed that Secretary Acheson told a leading Latin American diplomat that he was not interested in South America, and that the Latin Americans could talk to one of his subordinates.

Lippmann

Whether the story is true or false, what it signifies is the nub of the matter. It is generally believed in Brazil that when President Kubitchek visited Washington, President Eisenhower went through the ceremonies for him but told him to talk about business to subordinate officials.

When the Brazilians have come in contact with the second and third level, they have found, so they say, that whether under orders from above or by their own preconception these officials did not understand or sympathize with the problems of an under-developed country.

Complex Point

What kind of understanding have the Brazilians not found in Washington during the past ten years? The point is crucial but it is complex, and I am compelled to simplify, perhaps to oversimplify. In Washington, the Brazilians say, they have been confronted with men in the treasury, the state department, and the world bank who have looked upon Brizilian inflation through the eyes of the classical economists of a highly developed country like the United States or Great Britain. That is to say, they have thought that inflation meant that producion was at a maximum and that the government and the people were trying to buy more goods than existed. The remedy for inflation in the classical economics of advanced countries is to spend less and to save more.

This may be true for the United States, say the Brazilians, but it is not true for Brazil. There is inflation in Brazil although there is no full use of the productive resources. Inflation occurs because the economy is strangled by its own backwardness, by the lack of electric power and of fuel, of roads and transportation, of education, of health — of those underlying facilities which are essential to the expansion of a free industrial economy. A country in Brazil's stage of development cannot cure inflation by retrenchment alone, however desirable and necessary it is to do away with the marginal waste and corruption. In order to make its economy work, it must build what the Brazilians like to call the infrastructure — that is to say the public facilities without which a free economy cannot exist and expand.

Public Sector

The Brazilians believe that Sen. Kennedy and his economic advisers understand what the conservative Eisenhower economists do not undersand — the role of the public sector in a free economy. They expect under the new administration to meet much more sophisticated men when they come to Washington.

I do not think that they think that a Kennedy administration can or will or should pay their international deficits. On the contrary, there is a deep moral revulsion against financial dependence on the United States, and the reasons for this arise not from their being anti-American but from their own growing sense of self-respect. They are within sight of economic independence, and more and more they feel and act like an independent nation.

What about their foreign policy? I must warn the reader that what I have to say here is based not on information but on inference. For what it may be worth, I believe that the Brazilian leaders know that the post-war period has ended, that the kind of action represented by the Marshall Plan is no longer possible. But they need capital from abroad, and to get it they will have to go to the unsentimental capital markets of the world, and they will have to become eligible for loans by playing according to the more orthodox rules of the game.

Eliminate Subsidies

To do this they will have to take measures at home to eliminate the more obvious forms of unproductive spending —principally the subsidies to keep down the cost of living. These measures will, of course, be unpopular. Unless all the signs fail, the new Quadros administration will be determined to make it perfectly clear that its financial orthodoxy is not directed by the United States. For that reason, and also for other reasons, we should not be surprised to see the government strike out rather boldly and spectacularly away from the established line of United States foreign policy. Almost certainly the Quadros administration will recognize the Soviet Union and probably also Red China. It may well align itself frequently in the United Nations and elsewhere with countries like India, Egypt, and Yugoslavia.

If this happens, if will be no reason for going into hysterics. Brazil will remain our friend, bound to us by long tradition, by economic and strategic ties. The new Quadros administration derives from the state of Sao Paulo which is the greatest industrial complex and the largest monument to free enterprise in South America.

Pass the Salt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Few things in recorded history are more stirring than man's unceasing quest for a better salt shaker.

In some ways, I think, it is even more thrilling than the quest for a better mousetrap. Certainly it is more dramatic than the quest for a better pepper shaker.

West

The struggle to make salt flow freely has challenged international ingenuity for more than a century, particularly on rainy days. It has been marked by triumphs and failures, heartbreaks and heartburn.

I learned all of this, and more, from Dr. Arthur G. Peterson, a local citizen who makes a hobby of collecting salt shakers. He is so wrapped up in his hobby he has written a book about it.

★ ★ ★

As little as we might think about it, and I personally think about it very little, Abraham Lincoln may never have seen a salt shaker. Peterson tells us that salt dispersers with perforated tops were practically unknown before 1865.

The trouble was that salt absorbed too much moisture for use in shakers. Lincoln probably had to make do with a salt dish, but I doubt that he worried much about it. He had a lot of other things on his mind.

Improved methods of refining salt changed the method of dispensing it. The early dispensers were variously known as sprinklers, dusters, boxes and dreges. The term "shaker" did not come into use until the 1890's.

Some folks persisted for a while in calling a shaker a "cellar," but they were generally looked upon as being old stick-in-the-muds.

Despite additives, coatings and other improvements, salt still had a nasty habit of clinging to the shakers in damp weather. People had to unscrew the cap and sprinkle the stuff around with their fingers. By that time, the eggs were cold.

★ ★ ★

In the space of a decade or two, the U.S. Patent Office issued more than 1,000 patents to inventors who thought they had found a way to overcome this difficulty.

Some of them invented agitators, rotors or vibrators to make the shakers shake. Some put brushes in the bottle. Some used propellers.

The next step was to put something in the shakers that would absorb the moisture. The next step after that was to use valves, flanges and stoppers in an effort to keep the moisture out.

Then there was a cycle of pin devices to keep the holes open. Then there was a cycle of scrapers and cutters, and after that a cycle of sifters, strainers and crushers.

It all ended, finally, when someone discovered a way to coat salt crystals to keep them from caking in the first place.

Anyone for mousetraps?

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE REYBURN

Man Who Refused $76,000

LONDON—at random . . . Never realized until now how few Methodists there are in this country. The figure is less than 750,000.

Reyburn

Reason it crops up is that folks here are still arguing the pros and cons of this young married man with two children, who has been saving for a new house and car, turning down a $76,000 win on the soccer pools.

Against his Methodist principles, apparently, to do any more than touch the cheque (to feel he could have had it in his grasp) and then hand it over to charity.

That was the idea at first, anyway. But after talking it over with his family, he decided it would be all right to accept the money after all—which made a lot of folks breathe easier, I can tell you.

Didn't expect to get letters from readers about an item I had the other day about a fellow here who has been asking in the press for all the information he can get on the Teddy bear, since he's doing research on the toy's origin, background, etc.

But letters I did get, including one from Mrs. Violet Clarke of Willowdale.

She tells me (and the Oxford Dictionary confirms it) that the Teddy bear originated with Theodore Roosevelt.

Seems that when he was on a bear hunt in Mississippi in 1902 members of the party caught a small brown bear which they tied to a tree for the President to shoot when he arrived on the scene. He would have none of that, and released the bear.

Cartoonist Clifford K. Berryman of the Washington Post featured the incident in a cartoon which captured the public's fancy in a reprint that was distributed by the thousands, and it wasn't long before Teddy bears became standard equipment in every nursery.

TODAY'S TRAFFIC TROUBLE TIP

Meter Cheating Must End

What about meter cheaters?

For a year now the traffic engineer's department, whose responsibility includes parking meters, has waged war on repeat-metering in mid-town Victoria.

Their objective is to keep parking spaces circulating to provide as much short-term parking for as many cars as possible during business hours, thus reducing traffic congestion.

One of the biggest obstacles to this end is the meter hog, probably close kin to the road hog.

The driver who parks his car right outside his office for the full time allowable on the parking meter, then runs out to drop coins for another hour or two of parking, is a selfish cheat.

He is not only breaking the overtime parking law out depriving other motorists of the curb space they could be using while on legitimate business in the area.

Curbsides glutted with parked cars plug the city's narrow thoroughfares because there remains no space for the transient driver to stop his car for a few minutes, let out a passenger or pick up the groceries.

He is forced to circle block after block, adding to the traffic flow which becomes impeded when, in desperation, he double-parks.

The city is concerned with the parking situation, fearing it will further deteriorate as cars multiply and business hours lengthen.

Meter patrolling has been stepped up in the past year, but according to traffic engineer Norman Worsley, "we are always trying to overcome overtime parking."

We have had a lot of trouble with people who are continual offenders for repeat metering," he said. "Some spend $20 to $30 a month in nickels (for meters) and fines (when caught) for the privilege of having the car right at their door.

"This is not playing ball. The idea is to keep cars moving and spaces available."

To prove re-metering, meter patrolmen use chalk marks on car tires, and "other methods."

So far, chalk marks have not been challenged locally, but on the basis of a recent Vancouver case a more positive proof may be required to convict an offender.

SYNOPSIS—High pressure over most of the province was weakening very slowly this morning as the leading edge of a storm area in the Gulf of Alaska moves slowly closer. This will bring a gradual relief from the dense fog that blanketed the south coast Thursday and most of Thursday night. However, it will probably mean an increase in cloudiness for Saturday as the cloud shield spreads slowly eastward. Very little change is expected for the remainder of the province.

RUSS-CHINESE SPLIT 'JOKE' CLAIMS EATON

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian-born Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton returned on Thursday night from a visit with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow and declared:

"We're only kidding ourselves if we think that the Russians and the Chinese will split up. It's only wishful thinking on our part."

Private TV Net Okayed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors announced today it will permit a company headed by S. W. Caldwell to form a private television network in Canada.

The firm, Canadian Television Network Limited, which is still to be incorporated, must make another application to the board by next Aug. 31, however, to seek permission to operate.

The board said the new company must have affiliation agreements with six television stations not affiliated with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The network must operate at least 10 hours a week, and give the board a satisfactory outline of its programs.

'FORGERY' SAYS BRITON

Secret Nixon Report On Africa Unveiled

LAGOS (Reuters)—A document claimed to contain a "secret policy report" on Africa by Vice-President Richard Nixon, of the United States, was circulated Thursday at the first African regional conference of the International Labor Organization.

The document, labelled a "forgery" by a British delegate, also contained what its authors called a "reproduction" of a secret British cabinet paper on trade unionism in Africa.

It quoted Nixon as saying after his 1957 Africa visit: "American interests in the future are so great as to justify us in not hesitating even to assist the departure of the colonial powers from Africa. If we can win native opinion by this process the future of America in Africa will be assured."

A foreword to the document was signed by Chu Nzeribe, general secretary of the Nigerian Trade Union Congress, which has been accused by the rival Trade Union Congress of Nigeria as having close affiliations with the Communist-backed World Federation of Trade Unions.

The 12-page document, quoting a British "annexe to a cabinet paper on policy in Africa," says in part:

"Since it is difficult to accuse trade unions of serving colonial ends, with their aid it should be possible to establish harmonious relations with the new social and political institutions in Africa now being created, and with the administration of industrial and agricultural interets which we hope to maintain after any political changes."

Charge Against Coyne Due for New Airing

OTTAWA (CP) — The furore over demands that James Coyne be removed as governor of the Bank of Canada likely will get a further airing in Parliament.

Mr. Coyne's removal from the $50,000-a-year job as head of the agency responsible for Canada's monetary policy was demanded by 17 university economists in letters to Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Fleming, who agreed to table them in the House, remarked that the economists gave no grounds for their statement that they have lost faith in the bank's management to pull Canada out of her economic difficulties.

One of the economists, H. Scott Gordon of Carleton University, said today, the letter was not written for publication and "we assumed that Mr. Fleming would know what we were talking about because his budget speech last March 31 gave a point-by-point refutation of Mr. Coyne's public statements."

Said Mr. Fleming: " . . . I must say that the indictment is somewhat lacking in any statement of the grounds; I am left in some doubt as to the particular grounds upon which this indictment is based."

The matter rested there in the Commons Thursday but the opposition may revive the issue during the debate on Mr. Fleming's supplementary budget or press for an investigation by a Commons committee.

CCF Leader Argue gave an indication that the CCF will not allow it to die when he asked whether the government will make possible an investigation by the Commons banking committee.

Mr. Fleming replied that the Commons will have to decide that question when committees are set up and when the bank makes its annual report, usually presented in March.

The economists—12 from the University of Toronto, four from Carleton University here and one from St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S.—charged that Mr. Coyne's public statements "have seriously shaken our faith in the wisdom and competence of the bank's management".

They said policies pursued by the bank "have not displayed sufficient concern for the difficulties and uncertainties of the financial market or sufficient awareness of the true state of the economy in general".

They went no farther but Professor William C. Hood, of the University of Toronto, who said he refused to sign their letter, indicated the quarrel centres on the bank's policy with regard to money supply.

Mr. Coyne has come under fire from chartered bank officers for keeping too firm a hand on the amount of money in circulation and Professor Hood, during an appearance Thursday before the Senate manpower committee, echoed their demands for an increase.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coyne remained aloof from the controversy, returning only "No comment" to requests for statements of his position. A lawyer, he was appointed to a seven-year term as bank governor in 1954.

Air passengers to and from Britain in 1960 exceeded passengers by sea for the first time in history.

'Mr. Forester' Title Goes To Ex-Deputy

One of B.C.'s best-known forestry officials Thursday night was honored as "Mr. Forester" of the west.

Dr. C. D. Orchard was awarded the annual Western forestry plaque at a banquet for the Western Forestry and Conservation Association Conference attended by 500 delegates from Canada and the U.S. in the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Orchard was until 1958 B.C.'s deputy forest minister and was credited with setting up the province's sustained yield policy.

He now is a private forest consultant.

Dr. Orchard received the award from Hugh Hodgins, of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., president of the conference.

Banda Urges Followers Keep Peace

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. Hastings Banda, head of Nyasaland's Negro nationalists, Thursday urged his followers to keep the peace in the uneasy protectorate and simultaneously defended them against charges of violence against political opponents.

The charges were made by six members of the British Parliament—three Labor members and three Conservatives—who returned Thursday from a two-week tour of the Central African Federation of Southern and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

They said they had photographs to prove their charges against Banda's Malawi Congress party but added that they were not personally criticizing him.

At a press conference, Banda denounced the allegations as a "red herring." He said he has sent a cable to his supporters urging peace and calm and telling them to "simply ignore the stooges and our political opponents."

REDS WAGE PAPER WAR

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — "There are some weapons of the Communists that you can't fight with tanks," said the trade expert. "Bills of lading, for instance, and insurance policies."

That was his way of warning what may happen if the West German-East German trade pact, due to expire on December 31, is not renewed. He thinks the business life of isolated West Berlin could be slowly strangled without an issue arising that would call for armed force.

This expert is Dr. Kurt Leopold, who for years has been dealing with the Communists about trade on behalf of the Bonn government.

On September 30 Chancellor Konrad Adenauer cancelled a pact that he had been running nine years. The trade it covered is expected to reach a record $500,000,000 this year.

It was cancelled as a reprisal against the East German Communists who ordered Germans coming from the West to apply to them for a special pass to visit East Berlin.

If the Communists decide to play it rough, strange things could happen Jan. 1. Small sections of West Berlin, and of West Germany, may suddenly find themselves short of gas, electricity and water. This could be only temporary.

A more serious crisis might come because of the bills of lading. Under a Big Four order dating back to 1946, these lists of freight must accompany most shipments across the 110 miles of Communist territory that separate Berlin from the West.

If the trade pact expires, the bills of lading will still be required but there will be no rules on how they should be drawn. The East Germans may ask for impossible information and insist on elaborate inspections if they are not furnished.

Rambler American and Classic again win Gas Economy Test

IN THE RECENTLY CONCLUDED gas economy test, conducted by the Toronto Daily Star, a Rambler American "Custom" with standard transmission and a Rambler Classic "Custom" with automatic transmission again topped their respective classes. The gas mileage figures above represent the average achieved in exhaustive tests, which included stop-and-go traffic as well as high-speed highway driving.

This latest victory proves once again that Rambler is way out in front when it comes to gas economy. But gas economy is only part of the Rambler economy story. Figure out the important savings you get from such features as the ceramic-armoured muffler, guaranteed for the life of the car during original ownership, Rambler's reasonable prices and traditionally high trade-in value and Rambler's quality construction which helps cut maintenance costs to a minimum. CCF Flies Divorce Kite
Private Bill Talked Out

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A CCF private member's bill designed to create what would be Canada's first national divorce law was debated for five hours in the Commons Thursday—the full time permitted to such a measure.

No vote was taken on the bill sponsored by Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming.) The result is that it reverts to the bottom of the House order paper and likely will not come up again this session.

The bill would have offered—but not imposed—the new law as a replacement for the existing divorce statutes in eight provinces. In the main these statutes recognize adultery as the only divorce ground.

Added as grounds by the CCF bill would be cruelty—now recognized only in Nova Scotia—and the entirely new ones of desertion, habitual drunkenness, narcotic addiction, non-consummation, insanity, five years' separation of the parties, the husband's habitual failure to support his wife, and certain criminal convictions.

Absence of divorce courts in Quebec and Newfoundland would be overcome, under the CCF plan, by eliminating the one-province aspect of the domicile law. It would provide an all-Canada domicile, allowing residents of those provinces to sue for divroces elsewhere in Canada.

Dishonest Practices Commonplace

In a step new to Canada—but one followed by Australia earlier this year—the new bill would make it a duty of divorce court judges to attempt reconcilliation of the parties in every divorce suit.

"Divorce should be resorted to only as a last resort," said Mr. Peters, a married man with three children.

When it does become necessary, he said, the proposed law would make it possible "without lying, cheating, getting involved in collusion with a lawyer, or hiring a dishonest detective."

Mr. Peters said these tactics are common now because the laws permit divorce only for adultery. The present system was "based on hyprocrisy and dishonesty." The proposed change would make possible divorce "with honor, honesty . . . at an economical price and in a respectable manner."

R. D. Caldwell Stewart (PC-Charlotte), a New Brunswick lawyer, said the bill's proposal for all-Canadian domicile represents "an exceedingly wide departure" from existing law. A person could have only one domicile—the province in which he was born or intends to remain permanently.

Exceptional Cases Unduly Noted

Eldon Woolliams (PC-Bow River), a lawyer, said the problem of finding a divorce law which treats the individual with dignity, compassion and justice is not an easy one.

He contended that collusion between parties in a divorce action is spotted by judges who consider the actions. He said he is convinced that there is no collusion in the majority of cases that go before the courts in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The exceptional cases of connivance are exaggerated by newspapers, he said, and should not be considered the main grounds for changing the divorce law.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) supported the bill. He said a change in Canada's divorce laws is "long overdue." The effect of the law at present is such that it condones hypocrisy, collusion, connivance, unhappiness, immorality and perjury.

Just before the debate closed for the dinner adjournment, Robert McCleave (PC-Halifax), chairman of the Commons Private Bills Committee which handles divorce petitions after Senate consideration, said it wanted to correct "some of the fictions" heard during the debate.

The chief fiction, he said, is that the proposed law would suddenly "make honest our divorce laws"—a point of view conflicting with the experience of other countries with laws similar to the one proposed by Mr. Peters.

FACE OF TIME

Beauty in age is exemplified in character-full face of centenarian Mrs. Ruth Driver, who neighbors describe as "always as bright as can be." She has alert mind and interest in world events, knows who holds various civic offices and has a wide circle of friends in Victoria. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

'I'VE LIVED 100 YEARS BECAUSE I'M NEVER SICK'

By TONY DICKASON

Open house is being held today by Mrs. Ruth Driver at 1888 Carnarvon to mark her birthday.

She's aged 100.

The five-foot two-inch little lady, who weighs a mere 85 pounds, wants to see "anybody who wants to come, providing they don't stay too long."

She attributes her longevity to one sensible fact: she has never been sick.

Mrs. Driver lives with her two daughters, Mrs. Edith Milligan and Mrs. Esther Harwood.

She makes her own bed and sets the table for the three of them.

Mrs. Driver is an active member of Esquimalt United Church and "reads all the time."

And this without glasses!

The reading comprises daily newspapers and magazines.

Up at 9 a.m., she retires at 9 p.m., takes walks in the garden and goes out for drives.

KNITS FOR EIGHT

In her spare time—not much when a century has passed and the necessary slow-down set in—she knits for her eight great-grandchildren.

Born in "a tiny place," Mineral Point, Wis., a mining camp, Mrs. Driver recalls when the Union soldiers came home at the end of the U.S. Civil War.

The family came to Victoria in 1906 and have lived here since.

Mr. Driver, who worked for the B.C. Electric and whose trade was "horseshoeing," died about 20 years ago.

More Unemployed

LONDON (Reuters) — Unemployed workers in the British auto industry totalled 13,959 persons Nov. 14, the government announced Thursday. The figure was 2,268 in November, 1959.

Soo Line Continues

MOOSE JAW (CP) — The Soo Line passenger train service has been given a reprieve. Intended cancellation of the service has been indefinitely postponed, A. J. Cowie, Canadian Pacific Railway operations superintendent, announced Thursday.

CMS Announces Dividend Increase

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Consolidated Mining and Smelting has announced its second 10-cent extra payment on semi-annual dividend payable, along with the regular 40 cents, Jan. 16 to shareholders of record Dec. 16. Total dividend for this year, is now $1, up 20 cents from last year.

The increase was greeted with apparent disappointment in the market where an extra of 15 or 20 cents had been freely anticipated and the stock dipped slightly following the announcement.

Latest mine merger talk concerns Highland Bell and Mastodon Zinc Mines with a suggestion that Mastodon, which has an established tax loss, will buy out Highland Bell and then the shares of both firms would be exchanged for stock in a single new company.

Ratio of exchange suggested is Highland Bell one for one and Mastodon one for 30 new shares.

A group headed by Home Oil is to resume drilling soon in the Celibeta Lake area of the Northwest Territories where it discovered gas in the Slave Point formation earlier this year. Two more wells are to be drilled on a 1,200,000-acre farmout from Canada Southern and the group must spend $6.5 million to earn a half-interest in the wells and acreage.

Saratoga Processing Co. Ltd., an affiliate of Westcoast Transmission, has applied to the Alberta government for a permit to build Canada's first sour gas transmission line.

It would be a 45-mile, 16-inch line from the Savanna Creek field to a point near Coleman and would initially move 75 million cubic feet of high hydrogen sulphide content gas to a proposed processing plant three miles west of Coleman. The clean gas would then go into the Alberta Gas Trunk line to the Pacific Gas Transmission line and into the U.S. market.

National Association of Purchasing Agents survey of U.S. business for November takes a rather gloomy view of year-end prospects.

The association reports: "There is no doubt that business is ending 1960 on a recessionary note. Most purchasing executives express an uneasy feeling and, at best, say their companies are coasting and hoping."

Many American purchasing agents have reported that to date the real recession has been in profits rather than in volume of business. However, November production and new order figures indicate that both these categories worsened substantially during the month of November.

The pressure of rising costs is not being reflected in overall commodity prices, for prices are still drifting downward despite numerous complaints that present margins of profit are not adequate.

Purchasing men, the association reports, are being extremely cautious in their buying policies these days and are making only minimum commitments required to have material on hand to meet scheduled jobs.

Use of uranium as an alloying agent to improve the fatigue strength, corrosion resistance, and elevated temperature properties of certain commercial steels is seen as offering some hope to the hard-pressed Canadian uranium industry.

The new development is the result of 14 months' research by the physical metallurgy division of the federal department of mines and technical surveys. The program was financed by the department and the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. The process has been patented in Canada and world patents applied for.

SHIP LOADINGS SHOW INCREASE

OTTAWA (CP)—Vessels departing from Canadian ports for foreign countries reported cargoes weighing 50,455,303 tons in 1959, an increase of 25 per cent over the preceding year's 40,298,882 tons, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

All ports recorded increases. Pacific ports loadings advanced six per cent to 10,550,040 tons from 9,923,326 in 1958.

High Voltage Transmission Line Developed

LENOX, Mass. (AP) — The General Electric Company sent electric energy surging at 710,000 volts through a new prototype half-mile transmission line Thursday.

The highest previously-reported experimental high voltage transmission was 600,000 volts over a short experimental line near Leningrad in 1954.

The $7,500,000 research under-written by GE and other companies was described by GE officials as of tremendous importance in meeting the problem of an increasing demand for electricity.

Extra - high - voltage lines would make it possible to locate plants in remote places beside a river or near a coal mine.

New Steel Process Now Available

OTTAWA (CP) — An exclusive Canadian metallurgical process for using uranium as an alloy in strengthening steel has been patented and now is available to the steel industry, Mines Minister Comtois has announced.

The method, developed after 14 months of research by the Physical Metallurgy Division of the mines department, involves the addition of about one pound of uranium to a ton of steel. This small amount of uranium improves the strength of steel, its resistance to corrosion and its properties at high temperatures.

Canada's Air Policy Blasted

HAMILTON, Ont. — Unless Canada's air policy is redesigned to cope with the pressures of the jet era, the air transportation industry could shrivel and die in the fierce heat of foreign competition. This warning was sounded by G. W. G. McConachie, president of Canadian Pacific Airlines, in a speech to the traffic club here Thursday.

"Under pressure of the unforgiving economics of jet operation, the finest air service in the world will not alone insure the industry's survival. Unless we can expand and develop new route patterns, our air transportation will suffer the same fate as our merchant marine which was swept from the seas by foreign competition," the speaker said.

Criticizing what he termed the "ludicrous" bilateral air agreement between Canada and the U.S., Mr. McConachie said that the negotiations resulting in the present state of trans-border air service had been influenced by "selfish, shortsighted and restrictive policies imposed by special interests."

There should be direct Canadian and American air services linking the major cities of the two countries.

Advocating greater aggressiveness in bargaining for Canadian air rights abroad, Mr. McConachie supported an Air Industries and Transport Association proposal for creating a ministry of civil aviation in the Canadian government.

These are the people who make the B of M — they are our "greatest asset" which no balance-sheet can show.

TRIBUTE

"It is always a rewarding experience to see the Bank in action in the field and, this year, I have been particularly impressed by the way in which our staff have carried the burdens which difficult monetary conditions and intense competition have placed upon them," R. D. Mulholland, B of M General Manager, told the Bank's shareholders at their 143rd Annual Meeting.

"It is in circumstances such as these that the quality of a staff becomes unmistakably clear and I can assure you that the fine spirit which animates our men and women has been much in evidence during the year. I would like to convey to our staff our sincere thanks and appreciation for the great contribution they have made to the results placed before you.

"Conventional expressions of appreciation are always inadequate, but I would like to say also a word of special thanks to my executive associates at Head Office and divisional points for their unfailing support and for the manner in which they have borne with distinction so much of the stress of the past year."

Royal City Re-Elects Grandmother as Mayor

By The Canadian Press

One woman mayor was re-elected handily and two district reeves were upset in civic elections on the British Columbia mainland Thursday.

Voters also approved some $12,000,000 in money bylaws, put a woman into the top office of one of the province's three towns, defeated a proposal to fluoridate Trail's drinking water supplies and forced the city clerk in Vernon to cast a tie-breaking ballot in an aldermanic race.

In Nelson, the electorate turned down a suggestion to convert the old city hospital into a city hall.

In all, 88 communities went to the polls, with several voting only on money bylaws or referendums, having filled council and school board vacancies by acclamation.

Six more will vote next week, the City of Vancouver on Wednesday and five villages on Thursday — Ladysmith, which received a postponement of a week in its voting date, and Williams Lake, Tofino, Ucluelet and Zeballos, which weren't advised of a change in the Municipal Act setting the date ahead a week from last year.

The remaining 28 organized communities in the province filled all posts by acclamation.

SECOND TERM

In remaining 28 organized communities in the province filled all posts by acclamation.

In the only city mayoralty contest in New Westminster, Mayor Elizabeth Wood, a 53-year-old grandmother, was returned for a second term, winning easily over two male competitors.

She drew 3,486 votes, compared with 2,424 polled by Fred (Toby) Jackson, the man she defeated in 1958 when she first came to office, and 606 by former mayor and alderman, Lewis Sangster.

The result was considered an endorsement of Mrs. Wood's policies, which had brought about Mr. Sangster's resignation from council last summer. Mr. Sangster and the mayor tangled bitterly several times and twice the mayor had Mr. Sangster removed by police from council chambers.

Reeves were defeated in North Vancouver and Kitimat.

In North Vancouver, Dick Hannesson, a 43-year-old lawyer, defeated Reeve Murdo Frazer, who sought a second term.

Kitimat, which had the heaviest turnout of any community Thursday with 80 per cent of the eligible casting ballots, turned out Reeve M. E. Gooding and installed Sam Lindsay.

Mrs. Ethel Ogle, an alderman in the town of Mission City for some time, sent her male opponent out of office in the only mayoralty race among the three B.C. towns. She defeated incumbent W. J. Windebank 554 to 380.

Mayors Frank Spicer of Fort St. John and A. V. Fraser of Quesnel had been returned to office by acclamation on nomination day.

Among the money bylaws before ratepayers, only three major ones were defeated—a $700,000 proposal for a community recreation centre in Kitimat and two public works projects totalling $210,000 in Prince George.

PROJECTS APPROVED

In Kamloops, where the pressure on available space at Royal Inland Hospital has been tremendous for some time, ratepayers in the city and district approved expenditures totalling $2,238,877. Prince Rupert approved a $1,563,000 waterworks improvement bylaw.

In Vernon, city clerk Ian Garven had to cast his ballot to break a tie for the third aldermanic seat open. Frank Ryall and Ellwood Rice each polled 1,059 votes and under the Municipal Act, the returning officer casts the deciding vote in case of a tie. Mr. Rice said he would ask for a recount.

Generally, voting was light, an expected occurrence in an off-year for mayoralty races.

DRAMATIC AIRBORNE GUN BATTLE

Plane Theft Plot Fails in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A band of about 150 anti-Castro insurgents was reported fighting in central Cuba today after a new landing near Corralillo on the north coast 120 miles east of Havana.

Although the armed forces ministry called the report a "counter - revolutionary rumor," sources opposed to Prime Minister Fidel Castro insisted it was true.

Two militiamen were reported killed by one such band which came out of the mountains on a raid for food Thursday.

This report—one of several concerning armed clashes—came amid these other developments:

Authorities at Cienfuegos, near the south central coast, announced one person was killed and four were injured in an unsuccessful attempt of a group of counter-revolutionaries to seize a Cuban airliner in flight and force the pilot to fly out of the country.

A Cuban diplomatic note to the United States charged that a doubleheader space rocket, which fell in fragments near Holquin in eastern Cuba 10 days ago and killed a cow was a part of "that tremendous plot which under the stimulus and financing of your government is being schemed in the United States against our small but erect nation."

The attempt to commandeer the airliner was balked, Cienfuegos officials said when the pilot crashlanded the plane during a dramatic airborne gun battle.

The pilot, Capt. Francisco Martinez, 52, was gravely wounded. The co-pilot and purser also were wounded.

A total of 17 persons—all Cubans—were aboard the plane, a twin-engined DC-3.

Damage Suit Dismissed After 2 Years

An action for damages in a car accident which occurred more than two years ago was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court here Thursday.

Gordon Henry Smith, 30, of 3935 Holland Avenue, Saanich, claimed that he wrenched his back in the accident which occurred on the Trans-Canada Highway on Nov. 9, 1958.

He and his father, Joseph Smith, claimed damages from Ronald William Jones and Barbara Jones of 200 Duke Street, Metchosin, who were travelling in the other car.

However, they asked leave to withdraw the action after George Gregory, counsel for the defendants, had cross-examined Gordon Smith on a number of points involved in the accident — particularly its location.

Mr. Justice H. W. MacInnes then dismissed the case.

FROM REAR

Earlier, Gordon Smith said he was driving a car south on the Trans-Canada Highway when the Jones car crashed into it from the rear as he was making a left-hand turn.

He said he wrenched his back when the car went out of control and crashed into a ditch.

SPORTS PARADE

Junior Jesse James

By OSCAR FRALEY

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — Child prodigies frighten most of us oldsters, giving us a natural sense of inferiority, and it's even worse when you have 10 thumbs and two left feet.

My personal genius is confined to a fumbling ability to replace light bulbs, a golf score which looks like a bowling score and a bowling score which should be a golf score. That's why I shudder when I meet a kid like Johnny la Ponzina.

Johnny is 12 years old, has a six handicap on the golf course and shot a four under par 34-34—68 on the tough Shawnee, Pa., layout.

To look at Johnny, you'd think he was a nice, normal kid instead of a potential Bobby Jones who could cut you up like salami on the greens. He is a pleasant, mannerly youngster with a big shock of black hair and smiling brown eyes.

GENIUS WITH A CLUB

Don't believe all you see. He's got to be a junior Jesse James; a miniature Dillinger of the divots; a pint-sized Pretty Boy Floyd of the fairways. The trouble is he's a genius with a golf club.

A five-foot, five-inch eighth-grader who scales only 135 pounds, Johnny admits modestly that his driving causes him some embarrassment. "I guess my putting and chipping is the best part of my game."

He's serious, too. For this is a youngster dedicated to golf and he plays it every day.

PRACTICE PAYS OFF

Born in New York City, he already is a veteran at 12. Johnny's father played at Bayside, Long Island, and the boy started swinging a club at the age of five. The family now lives in Miami and Johnny hits the Miami Shores Country Club course as soon as classes are over.

That dedicated practice already has paid off handsomely. Johnny won the U.S. national jaycee championship with a 36-hole total of 82-79—161. He also copped the Florida state Jaycee tournament with an 80-78—158. He has played in 20 junior tournaments and only once did he fail to finish among the first three.

Most kids want to grow up to be a garbage man, a fireman, a policeman, Johnny Unitas, a lawyer, a doctor or Jack Dempsey.

KID CAN'T MISS

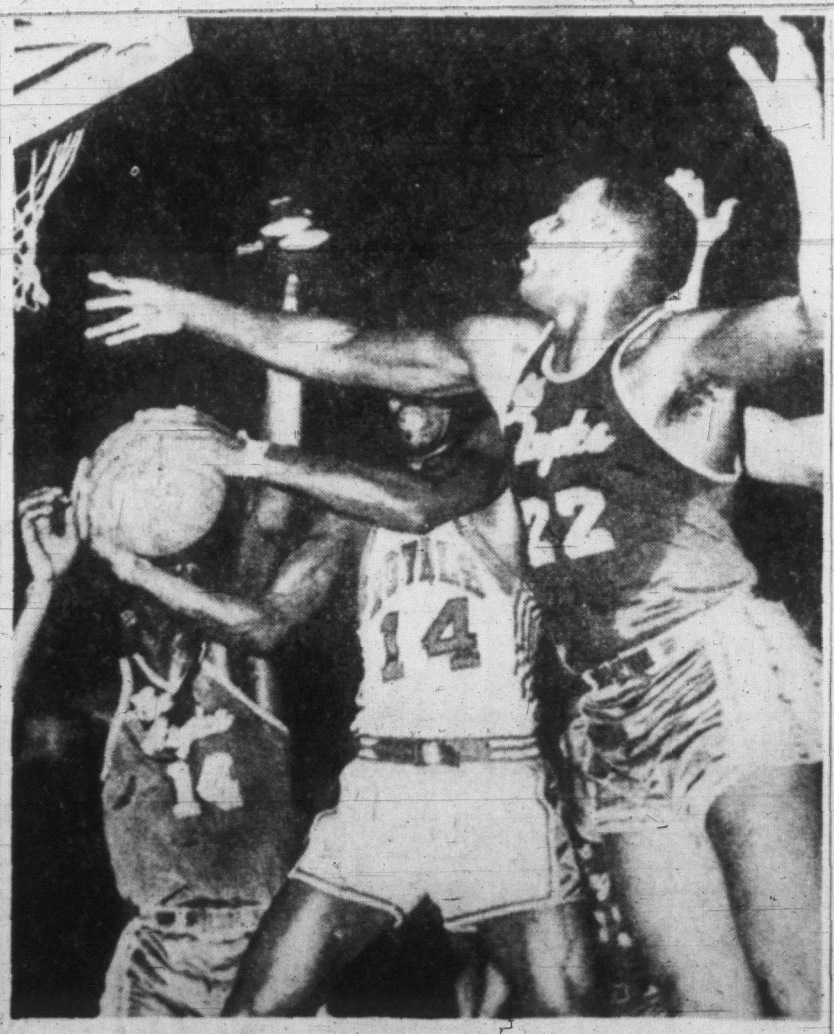
"I want to go to college first of all," Johnny says with a wisdom beyond his years. "That will be very important later on. But after I get out of college I want to be a golf professional."

Take it from Ed Furgol, a former U.S. open champion, the kid can't miss. Ed has been tutoring the boy several years, ever since the day the youngster drove into him from so far back "I couldn't hardly see him." The boy hurried forward and apologized. Ed took an immediate liking to the cut of his jib—and the fluidity of his swing.

Johnny has played with Arnold Palmer, Bob Toski and Furgol, in each instance scoring in the 70s.

"Golly, it makes you nervous when you tee off," he says, "but then you forget all about it after the first drive."

Nervy kid. Imagine him offering me nine a side. Particularly since I should get 10.



NO FOOLING, HE SCORED!

Rearguards Pour Into Cougar Camp

Cats to Clash With Warriors Here Tonight

The Bureau of Missing Persons may be called off the case now.

Georges Roy has been located.

Victoria Cougar coach George Agar announced Thursday that the burly defenceman is scheduled to join the Western Hockey League team when it launches an invasion of Prairie centres with a game in Calgary on Tuesday.

Is that definite?

"It's as definite as I can give it to you right now. Roy says he'll meet us in Calgary and this time I have a feeling he won't pull a disappearing act on us," declared Agar.

TOO FAR FROM HOME

Roy, 33, is the defenceman from Quebec who was scheduled to join the Cats a few weeks ago. His acquisition was announced with some fanfare but the burly rearguard never quite made it to Victoria.

"He explained he thought Victoria was a bit too far from home. He tried to join Hull-Ottawa and then Montreal of the Eastern League, but they wouldn't let him play. He's on the suspended list until he reports to me.

"He found himself on a spot. He has to play, so I guess he's decided Victoria really isn't that far from Quebec."

Cougars, whose prime interest at the moment is tonight's meeting in Memorial Arena with Winnipeg Warriors, now seemingly have an abundance of defencemen, which suggests that when it rains rearguards, it really pours.

LOSING STREAK

Agar, hoping for his charges to snap out of a four-game losing streak, Wednesday came up with big Ted Lebodia, a 200-pound defenceman who is also expected to join Cougars in time for the Prairie swing. Lebodia was offered a five-game tryout.

Thursday, it was time for Agar to announce that Pete Wright, a member of last year's cast, left the door open for his emergence from the ranks of the retired.

Roy was today's good news.

In addition to the aforementioned, Cougars' present cast includes Hugh Currie, Jim Hay, Don McLeod and Wayne North.

"Somewhere," muttered Agar, "in that group there must be four defencemen who'll help us on the way."

Tonight's game with Warriors gets under way at 8.30.

Vs, PACKERS COMBINE TO FORM OSHL TEAM

KELOWNA (CP) — A combined Penticton and Kelowna club will enter the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

This was decided here Thursday night at a meeting between executives from both cities. No details on the new team were immediately available but it was known that the players will be employed residents from both cities.

The Penticton Vs and Kelowna Packers both withdrew from the OSHL last week because of financial difficulties. Penticton, which was drawing good crowds, had difficulty finding jobs for its players.

Kelowna's coach, Jim Middleton, will coach the new entry.

ENDING RUMORS that he would quit Canadian football, quarterback Tobin Rote agreed Thursday to play another season with Toronto Argonauts. Veteran Rote threw record 38 touchdown passes this year to pace Argos to Big Four league title.

GENERAL MANAGER of new Los Angeles Angels major league baseball club is Fred Haney, who was named to position Thursday. Haney hopes to sign Casey Stengel as field manager this weekend.

PUCK OFFICIAL WARNS

Smokies Must Increase Speed

STOCKHOLM — A leading Canadian ice hockey official today turned thumbs down on Canada's chances against Russia in next year's world hockey championships unless the Canadian representatives improve 50 per cent.

Amateur federation chairman Jack Roxburgh said the Canadian team in the championships in Switzerland in March, Trail Smoke Eaters, "must improve their strength by at least 50 per cent if they are to have any chance against the very fast and strong Soviet team."

He said Canada must send the strongest team in her history to Switzerland if she is to win the world crown.

Roxburgh watched Chatham Maroons end a nine-game European tour Thursday night with a come-from-behind 3-3 tie with a Swedish national team here.

PUCK LOST IN SNOW

It was their second game against the Swedes. The Ontario club won Wednesday's opener 3-1.

In seven games against Russian teams, the Canadians won only a single game, tied one and lost five.

Thursday's game suffered from a heavy snow storm and play in the outdoor stadium was stopped several times for the ice to be cleared of snow. Several times the puck was lost in the snow.

"I am very impressed by the Russian team," he said. They are "at least 25 per cent stronger" than they were last year.

"Our players at the Switzerlandland tournaments must be very fast and increase their speed. Otherwise they will not have any real chance against the Russian players," he said.

The Russians, he said, are "particularly strong and are in much better physical condition than our players. It was mainly because of weak legs that the Maroons lost their matches. After only one period, many of our players were very tired in the legs."

Roxburgh said the Soviet tour went well.

"It is not true that we got bad food. Instead we got good and much food, but of course it was different from the Canadian."

Jim Says Carbo Helped Keep Managers in Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two prizefight figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed-door questioning by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, which made public a transcript of testimony he gave Thursday.

He testified he associated with Carbo in the fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who howled for more money and threatened to pull out of televised bouts.

Norris, 53, formerly headed the International Boxing Club, disbanded by court order last year for monopolizing championship fights. He was excused from testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. He already has suffered two.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris's contacts with Carbo. Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for undercover manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Of his relationship with Carbo, Norris said:

"It was a reluctant one that in some ways I sought to develop."

KEARNS DISCUSSED

Norris also discussed his employment of Jack Kearns, a veteran boxing manager who other witnesses had said received $137,000 from Norris Enterprises over a period of years. As Norris told it, his televised boxing shows were in desperate trouble caused by Kearns' International Boxing Managers Guild.

Kearns, testifying Wednesday, had made light of his role in the guild, but Norris said he viewed Kearns as a power in the organization.

BLAMED GUILD

Norris said he blamed the guild for labor troubles at Madison Square Garden, boycotting of his fights by some managers, and other troubles. "They were threatening us all the time," Norris said.

Ahead of Norris' appearance, Carmen Basilio's former managers — John DeJohn and Joseph Netro — testified the middleweight began getting into championship calibre fights after they started paying Gabe Genovese, pal of Carbo.

In his statement, Norris said he had been introduced to Carbo by the late promoter Mike Jacobs in New York.

The Senate group also had been told that former bookie Max Courtney had been paid some $76,000 from a company that handled television contracts for Norris' organization.

TURKEY WINNERS

Christmas turkeys were awarded to Mrs. M. Grant, net 71, and Mrs. L. d'Easum, net 73, in the women's tournament Thursday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Earl's Big Shots Produce Cup Lead

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—Young Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., had the big shots when he needed them the most today to beat Orlando Sirola, 6-8, 7-5, 11-9, 6-2, in a rain-interrupted match and give the United States a 1-0 lead over Italy in their Davis Cup inter-zone final.

Big Barry Mackay of Dayton, O., the Yanks' top player, met Nicola Pietrangeli in the second singles match of the best-of-five series to determine Australia's opponent in the challenge round, Dec. 26, 27, 28.

A crowd of only 2,000 took in the opening-day program on a cloudy afternoon. Rain fell about three hours before the start of play, cleared away for a few hours and then came down again in the third set of the Buchholz-Sirola match with the score all even at one set each and 6-6.

Play resumed after a 25-minute delay and both players decided to use spikes.

Sirola's powerful service came into action at that point and the Italian quickly gained two set points with Buchholz serving at 6-7. But then, just as he had done in the second set, Buchholz pulled out of trouble with neat passing shots that levelled the score 7-7. He eventually won the set 11-9 and coasted to a 6-2 win in the fourth set.

Putting Pays Off

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Barun, a husky in his late 40s from Grand Rapids, Mich., literally putted his way to a six-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Coral Gables open golf tournament Thursday.

Barun went out in 32 and came back in 33 over the 6,173-yard Biltmore course, going over par only on the 11th hole, which ironically he three-putted.

Tied at 66 were Marty Furgol and former PGA champion Jim Turnesa.

Sobers Sparks West Indies

BRISBANE (Reuters)—Garfield Sobers lived up to his reputation as one of cricket's greatest batsmen today as he ran up a score of 132, sparking the West Indies to a total of 359 for seven on the opening day of their Test match against Australia.

Veteran Frank Worrell provided strong assistance for Sobers with a score of 65. The two put on 174 runs for the fourt wicket after the West Indies had lost three men in an hour for only 65 runs.

Sobers hit 21 fours. He got his 132 runs in 152 minutes.

Hauling down high-flying Half Way House will be the task of Horgan's Aces Saturday night in a senior "B" men's basketball game at Mount View High.

The squads meet at 9 p.m. in the second game of a double-header which opens at 7.30 with a junior men's clash between Chinese Students and Navy.

Oarsmen Face Whites In Lone Senior Game

Final senior game of the Victoria Rugby Union pre-Christmas season is scheduled Saturday between JBAA and Oak Bay Whites but the outcome will not affect standings.

Oak Bay Reds have already clinched the title despite strong bids by runner-up Royal Roads and third-place HMCS Venture.

The JBAA - Whites contest starts at 2:30 p.m., in Macdonald Park.

In the junior division three games are scheduled.

Oak Bay Whites play Canadian Scottish Cadets at Macdonald Park; Oak Bay Reds meet Sea Cadets at Carnarvon Park, and PPCLI Cadets meet Air Force Cadets at Work Point.

All games are at 2.30 p.m.

SEEK SUITABLE SITE — HOLDS SMALL-CAR MARKS

Russia Aims at Speed Record

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union has its eyes on Briton John Cobb's still-unequalled world land speed record of 394.6 miles an hour, set in 1947 on the Bonneville salt flats in Utah.

So far, Soviet manufacturers have not developed a car capable of approaching this speed, nor have they found a site suitable for such high-speed record attempts. But a small group of car enthusiasts is looking to the day when a Soviet speed artist will try to beat Cobb's record.

The automobile industry here, though developing, is still in its infancy. So record-breaking and motor-racing are really just beginning.

The Soviet Union already has entered the world racing lists. Drivers Eduard Lorent of Kharkov and Alexei Ambrosenkov of Moscow have held world records for small-engined 250 cc and 350 cc cars.

An eventual cracking of Cobb's record would be a great prestige achievement for Soviet motoring.

The search for suitable racing circuits and the right type of high-speed track began three years ago. A site was chosen in the heart of the Kara Kum desert, about 200 miles east of the Caspian Sea, in central Asia.

The track, some 12 miles long, was concrete hard and as smooth as glass. But it proved unsuitable for speeds of more than 150 miles an hour and has been abandoned for high-speed record purposes.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—This guy works down the shop could insult you with a smile. If he says good morning, it's like he just told me to drop dead. Of course, this creep's a New York Yankee fan. What else you expect him to be? He's the kind of a guy a Shylock could ask to be best man at his wedding.

I'm a Giant fan all my whole life. I don't mean the football team. I don't like no sport where everyone turns out to be a rassler. You think guys with a college education would be doctors or lawyers. Instead, they all become rasslers. Besides, I don't like no game that's a big secret. In football, they hide the ball from each other so good I never know what's coming off.

I like baseball, where everything's out in the open. But how could I root for the Yankees? I mean, I hate them since I'm a kid. All of a sudden, the Giants out of town. I never thought it could happen. It's like Chicago bought Broadway off New York.

★ ★ ★

It's like I'm Benedict Arnold's brother. I mean, I don't want to knock the Giants. But what could I do? All I can figure out is to play the evade for this Yankee fan. Anytime he sees me he tells me I better start rooting for the Yankees or I'll wind up getting bugged for being a lush. I mean, he tells me if you don't go up a ball game on a Sunday or a Saturday I'll wind up going to a saloon. He asked me what else is there to do?

★ ★ ★

I admit I tried a few things instead of a ball game, I started in looking at television. But all I see is private eyes slugging people. All I ever hear about private eyes is they peep over transoms to catch husbands cheating. I don't like private eyes. They must be shaking down the people they're trailing. How else could they be driving around in big Caddies and hanging around night clubs with beautiful broads?

The other thing is the cowboy programs. These guys ain't cowboys. You never see a cow even once in a while on these programs. These cowboys on the television are a lot of deputy sheriffs. They got to be on the shake, too. They all got hats on them cost at least a C-note.

All their shirts is made to order. Their pants don't come off a rack, either, because they're real tight to fit them. Another thing is the saddles they put on their horses. You know they must be stealing to afford saddles like that. The horses look like they could win the Kentucky Derby. How could they do that on a cop's pay?

I don't want no part of them.

Old Movies Like Going to a Wake

The only thing left is the old movies. I can't enjoy myself seeing so many dead people. Every picture I see has somebody dead in it. It's like I'm going to a wake every night. That ain't fun with me, looking at dead people.

I give basketball some of my business. But what's so great about some guy who looks like a giraffe dropping a basketball in a basket, just like I put a dime in a telephone? It's like cheering a guy for putting his hands in his pockets.

I even tried going to a few joints which is called art museums. They got a lot of pictures hanging on the walls. I walk around until my feet's sore. I see pictures with people got noses where their mouths should be. They tell me this is art. Some pictures ain't even pictures. They're just a lot of paint. It's like a painter fell off the ladder and spilled a bucket of paint on a hunk of canvas and they put a frame around it.

★ ★ ★

I admit I sneak a few peeks at the Yankees on the television, but I can't stand them. I give up on baseball if I got to root for them, but now we got a new New York team in the National League. You know what the Yankee fan down the shop calls them? He calls them the Nobodies.

★ ★ ★

He says I see you got a team to take the place of the Giants. Yes, I said, I'm happy. He says they ain't even got a player yet. I said they will have. He said, sure, a lot of bodies. I said, after a while, they'll be somebodies. He said they'll be like the poor souls you see down the Bowery flopping in a lodging house. They'll be a lot of derelicts.

What could I say? Can I tell him Willie Mays will be in centrefield or Hank Aaron will be in left? Since they said they was coming, the Yankee fan comes up to me and asks did the Nobodies win today? Who's pitching for the Nobodies? He gives me cramps.

I don't know how to handle the louse. How could I give Mickey Mantle the zing when there ain't even one player on the Nobodies? I got to break the habit. He's even got me calling them the Nobodies.

MIDDIE IN THE MIDDLE

Awarded Heisman Trophy Thursday as outstanding college football player in United States, halfback Joe Bellino of Navy finds himself buried in footballs during autographing session with other All-America gridders at New York.

Battle in NHL Cellar Just a Family Affair

By The Canadian Press

While Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks fight it out for first place in the National Hockey League, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are having their own family affair in the league cellar.

Thursday night, Bruins moved one point ahead of New York by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5-1. It was the sixth time this season last place had changed hands between Boston and New York.

Boston now has 19 points but has played three more games.

General manager Muzz Patrick of New York and his brother Lynn of Boston, engaged in a friendly squabble that began a few years ago, have often been quoted as saying they would rather beat each other than beat another NHL team.

MUZZ HAS UPPER HAND

But Muzz seems to have the upper hand right now. In six games between the two teams, Rangers have taken five decisions to Boston's one.

Charlie Burns led Boston's attack with two goals, both coming when Bruins were short-handed. Leo Labine, Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney tallied once each.

Ken Wharram averted the shutout for Chicago.

CONTINUE BATTLE

Saturday, the brothers Patrick will have a chance to continue their see-saw battle for fifth place when Bruins play in New York. In other games, Detroit is at Montreal and Chicago at Toronto.

Montreal's Dickie Moore, the league's top goal getter will be looking for goal No. 200. If he succeeds he will become the third 200-goal man on the team, along with Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau.

Evcoes Still Rate As Club to Watch

The spotlight has been on Kickers for most of the Victoria and District Football League season but Evcoes are still rated as the team to watch.

Currently in second place, one point behind Kickers, Evcoes have a game in hand and now boast the league's most impregnable defence with only eight goals against in nine games.

Evcoes are favored to beat Gorge Hotel Saturday at Royal Athletic Park and take a one-point lead but are expected to lose it Sunday when Kickers tackle Brodies Bakery at Heywood Avenue.

In other Sunday games Esquimalt will try for its second win of the season at Central Park in a clash with Canadian Scottish, Heaneys take on Saanich Thistles at Reynolds Road, and Nanaimo hosts Ladysmith.

Hoop Traffic Jammed As Puritans Clip Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Puritans created a traffic jam for second place in the Inter-City Senior Basketball League Thursday night in spite of B.C. Lions' Bob Pickell.

Puritans beat the Lions 90-80 as playing-coach Pickell scored a record 44 points. Puritans, Lions, Alberni and Vancouver Dietrich-Collins are now all tied for second place with four victories each.

League-leading Lethbridge has won eight straight and the last-place Vancouver Harlem Nocturnes have lost nine in a row.

Pickell broke his own scoring record of 39 points for one game. He scored eight points in the first quarter, 11 in the second, 13 in the third and 12 in the fourth. He now has 220 points in nine games.

First Setback For Esquimalt

Previously-unbeaten Esquimalt of the Senior Girls' Inter-High School Basketball League was finally toppled Wednesday.

The Victoria High team posted its fourth straight victory in the 30-25 win.

In another game Wednesday, Mount Douglas beat Oak Bay 37-21 as Sylvia Campbell scored 17 points.

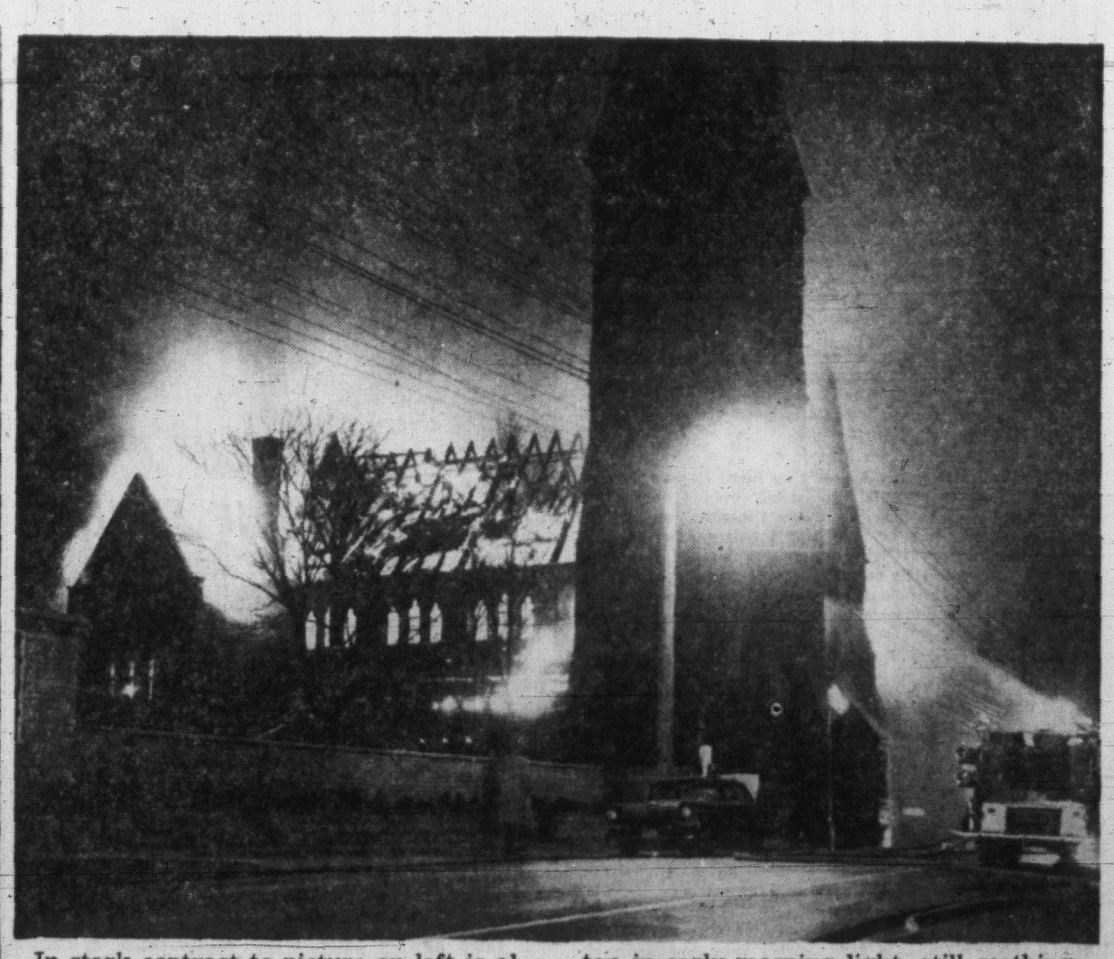
Peaceful Church Erupted Into Blast Furnace

Twisted, charred timbers in church interior look as if they had been strewn by giant, mad hand in horror nightmare. Because of crashing timber firemen couldn't battle flames from inside. Streams of water were sent at flames from all angles outside.



In stark contrast to picture on left is almost beautiful view of church's body skeleton in early morning light, still seething with grasping flame.

'ST. JOHN'S WILL RISE AGAIN'—ARCHBISHOP

St. John's will rise again. Archbishop Harold E. Sexton said today "obviously it will be rebuilt. It will have to be, but whether on the present site or not remains to be seen." Canon George Biddle said earlier "yes, we'll have to rebuild, but you can't replace an edifice like that." The archbishop inspected the fire scene and said "no comment can possibly express our feelings. The whole thing is just dreadful, dreadful. It is obviously the work of a firebug."

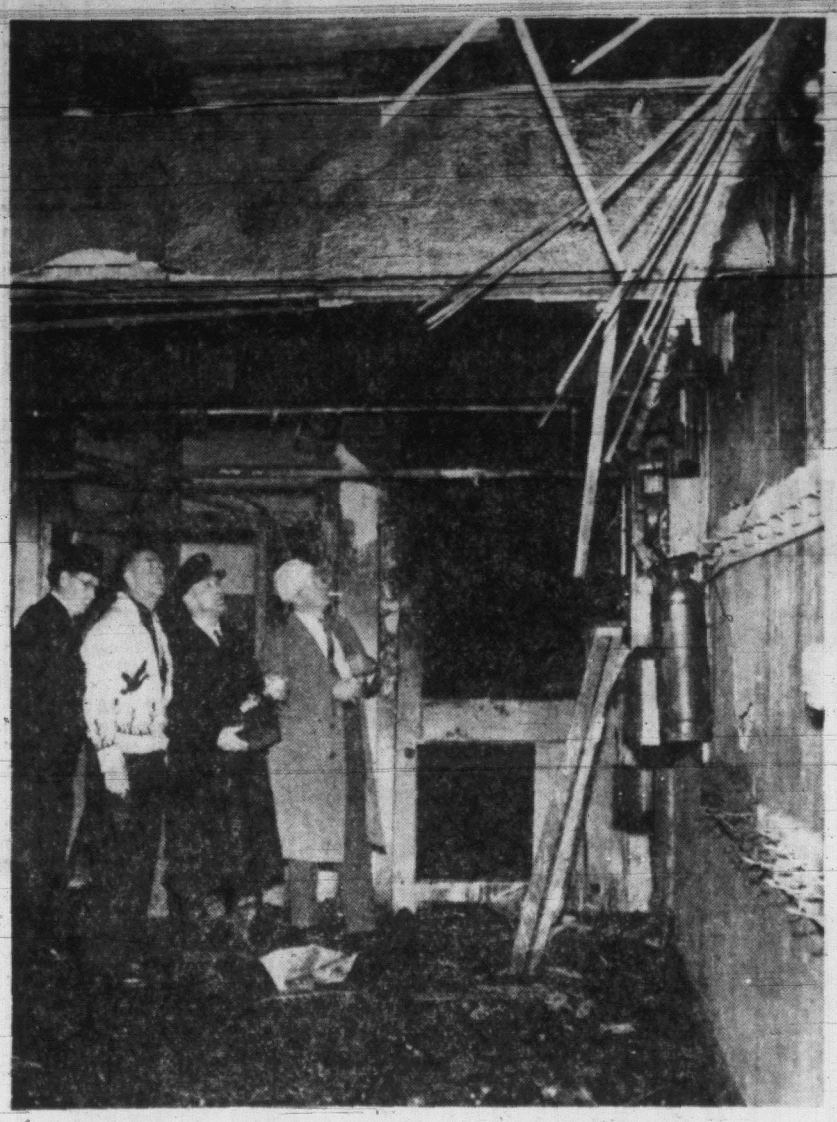
Fire hose lines look like jungle of worms as firemen mop-up shortly after dawn. Ladder in centre was used to give distance to water being thrown.



Members of fire marshal's office today inspected rear-end ruin of First United. On left is minister, Rev. A. I. Higgins. Fire, which started in basement, ate through floor above at back of church.

Looking through windows at flames inside is like view into nether regions or blast furnace. Effect is strangely cloister-like.

FACES CHECKED AT CITY FIRES

Pyromania and arson are no strangers to strangers to Greater Victoria.

Homes, barns and numerous grass fires have been deliberately set over past years.

Sentences up to two years have followed convictions.

Arson is when a fire is set to collect insurance; pyromania is when a person gets a thrill in starting blazes with no financial returns.

And generally the pyromaniac likes to see his "handiwork" burn.

For this reason police at the scene of today's blazes watched spectators closely to see if any undue exhiliration was exhibited by any one.

the project, and also would skim off half the profits from the operating project until the federal advance is repaid.

'Cost Plus'

"This isn't at cost, it is cost plus," he said.

"The whole thing was a complete surprise; the whole thing was a very great disappointment."

Mr. Bennett added: "We're not playing any war; these are just hard facts."

The premier said he has already held talks in New York and elsewhere with financial leaders on the possibility of raising money for B.C. agencies such as B.C. Power Commission, which will build the Columbia dams.

B.C. Hydro bonds, mainly long-term, would be guaranteed by the province, he said, to finance the project.

"Thank goodness B.C. is debt-free and its guarantee is good," he added.

Mr. Bennett said profits from the project would be shared with Ottawa in proportion to its investment on the basis of its proposals. As far as he is concerned, he said, profits will stay in B.C. Hydro for turning back into its projects.

Won't Give Up

He stoutly proclaimed his determination not to give up an inch on the Ottawa request for a new, separate agency to oversee the entire project.

He said the Columbia's potential belongs to the people of B.C. and the Ottawa idea would "effectively remove control of that resource from this province."

"There's only going to be one entity, that's the power commission," he said. "We don't want any fifth wheels."

"The proposal of the minister of finance is therefore unacceptable. As stated before, the government of B.C. will meet its responsibility to the people of this province by carrying out the development on their behalf once the international questions are settled.

"We shall proceed forthwith to make the necessary financial arrangements, and in order to facilitate this action I shall again request from Mr. Fleming an answer to my question concerning the amount of the outright federal grant."

After Mr. Bennett had made his statement Justice Minister Fulton held a press conference at the Empress Hotel.

He accused Premier Bennett of misrepresentation, errors and playing politics with the proposal.

He denied that the federal government is seeking profits from the big power project and he denied it was to take the resource away from B.C.

Up to Bennett

He said it is now up to Mr. Bennett to modify his demands.

The reason Ottawa wants to set up a special agency to carry out financing is to ensure the terms of the international treaty with the U.S. are met and to avoid "improvident" actions. It would also see that none of the revenue from the Columbia goes to "pet projects" of Mr. Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett as is his usual custom is presenting a completely false impression on the nature and effect of the federal government offer," said Mr. Fulton in a long statement to reporters in his hotel room Thursday night.

It followed Mr. Bennett's reaction to a letter delivered by Mr. Fulton from Finance Minister Fleming containing the financial proposals.

Remarks attributed to Mr. Bennett are an indication "either of his unwillingness to consider it or his deliberate attempt to misrepresent it," said Mr. Fulton.

'In Error'

Mr. Fulton said Premier Bennett is "in error" on these points:

That Ottawa will charge B.C. $40,000,000 extra interest for kicking in $170,000,000 toward the project;

That Ottawa will take profits from the project over and above repayment of the $170,000,000 and its interest;

That Ottawa will snatch control of the project from B.C.;

That B.C. is entitled to the same deal as Saskatchewan got for its big dam.

He said Mr. Bennett threatens to "go it alone" in financing the entire project because he knows it is such a good project the financing charges will be cheap.

He contended that a new separate federal-provincial Columbia development agency would be able to obtain cheaper money than either of the two governments, or B.C. Power Commission, and that failure to recognize this will prove costly to the people of British Columbia.

He said that British Columbia could go alone on the financing but Ottawa still will insist on some "police" agency to protect the treaty and the benefits from being "sold".

Mr. Fulton also attacked Premier Bennett for airing his view in public and not to the federal government.

Most Generous

Mr. Fulton said the federal government has made the most generous offer ever submitted to a province on hydro power.

"It is this offer which Mr. Bennett has rejected for his own political purposes and to the prejudice of the people of British Columbia."

He said it appears that the premier had made up his mind to reject the offer long before he received the terms.

Mr. Fulton said the federal government is not offering a loan. It wants to make a joint partnership in a self-liquidating project.

He said there is nothing in the offer about a "brokerage charge" to British Columbia of ⅛ of 1 per cent on the money. He said Ottawa will put up the money at the best interest rate obtainable by the federal-provincial agency it proposes, or at the same rate as the province pays for its share.

The premier's suggestion that the federal government wants to share in the profits of the scheme is "completely erroneous," said Mr. Fulton.

Here is how Mr. Fulton explained the federal offer:

"We have offered to advance half the cost of creating storages to produce these enormous benefits for B.C. The present estimate of this federal advance is in the neighborhood of $170,000,000.

The money would be paid in advance as contracts were approved.

No Guarantee

"We offer it on a basis that involves no guarantee or liability on the part of the province as far as the advance is concerned.

"We offer it on the basis of repayment of our investment would be made only as and when the earnings from the project make repayment possible."

He said if the province wanted to it could retire the federal advance more quickly, but the basis of the offer is that if there are no profits, there is no repayment.

"We offer it at interest rates that would be the same as rates applicable to provincial advances and that would be determined by the rate at which funds for such a purpose could be obtained on the open market. Even though it involves some risk, the interest rate we could receive would be lower than the interest rate at which we could borrow."

Misrepresented

Mr. Fulton added: "If there is no profit after operating costs we would get no repayment of our capital advance."

He said it is "complete misrepresentation" on Mr. Bennett's part to suggest B.C. would lose control of the project. "It has been made abundantly clear physical control and operation of the projects would remain with the province."

He gave these reasons for setting up a special control agency: "To ensure discharge of obligations under the treaty"; supervision to see "nothing improvident is done"; the federal government is making the treaty and it is a national policy.

"We are not prepared to allow benefits accruing under this treaty to be sold for cash into provincial general revenues and to be used for other pet projects of the premier of B.C.

"Our interest," he added, "is to ensure the enormous benefits of cheap power are passed on to the people of B.C. so it will be reflected to the ordinary householder in lower light bills."

CONGREGATION OFFERS SYMPATHY TO CANON

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Widespread sympathy was felt today for Rev. Canon George Biddle, the kindly, good-humored rector of burned-out St. John's.

He celebrated his birthday only last Tuesday and his general popularity was demonstrated in the large birthday cake and the numerous good wishes he received from the congregation.

"It is tragic that he should lose his church after all the devoted 20 years of service he has given to it," said Mrs. Lester Small, a prominent worker for St. John's.

"No one could have shown more courage."

FIRST WAR SOLDIER

Through the years Canon Biddle has suffered recurrent illness and several operations as the result of a severe mustard-gas attack during the First World War in which he served as a fighting soldier.

"With all this, he is a prodigious worker who never knows when to stop," said a member of his congregation.

But, after his night-long ordeal with the burning church, Archbishop Harold Sexton persuaded him to go to bed and cut off his phone.

Victoria Anglicans and members of other churches recognize Canon Biddle as a cheerful man of God whose sermons are notable for their wit, anecdote and good sense, and his church was often packed to the doors.

CLERICAL MR. PUNCH

He has a kindly, humorous countenance that might suggest a clerical Mr. Punch and he carries the light-hearted air of a man who has come to terms with life.

Although he was born at Bournemouth, England, Canon Biddle's habit of hard work was formed in his youth when as a clerical student he rode the Alberta foothills helping farmers and ranchers with their chores and conducting services in remote places.

Once he went to Dinton, Alta., to re-open a church which had been out of use for many years. The church was dirty and unpainted and there wasn't a pane of glass in it. The skunk and the gopher had taken over.

The Dinton townsfolk rallied round him and soon the church was neat as a pin and filled with people. They saw him off en masse when he returned to the Anglican Theological College at Vancouver to complete his training.

FOUR CHILDREN

Later he had charge of St. Barnabas' Church, Calgary, which was burned down in 1957, and of churches at High River and Pincher reek. Then he went to St. Philip's at Dunbar, Vancouver.

Canon Biddle married a High River school teacher, Ethel Mildred Steele, and they spent their honeymoon travelling around Britain in a retired ambulance purchased for $25.

At St. John's he has acquired a reputation for pre-marriage counsel and pictures of many brides and grooms hang in his study in the rambling rectory behind the church.

Canon and Mrs. Biddle have four children—three daughters and one son—and a host of friends among the young people of St. John's.

. . . CHURCH FIRE

foundations, firemen and electrical engineers feared it might crash across the street, tear out some principal power lines and demolish Rosedale Manor apartments at 1612 Quadra.

Evacuated

Occupants of the four-suite block and a four-apartment house next door at 1608 were evacuated as a safety measure.

Both St. John's rectory and parish hall escaped fire damage.

A "wedding buzzer" served as an automatic fire alarm at St. John's, where the blaze was well under way.

Through a freak short circuit caused by the heat, the buzzer stuck "on" and its persistent sounding awoke Canon George Biddle, who slept with his wife, son John and daughters Mary and Joan in the adjoining rectory.

He got up to see what was the matter and discovered the house filling with smoke. The church, separated from the rectory by a fire door, already was smoke-filled.

Mrs. Biddle explained the buzzer was used at weddings to signal the rectory, where grooms awaited their bride's arrival on the church steps.

A Favorite

It was a favorite church for weddings and contained many beautiful furnishings. Its wood panelling and beams and many stained glass memorial windows gave it a warmness often lacking in the traditional "high Anglican" church.

Canon Biddle, caretaker Jack Brownie, 1911 Chambers; firemen and police all helped carry portable furnishings and other valuables from the sanctuary.

Communion silver and some Westminster tapestries were among the items saved.

Cons. Gordon Bennett, whose father retired as assistant fire chief last summer, said: "I was coming out of St. John's rectory for the third time with things we grabbed in the smoke. This woman told me the other church was on fire."

The woman was Mrs. T. W. Scott, wife of St. John's assistant rector Canon Scott, 935 Balmoral, who said "I saw smoke over the rectory door and thought I was dreaming at first."

'Your Church'

The fire at First United was reported by a telephone call from building superintendent George Schoeman, who lives next door on Balmoral. He said he was looking at the St. John's fire when a neighborhood boy, Donald Little, 948 Balmoral, pointed and said, "There's smoke coming from your church, too."

"I went right over, but at first I thought, it's just a boy talking. When I got there you couldn't see across the main part of the church for smoke.

"I phoned the fire department and they said, you've got the wrong church, it's St. John's. But I gave them the address—I guess I was excited—and they came in a few minutes."

All doors had been locked, he said, having checked them himself at midnight.

Firemen broke an exit door to get into the basement gymnasium.

The church's new $10,000 carillon, dedicated in October, appeared to have been ruined by intense heat from adjoining banquet room, scene of the blaze that burned through heavy timbers and actually broke through flooring in a main floor hallway.

The organ at St. John's was considered the finest in B.C.

"I watched it burn up. It was a beautiful thing," Canon Biddle said as he stood in the middle of Quadra as firemen poured water on the steaming ruin.

In the rosy-hued dawn, ugly dark shapes and the undamaged spire were etched against the sky.

The sound of windows being blown out in the extreme heat awoke Walter Yeamans, of Rosedale Manor. He looked out from his second floor window directly opposite St. John's and saw flames breaking through the roof.

"I said to my wife, we'd better get out of here. Just then the police came and told us we had to move.

"I kept looking at the church burn. I couldn't believe it could happen right in the centre of the city.

"I feel very sorry for Canon Biddle. He has worked hard. I have lived here about 20 years — and before that in other parts of Victoria — and he built that congregation from a very small one."

'. . . and Whoosh'

Larry Furlong, 1608 Quadra, said he got up about 4 a.m. and heard sirens. "I looked out the bathroom window and saw the trucks. Then I looked out again a few minutes later and—whoosh . . ."

Cons. Fred Acreman, one of the first police to arrive, said when he got there smoke was "coming out of every crack and window. It was burning down below, you could hear it if you walked along the sidewalk, but could not see it.

"I was helping get Canon Biddle and his family out of the rectory. We were just coming around the front from the parking lot when flames broke through and started coming out the windows."

Joan Biddle, well-known amateur swimmer, said: "When I woke up the house itself was full of smoke."

Her sister, Mary, said: "There was a lot of smoke in the church. It was about half an hour before flames broke out."

Firemen Praised

Mrs. Biddle, who with her daughters was sitting half a block away in a darkened car, watching the destruction of the church, said:

"The firemen did wonders. But it means the loss of a lot of pretty and irreplaceable things like the communion silver, the wood carving, the stained glass and the most wonderful pipe organ."

At this time Mrs. Biddle was not aware her husband and others had braved the choking smoke to save some of the valuables.

She said the last service performed in the church was at 10.30 a.m. Thursday, a communion held by Canon Scott.

Plane Wreck Spotted

MONTREAL (CP)—A helicopter crew today spotted the main fuselage of one of two RCAF jets involved in a mid-air collision near the Ontario-Quebec border early Wednesday. No sign has yet been found of the four men aboard the planes.

USED IN TWO CORONATIONS

Priceless Abbey Frontals Saved, Gem Window 'Lost'

By TONY DICKASON

Saved from the flames which ravaged St. John's were two tapestry altar frontals from Westminster Abbey.

They were part of church decorations at the coronations of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The rich frontals were dedicated in 1938 and 1954.

Both were presented the church by the Ker family, Victoria pioneers.

But the priceless stained glass windows are gone.

"These are irreplacable," said Canon George Biddle.

The Gem window alone was valued at $75,000 while the 12 apostle windows had a value of at least $1,000 each.

Then there were the memorial windows, links with early Victoria families.

The windows were among the first to go as pressure built up inside the church.

Canon George Biddle and verger Jack Brownie, assisted by police and firemen rescued the altar frontals and communion silver.

They grabbed an armful of valuables each and ran.

Among the many valuables lost was the oaken pulpit, hand-carved in the late 1800s by Rev. Percival Jenns, rector for 46 years.

Lost also was the reredos, the woodwork behind the altar, also hand-carved and designed by First World War veterans in the Red Cross workshop.

Gone, too, are the font and hanging lamps, brought around Cape Horn for the Old Iron Church.

CHUBB DAZED

Organist Mourns Console

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

Churches that have been gutted by fire can be rebuilt and the soaring pipes of new organs can eventually rise above the ashes of the old.

But these things take time. And time, says Frederick Chubb, organist for 15 years of glorious but unostentatious music-making at St. John's Anglican Church, is not in his favor.

Elderly, often ailing, Mr. Chubb is regarded as one of Canada's finest organists and composers of organ music.

But he feels that in the flames that destroyed St. John's church early today, his career as a church organist has come to a virtual end.

MOURNS LOSS

"No doubt we will carry on as well as possible in the parish hall," he comments. "We will get some mimeographed music and there is the little organ . . ."

Mr. Chubb, dazed by news of the fire, mourned for his wonderful console — "undoubtedly the best in British Columbia"—and for the fine library of music he had built up through the years.

"The wardens were always so generous—never a demur no matter what I wanted to order. And last night . . . one of the best choir rehearsals we've ever had . . . all the Christmas music. . ."

OUTSIDE CONCERN

Characteristically, however, one of Mr. Chubb's main concerns is for the effect of the catastrophe on a young Dutchman named Hugo Spilker.

Spilker is a new Canadian and one of the extremely few organ builders and voicers ever to follow his craft in Victoria.

He had spent the last two years working on St. John's organ, repairing and asembling it so that all parts were accessible for maintenance, latterly he had worked on re-voicing the pipes.

This most delicate of organ-building skills, was to have been completed early in the New Year.

Frederick Chubb, fine artist and brilliant musician, knows exactly how Hugo Spilker, fine craftsman and brilliant technician, will be feeling today.

HISTORY MADE BY 'OUTSIDE' FIREFIGHTERS

Local fire-fighting history was made Thursday night when Saanich and Oak Bay each sent a pumper truck into the city to help battle the St. John's Church blaze.

The assistance was given under a mutual-aid pact covering the four Greater Victoria fire departments.

But Fire Chief James Bayliss told city council this year that although the city had sent equipment to assist the other municipalities, it had never received help itself because the smaller departments usually couldn't spare trucks.

CHURCH HULK MADE SAFE

Farmer Construction Ltd. of Victoria today took over the work of making the burned-out hulk of St. John's Anglican Church safe from falling debris.

"We shall board up the windows and reinforce the structure as far as possible," a spokesman said.

"We will then await instructions as to what is to be done with the church."

Burglar Given Term He Sought To Learn Trade

A 22-year-old Victorian who appeared in city police court today for sentence on two charges of burglary got what he asked for—a penitentiary term.

Robert Barry Jackson, no fixed address, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary by Magistrate William Ostler.

When Jackson pleaded guilty to the charges last week, he asked the magistrate to send him to penitentiary so that he could learn a trade.

He pleaded guilty to breaking into the provincial government Douglas Building, 617 Government, on Nov. 20 and stealing cash from a vending machine.

He also admitted breaking into the Victoria Social Club, 654 Yates, with intent to steal.

Weather Hits Europe

LONDON (AP)—Fog, ice or snow—and in some places all three — blanketed much of Europe and the British Isles today.

Canada Hopes to Keep Inflow of U.S. Money

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is striving to avert application to this country of new United States regulations in the American foreign aid program which might cut into a $10,000,000 special market for Canadian goods in less-developed nations, an informed source said today.

Pressure is being applied on the U.S. to recognize that while this country is in a solid financial position, it cannot be regarded as the same drain on U.S. foreign aid funds as Japan, West Germany, Britain and France.

The problem arose from a U.S. state department order resulting from the Eisenhower cabinet's concern over the foreign aid drain on American funds. The International Co-operation Administration, the state department's civilian foreign aid agency, decided that countries receiving U.S. foreign aid should not spend this money in countries considered to be economically strong.

Canada was listed with Japan, West Germany, Britain, France and most of the West European countries. All are considered by Washington to be economically strong and in no serious balance of payments difficulties.

The Canadian government is trying to impress Washington with the argument that while this country is economically strong, the fact it has no serious over-all difficulty over balance of payments arises from the fact that U.S. investment capital is pouring north into Canada. Without it, Canada would be in serious straits.

EXEMPTIONS ALLOWED FOR

So far, the new state department order has not been worked out in detail. It allowed for some exemptions, and Canada is confident of being able to take advantage of them.

One cabinet source said "we haven't felt any pinch yet." Another said "We won't have anything to worry about."

U.S. foreign aid funds now are coming into Canada at the rate of about $10,000,000 a year from the less-developed countries

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC — ONE OF A SERIES

Europe's Puzzling Periphery

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Though the booming Six of the European Common Market regard the Seven of the European Free Trade Association as an unnatural combination doomed to failure, they are more important and formidable than they sometimes look, especially to Canadian business. Before we consider the real crunch of the deepening North Atlantic dilemma the Seven should be examined as a peripheral factor in the European economy but a cardinal factor in Canada.

Hutchison

Britain joined Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria and Portugal to form a limited free-trade area after France and Germany had rejected a similar arrangement embracing all of Western Europe.

While willing to reduce and finally eliminate all tariffs between the members of the club, Britain insisted that each must fix its own individual tariff against the world. The Common Market of the Six not only proposed to abolish tariffs between its members, but to erect a common tariff against the world. And that common tariff, as we shall see later, is the nubbin of the North Atlantic's developing economic squeeze.

Most Are Poor

Among British statesmen and economists the Seven are variously regarded as a useful counter-weight against the Six, as a bargaining counter to force Britain's way ultimately into the Common Market, or as a dismal proof of Britain's blunder in rejecting the terms of Germany and France in the first place.

Whatever one may think on that score, the most obvious fact about the Seven is their collective poverty (though some are rich individually) as compared with the Six. Among the Seven only Britain is a great, rich and populous nation. The remainder are small in power, population, resources and trade.

Nevertheless, the Seven are in business, they are reducing tariffs between themselves toward zero and they possess some little-noted assets. The thrift and relatively high living standards of the Scandinavians; the skills and marvelous ingenuity of the Swiss; above all, the mighty machine shop and unequalled international experience of Britain make the Seven a substantial grouping whose goods will force their way into markets all over the world. In fact, the Seven are too often discounted only because the Six in combination have so much more wealth, trade and people.

Large Stake

At all events, the Seven buy from Canada far more goods than the Six. Our exports to the Seven were worth some $900 millions last year, of which $790 millions went to Britain. The Six together are buying from us at the rate of about $300 to $400 millions annually. Hence our stake in the Seven is large and has been growing larger as Britain has rapidly increased its purchases in Canada.

But the Seven, by their tariff arrangements, pose immediate difficulties for Canada.

At present Canada enjoys in Britain a system of tariff preferences that do not affect some 60 per cent of our exports, since industrial materials and basic foodstuffs like wheat enter Britain duty-free. The preferences, however, are regarded in Ottawa as extremely valuable in promoting our sales of processed foods and our increasing sales of manufactured goods on which British tariffs against the world are relatively high.

As Britain reduces its tariffs against its trading partners our preferences on manufactures in the British market will be eroded and will finally disappear, so far as competition with those six partners is concerned. We shall continue to enjoy our advantage over all other sellers in the British market, and our sales of most agricultural products will not be much affected since they are generally excluded from the free-trade arrangements of the Seven.

Unforseen Effects

The main preferences affected by these arrangements, says Mr. Fleming, cover wood and paper products other than newsprint, certain machinery items, magnesium and some chemicals. In these products the other members of the Seven compete with us for the British market.

No one can foresee the final effects of the Seven's free-trade system on Canada. At first sight these plans appear to be damaging because they assure six European nations an easier entry into the British market for manufactured goods than Canada enjoys. Those nations will not only erode our existing preferences but will establish even larger preferences of their own.

On the other hand, our competitors are relatively small sellers in Britain compared to Canada because they are themselves relatively small producers. They supply only about 17 per cent of Britain's imports from non-Commonwealth countries. Their competition with us will be sharp in some areas, not large, relatively, in total.

Moreover, if the Seven increase their general prosperity by increasing their joint trade, as they hope, they will buy more from the world at large and Canada can participate in this growth. But important and imponderable as these prospects are, they do not touch the central problem and fear of the Canadian government.

Federal Gov't Launches Own Trade Newspaper

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has launched its own international trade newspaper, the Canada Courier, an eight-page tabloid that will carry the story of Canadian products and industry around the world.

The first issue was unveiled at the current export promotion conference here. It will be distributed from Canada's trade offices in 49 countries.

A trade department announcement said the newspaper will be published every three months in English, switching to a monthly basis as soon as possible.

UNION CHARGE

'Principle Of Justice Reversed'

The 17,000-member B.C. Railway Unions Thursday asked the provincial government to repeal Bill 43 and that labor be given a chance to make further representations on any changes of labor legislation at the next session of the legislature.

The requests were made in a brief delivered to the cabinet by the legislative committee of the International Railway Brotherhoods.

J. A. Rennie, of New Westminster, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said the brief contains no reference to checkoff of union dues by employers, abolition of which has been sought by the construction industry.

OPPOSED

"We are opposed to abolition of the checkoff though," he said.

He added that most of the railway union men are employed by federal companies and many of them do not have the checkoff.

"It is respectfully suggested that when your government proposes changes in labor legislation," said the brief," that representatives of labor be afforded an opportunity to make representation prior to final enactment."

REVERSED

The brief also says that Bill 43, the government's Trade Union Act, has cancelled many protections previously given to labor and "reverses the accepted principle of justice wherein it provides that a trade union is presumed to be guilty until its innocence is proven."

The brief contains request for a number of revisions in the amount of compensation which may be paid, a shorter waiting period for the compensation to start, wider interpretation of the word accident, full compensation for injuries aggravating already existing conditions.

SAFETY

There are also a number of recommendations on highway safety.

They include a law making traffic remain in the right-hand lane except when passing, a province-wide course in highway safety education in schools, mandatory jail terms for persons driving while their licences are under suspension and more highway first aid stations.

Another road recommendation is a ban on trucks on the highways from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday.

The brief says this is laid down in the Lord's Day Act.

Other requests include: a government sponsored medical insurance plan, higher jury fees, no provincial sales tax on school supplies, domestic fuels and lighting, and pensions for widows.

'Near Riot' By Students

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Police Thursday night used tear gas to break up what they described as a "near riot" and "mob scene" involving about 200 Waynesburg college students.

Eighteen were arrested on disorderly conduct charges, jailed four hours and then released after paying fines of $10 apiece.

Police said the crowd was gathered around two students who had been seized, stripped of all clothes except underwear and tied up.

Freighter Christened

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters)—A new 14,825-ton freighter was christened Stove Transport Thursday by Mrs. Gordon Southam, daughter of H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver, head of Canadian Transport Company. The ship, to be launched in about a week's time, will be chartered by Canadian Transport from owners L. Lorentzen of Oslo for three years as soon as it is ready to sail.

WHO WILL IT BE? YOU OR ME?

Watching recounts intently this morning were city aldermanic candidates, in background, W. C. Hudson on left and A. W. Toone, as city workers went into a fifth count of their votes. Mr. Hudson was ahead by two votes Thursday night when they went to bed. Mr. Toone was ahead by one vote this morning as the lunch hour approached. There was a possibility that a judicial recount might be called.

Sixth Recount Looms in City

A judicial recount to decide who won the fourth aldermanic seat in Victoria's civic election Thursday night appeared probable today.

After five counts, which saw the two contenders leading at various times by one or two votes, W. C. Hudson appeared to have the current hold on the seat with 1,866 votes—five ahead of A. W. Toone, at press time.

It was the closest race for a city council seat on record.

Mr. Toone, awaiting confirmation of the fifth count just before press time said he probably would ask for an official recount by a judge as provided under the Municipal Act.

Saanich Sewers Finally Win

Interest in the other municipalities centred on Saanich's approval of sewering the Cadboro Bay - Gordon Head - Shelbourne area after two previous defeats, and Oak Bay voters' forceful "no" to the principle of paying their councillors a salary.

The dramatic battle between Mr. Hudson and Mr. Toone began early Thursday night when the first count showed Mr. Hudson had 1,867 votes, 21 more than Mr. Toone.

A routine recount narrowed the gap to two votes more for Mr. Hudson than Mr. Toone and at that point the ballot boxes were locked up for the night and everyone went to get some sleep.

Mr. Toone at the time observed that Curtis, Dowell, Griffin and Hudson appeared in that order at the top of the long ballot and this may have had "a psychological effect" on the voters. Mr. Toone's name was 10th.

Mr. Hudson admitted that the evening had been very exciting."

This morning, about a score of counters began a second recount in City Hall with returning officer Frank Hunter, Mr. Toone and Mr. Hudson and their agents, watching the count.

It wound up giving Mr. Toone a two-vote edge. A fourth count was made and this showed Mr. Toone only one vote ahead of Mr. Hudson's 1,858.

The fifth count was held using a new technique — all the Hudson votes were segregated and counted and then all the Toone votes were segregated for a count.

Only 31 Per Cent Voted

A "so-so" turnout for a non-mayoralty year saw 31 per cent of the city's voters go to the polls. The city election campaign was the dullest of the three in Greater Victoria with no sharp issues to divide the candidates.

Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. Arthur Dowell ran one-two in the polling, repeating a familiar pattern set in several past elections. Close behind came newcomer Michael J. Griffin, a plumbing firm director, who entered the race only half an hour before nominations closed last week.

Saanich voters elected three familiar faces to the 1961 council and finally approved installation of sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head-Shelbourne area.

It was the third time that the $1,200,000 project was put before the west-side voters. Only those affected by the two money bylaws — for a trunk sewer and a system of laterals —had a vote on the issue.

Both previous votes were defeated narrowly but this time the measure went through with a 3 per cent margin over the required 60 per cent approval.

"I think the people will find it is a wise decision. It means a great step forward for Saanich," said Reeve George Chatterton, who campaigned hard for the favorable vote.

Former Reeve Tops Saanich Poll

In filling the three council vacancies, Saanich voters gave solid support to Joseph Casey, former reeve and councillor, who led the returns from the first poll. Re-elected were Coun. Ainslie Worthington and Coun. Harold Todd.

But newcomer Robert Chard fought a see-saw battle with Coun. Todd throughout the counting until he lost out finally by 31 votes.

George Curran came from behind to beat David Nightingale for the School District 61 trustee vacancy. Richard Hilton trailed both.

Oak Bay voters split their votes to re-elect three councilors, who favored pay for civic office holders, and solidly rejected the principle of pay for council.

The pay referendum was defeated 1,394-901 and although the 1961 council is not bound to act on the voters wishes, it appears likely that Oak Bay will return to its former practice by cutting out the $720 annual salary for reeve and $240 for councillors that was inaugurated last year.

Only other municipality in B.C. refusing to pay its councillors is Central Saanich.

Veteran councillor Fred Hawes topped the poll. He was followed by John Watts, seeking his second term, and another veteran, Fred Robinson. Newcomer Harry Gregson lost out by 150 votes.

Tory Leader's Resignation Due Saturday

Provincial Conservative leader Deane Finlayson is expected to resign at a meeting in Vancouver Saturday.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Provincial Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Finlayson said in October that "there's an appropriate time for announcements and indicated he is planning to quit.

"We think this is an appropriate time," said a local Tory who will attend the meeting.

"If Mr. Finlayson doesn't tender his resignation there'll be pressure put on him to do so," said the delegate.

The Tories did not win a single seat in the provincial legislature in the Sept. 12 election.

Mr. Finlayson has been leader since 1952.

Another big issue at the meeting Saturday will be an attempt to reunite provincial and federal Conservatives.

Protection Falls Apart

A ridge of high-pressure air which gave Victoria its clear weather this week has collapsed and cloudy skies are on the menu for the weekend.

A weak weather front will pass over the city tonight, according to weatherman William Mackie, to give cloudy skies and the possibility of a little rain.

Skies will be cloudy Saturday, and a disturbance suspected of lurking somewhere between here and the Hawaiian Islands likely will arrive with showers Sunday.

Temperatures overnight will drop to as low as 31 degrees, depending on location, and the maximum Saturday will be 45 degrees. Winds will be easterly at 20 miles per hour Saturday night and Sunday.

$1,100 Forgery Charged in City

Pleading not guilty to a charge of forging a cheque to the value of $1,100, Norman Bradley of Victoria, was remanded in city police court today to December 16 to set a date for trial.

CARS COLLIDE

Alderman, Mayor Meet —Hard Way

Michael J. Griffin bumped into Mayor Percy Scurrah on the street a short time after he was elected as an alderman for the first time Thursday night—but he didn't say hello.

The accidental meeting occurred about midnight on the slippery Foul Bay-Fort intersection and it sent the chief magistrate's car into a utility pole.

This is how it happened: Mayor Scurrah's car was attempting a left turn when Mr. Griffin's car collided with its rear.

The mayor's car spun across the intersection in an arc and sheared off a telephone pole at its base but the overhead wires prevented it from falling.

Medium damage was caused both cars, according to a police estimate. No one suffered injuries.

"I'm told that it was Mr. Griffin but I personally haven't any idea who it was. All I saw was a bunch of people around the other car," the mayor said today.

$4,500 DEPOSIT MISSING

Disappearance of a $4,500 bank deposit from a Victoria bank last weekend was disclosed by Chief John Blackstock today.

Refusing to name the depositor or bank while an investigation is in progress, the chief said so far the matter is simply one of "money missing."

He said an 18 or 19-year-old stock man and an assistant manager from a department store (not one of the major two) took nearly $4,500 in a deposit bag to a night depository slot Saturday.

Whether the money actually was put in the slot was not known definitely, the chief said.

The two employees have both been interviewed.

The depositor notified police of the loss Wednesday afternoon.

2-Year Terms For Burglary At Elk Lake

Robert Alister Borgal, 723 Yates, and Donald Nelson, no fixed address, were sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to two years less a day on charges of breaking and entering and theft from an Elk Lake service station Nov. 14.

The terms will be served concurrently with similar terms imposed the day before in Colwood police court by Magistrate A. I. Thomas for offences at Ladysmith, Chemainus and the Malahat.

At the same time Magistrate Thomas sentenced Albert Jenik of Vancouver and Robert Jackson, no fixed address, to two years for their part in the Up-Island offences with Nelson and Borgal.

'IN LOVE'

Also charged in Saanich court in connection with the Elk Lake offence was Bela Piocza, no fixed address, who was sentenced to 18 months.

He had asked for leniency on grounds that he was "in love with a very lovely girl and wanted to get married."

'Time Come for New Look' At Use of B.C.'s Forests

Responsibility for recreational use of privately-owned land in B.C. is "not a one-way street," the provincial government was told today.

Hugh J. Hodgins of Vancouver, retiring president of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, said at the concluding session of the 51st conference:

"The time has come in B.C. when we should examine now whether or not the government is meeting its responsibilities where public use of private facilities and land are more or less demanded for recreation purposes.

"I refer specifically to responsibilities which concern, first, fire losses through carelessness and the cost of fighting such fires; second, malicious damage to property and equipment upon which many men's livelihood depends, and, third, the cost of administering and supervising public access programs on privately-owned areas."

Speaking at the end of a morning session at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Hodgins pointed out that "no reasonably-minded forest operator or forest owner will have any argument with a reasonable multiple-use concept . . . but there comes a time when it is necessary to examine the situation.

"In my opinion the time is here in B.C."

Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, predicted that recreational activity on some kind of forest land will increase 40 times over in the next 40 years.

"Recreational physics will dwarf space physics and we may be taking in billions instead of millions," Dr. Turner said.

EXPLODE

He warned that a stampede of "city-jaded" humanity towards the forests would explode in the faces of public and private land managers unless they made plans to cope with the problem.

Dr. Turner said all forest land managers are on "a recreational treadmill" since, as more areas are made available, more people pour in.

"Private companies must furnish recreational areas and co-operate with public agencies," he said.

Compromise Not Backed By Ramsay

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, city arena sub-committee chairman today indicated he will oppose a compromise proposal sent to council by Memorial Arena commission.

The compromise was to be received and discussed by city council this afternoon at a special meeting. It involves rehiring of arena manager Joe Dukowski as a promoter, rehiring of all six employees who quit in September, and creation of a general manager's post.

"I don't see how I can support that," said Ald. Ramsay. "I don't see how it is workable."

Ald. Ramsay said he was not certain what council could do.

"It appears, under our by-law, we will have to accept it or ask for the commission's resignation. Technically there is no middle course, such as amending the proposal."

HEAVY DAMAGE IN MILL FIRE

A planer shed and motor lumber carrier were destroyed by fire of undetermined cause that broke out at 3.46 p.m. Thursday at Atom Lumber, Tyee at Bay.

There was no estimate of damage, but an unofficial figure of $50,000 was suggested.

Blaze lit up the sky and attracted people from all over the city, causing a traffic jam.

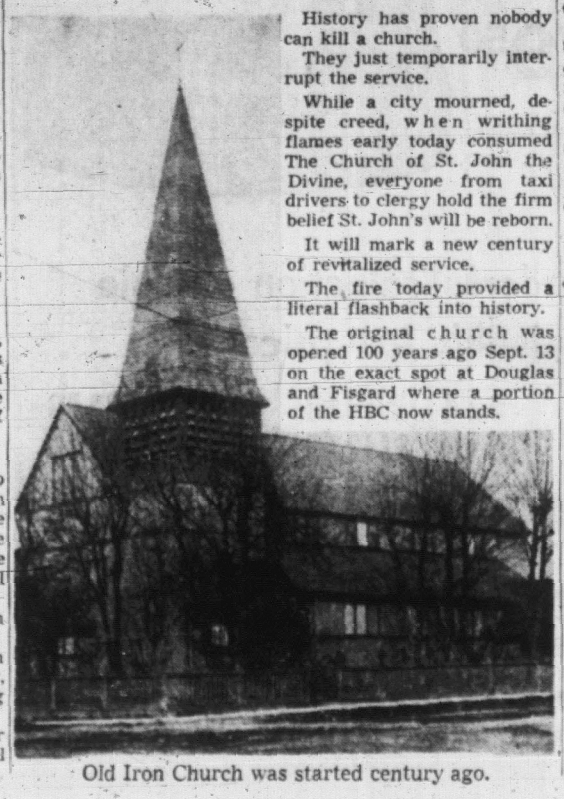
Churches Don't Succumb Easily —Only the Service Interrupted

★ ★ ★



Old Iron Church was started century ago.

By TONY DICKASON

History has proven nobody can kill a church.

They just temporarily interrupt the service.

While a city mourned, despite creed, when writhing flames early today consumed The Church of St. John the Divine, everyone from taxi drivers to clergy hold the firm belief St. John's will be reborn.

It will mark a new century of revitalized service.

The fire today provided a literal flashback into history.

The original church was opened 100 years ago Sept. 13 on the exact spot at Douglas and Fisgard where a portion of the HBC now stands.

It was known as the "Iron Church."

The almost legendary story began in London when Baroness Burdett-Coutts offered funds to build a church in far-off Victoria.

She didn't send money. She sent the church itself, prefabricated sections of galvanized iron, around Cape Horn by clipper ship.

The property was purchased from the HBC for $1 and when the new St. John's was built in 1912, the land was bought back by the HBC for $140,000. The money went to build the new church — the one destroyed today.

FIRST CONSECRATED

Thousands of Victoria residents were baptized, confirmed, married and buried in and from both churches.

The Iron Church was the first church in the colony to be consecrated.

Centenary of the founding was observed in September with unveiling of a bronze plaque on the HBC by then Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

Cornerstone of the original church was laid by Sir James Douglas, then governor of the Vancouver Island colony and governor of the HBC on April 13, 1860.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Is there a Communist party in the United States and if so, is it legal? D.C.

A. The Communist party, as a political party in the United States, was outlawed by an act signed by the president, on August 24, 1954.

Q. Is attending school in British Columbia compulsory or can one arrange correspondence tuition if considered more desirable and beneficial. This is referring to junior grade children. F.L.

A. No, if there is a school available, or unless the child is disabled and cannot attend.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealer.

Robert Sam, 9 Cooper Road, $20 inadequate emergency brakes.

SHOPPING GUIDE

These Monstrous Crackers Give Zip to a Party!

By PENNY SAVER

Today I saw the most monstrous cracker ever! If you are planning a children's party soon you're bound to please your little guests if you have one of them as a colorful centre-piece. They're a full 21 inches long, are in rosebud pink and decorated with golden bands, stars and pink roses. Inside are 12 assorted decorated hats, 12 novelties and, of course, the same number of amusing mottoes. Giant crackers are priced at $1.25.

To really get the party off to a good start use some of the novel snowmen I saw selling at 60 cents. They'd be ideal for place markers for they have hollow "fummies" that could be filled with their favorite candles.

One rotund snowman is carrying a parcel and has a bright red cap and scarf. His dapper companion is smartly dressed in a black top hat, yellow pants and sky blue tie.

Have you ever met a child who could resist delicious milk chocolate? One store is importing several novelty items in English chocolate that are worth considering when you're out looking for Christmas stocking goodies.

Little girls will love chocolate manicure sets that sell at 35 cents and contain scissors, nail file, emery board and nail polish. Their brothers will whoop with delight when they get one of the "milk cartons" that contain six bottles of chocolate "milk." These are priced at 49 cents. There's a chocolate Christmas tree, priced at 35 cents.

Special Glamor for Holiday Buffet

This molded Star of Bethlehem salad is made with grated fresh carrots and diced oranges

This is no time to forget "auld acquaintances"! If you have been wanting to invite some of your favorite people, but hesitate because you feel this calls for an elaborate spread, just remember that the modern style in entertaining is simple, even though the food should be as good as you can make it.

Plan your menu around a fresh fruit or vegetable salad, either molded or arranged attractively. An orange and carrot Star of Bethlehem is as good as it is beautiful. Serve this with cold roast chicken, thin bread-and-butter sandwiches, one or two good cheeses and a plate of Christmas cookies or fruit cake and coffee.

As accompaniment, consider open-face cheese sandwiches run under the broiler until bubbly. Or small hot rolls filled with crisp bacon, pork sausages or turkey salad.

The tart-sweet flavor of fruits sharpens the appetite and makes everything else taste better especially meats. Guests who are weight-watching can relax and enjoy the refreshments since fruits are famous for their low calorie count.

If you want classic simplicity plan your menu around an arrangement of the finest fruits and vegetables you can find and let guests help themselves.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM SALAD (Orange and Carrot)

Four envelopes unflavored gelatine, 1¼ cups cold water, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup hot water, 6 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1½ cups fresh orange juice, 1½ cups grated fresh raw carrots, ½ cup diced oranges.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add sugar, salt and hot water. Stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Pour in lemon juice and orange juice. Mix well. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in carrots and oranges. Turn into a 1½-quart star mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Just before serving, turn out onto a serving plate. Garnish with holly. Serve with mayonnaise. Yield: Six servings.

Need I Say More?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I went to a card reader who told me my lucky number is three. I know she is right because on the third of September I met Louie and I fell for him right away. This card reader said I would find happiness with the third man I fell in love with and she was right again because Louie is my third big love affair. He has been married twice before. (See, I am lucky three!)

I want to know if you think I am putting too much trust in the card reader. (She described Louie to a "T" and she never even saw him, and everything in my past happened just like she said it did.) My brother says I am plum nuts. MAGGIE.

DEAR MAGGIE: When you have an expert like your brother to consult, why go to a card-reader?

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A soft-hearted young miss wrote that she loved a young man but hesitated to marry him because his favorite sport was hunting, and she thought it was cruel. You advised, "If you feel that way about it, don't marry him."

Abby, the young lady and you (along with countless other uninformed people) should learn more about conservation and wild life. More wild birds and game starve to death, or are killed by weather or other wild animals than by hunters. By comparison, an arrow or bullet is a merciful death. I hope you are big enough to change your advice in print. Many sportsmen are waiting for this one. A. R. K.

DEAR A. R. K.: Thank you for your very enlightening letter. You've changed my mind and now I am changing my advice. To the reluctant young miss: If you really love the guy, don't let a couple of dead ducks stand between you.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband lies for his buddy and expects me to do the same. When this buddy's little pregnant wife calls here looking for her husband, I am supposed to say, "He WAS here but he just left." Then I'm supposed to call a number where this no-good chiselling bum is, and tell him his "mother" is looking for him.

My husband says we are helping to save a marriage, but I don't see it that way. My conscience bothers me. What would you do in my place?

DEAR TROUBLED: I'd refuse to be a party to the whole evil mess. Your husband would be a better friend to his buddy if he sat down and tried to straighten him out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHOM IT MAY CONCERN": He who cannot forgive others destroys the bridge over which he himself one day must pass, for everyone needs to be forgiven.

In the children's classes, winners were Barbara McNeill, green and gold arrangement; Judy Johnston, tree ornament, and Valerie Barnes, place cards.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. 59

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Colombo Plan Student Good Ambassador for Ceylon PM

By Elizabeth Forbes

Mr. K. D. H. Dharmawardene, one of five Ceylonese in Victoria at present as Colombo plan students, is more interested in making the first woman Prime Minister of his country — indeed, in the world — come alive for you, than he is in explaining his own place in the government of Ceylon.

Forbes

The visitor grew up in Attanagalla (the rock), where Prime Minister Sirima Bandaranaike and her late husband, Solomon W. D. R. Bandaranaike (assassinated in September, 1959) lived and were well known.

"My parents knew Solomon Bandaranaike; his parents and my grandparents also knew each other." Mr. Dharmawardene explained, his dark eyes shining.

"We knew the Prime Minister's father, Barnes Ratwattee, too. He belonged to the influential hill country people. He owned much land and was a local chieftain during the British rule in Ceylon."

In quick, high voice, the visitor sketched in the background of Sirima Ratwattee Dias Bandaranaike, who came out of her home to carry on her husband's political policies shortly after a Buddhist monk shot and killed him.

While her husband was alive Mrs. Bandaranaike remained much in the background, Mr. Dharmawardene told me.

"Within her home, however, she did learn much from her husband, who was the Prime Minister before her. They talked together, for Solomon Bandaranaike respected his wife's opinion. There are those who say she had much influence in the just decisions he made."

Mr. Dharmawardene's eyes softened when he added: "He was a very kind man and very thoughtful of his people. His wife is very kind, too, but she can be very firm, and this perhaps leads her to stronger decisions."

She Followed Husband's Footsteps

Sirima Bandaranaike was born 44 years ago and was educated at exclusive St. Bridget's Convent. She married her late husband in 1940 when he was minister of local government. There are three children, two daughters and a son, all in their teens.

Mrs. Bandaranaike is a devout Buddhist, as is Mr. Dharmawardene.

There was a time when Mrs. Bandaranaike used to say she was not the political type. But her husband's untimely death and her dedication to his cause changed her mind.

She plunged openly and actively into politics, took over the leadership of her late husband's middle-of-the-road Socialist Freedom party ("It is like a Social-Democrat party," Mr. Dharmawardene explained) and decided to seek the nation's highest post of prime minister.

"It was not for power," Mr. Dharmawardene said earnestly, "she was firmly convinced that it was her duty to make whatever contribution she could towards the welfare of the millions of people in Ceylon who loved her husband and were devoted to his cause."

In July this year, her party won control and she was elected prime minister.

Mr. Dharmawardene is an investigating officer in the local government department of municipal affairs and public administration. He was in this work before last summer's election.

With his four companions he was named a Colombo Plan student after going through rigid examinations — "so it would be certain that the best men were chosen in the various categories".

He, of course, is a member of the Sri Lanka (Freedom Party).

The Ceylonese visitors will be in Victoria, studying at the Parliament Buildings, and on the Lower Mainland, with headquarters in Vancouver for three months, before returning to their country.

The past three months were spent in the Prairie Provinces, with headquarters at Regina.

Tiny sisters pictured with their mother were principals in the last double christening in St. John's Anglican Church before it was gutted by fire Thursday evening. In a ceremony last Sunday the nine-month-old was given the names Kellie Ann, and her sister, 23 months, the names Dorothy Erin. Canon George Biddle officiated. Children are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Moriarty. Godparents for Erin are Mrs. Richard J. McCarthy and Mr. and Mrs. Austin E. Smith, and for Kellie, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Newnham and Miss Linda Redden. Grandparents are Mr. Emerson Smith and the late Mrs. Smith of Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moriarty of Okanagan Falls, B.C. A tea followed at the family home on Linden Avenue where Mrs. John Houston presided at the tea table.

Governor to Attend Ballet

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will attend the performance of the National Ballet in the Royal Theatre on Boxing Night. They will be accompanied by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Pearkes of Vancouver, who will be spending the Christmas weekend with them at Government House.

Next Week at Government House

Calendar of events at Government House next week is filled with engagements both here and in Vancouver. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will cross to Vancouver on Monday where, after a tour of the Delta, he will attend a reception in the home of Mr. L. L. Goodwin, president of the Delta Board of Trade, and also the 50th anniversary dinner of the Board of Trade at Ladner.

On Tuesday the Consul of Japan, Mr. Muneo Tanabe and Mrs. Tanabe will call on the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes at Government House. That evening, the Lieutenant-Governor will be guest of honor at a mess dinner given by the First Battalion, PPCLI, Work Point Barracks, Esquimalt.

Thursday, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will give a small luncheon at Government House and in the evening will attend the annual reception and Christmas dinner given by the Toastmasters' Club, No. 38, 1st Canadian, in the Pacific Club.

Next Friday, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the annual Christmas party of Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the Empress Hotel and the same day will cross to Vancouver where they will be guests of honor at a dinner given by Chief Justice and Mrs. Sherwood Lett.

The Lieutenant-Governor will act as chairman of a Rhodes Scholarship selection committee meeting at University of British Columbia on Saturday, Dec. 17. That afternoon in Victoria, Mrs. Pearkes will attend a Christmas party of the Junior Branch of the Victoria SPCA at Spencerhouse and will present prizes to winners in art and literary competitions.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB

Mrs. Pearkes to Attend Annual Christmas Tea

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, who has consented to become honorary president of the Women's Canadian Club, will be an honor guest at the club's annual Christmas tea for members, to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 14, in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel. Honorary vice-president, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, will also be a special guest.

Hostess at the tea will be club president, Dr. Olga Jardine.

Program will include a presentation of the Christmas story, correlating the two media of music and graphic art, with Mrs. Douglas Abbott, soprano, and Mrs. Hans Gruber, contralto, contributing duets and solos. They will be assisted by Mrs. W. B. Milburn at the piano.

Decorations will be in the Christmas theme. Doors will open at 2.30 p.m.

Club president, Dr. Olga Jardine will be hostess

From Halifax

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Challice of Halifax, N.S., arrive in Victoria on Thursday. They will spend an extended visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Lt.-Cmdr. Charles R. Manifold and Mrs. Manifold in their home on Kings Mill Road.

Badminton Weekend

A team from Esquimalt Badminton Club will visit Port Angeles this weekend where it will participate in inter-club matches with Port Angeles and Seattle Badminton Clubs. A buffet dinner and a party will follow the day's play on Saturday. Members of Esquimalt Club taking part are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Atkinson; Misses Karen Mowat, May Inglis, Janet Butler, Pam Johnson, Ruby Atkinson and Veral Mowat and Messrs. Ray Guilhmoulie, Frank Karpick, Charley Faulkner, Bob Davies, Fred Jenkins, Bob Linworth and Frank Tahouney.

At Royal Roads

Members of the Vancouver Island branch of the Royal Military College of Canada and their wives will attend a buffet supper at the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads this evening. There will be 45 guests. Col. R. O. Bull will preside at the annual meeting which follows the supper.

Deanery Tea

Eighteen members of the James Bay Christ Church Cathedral Parish Guild were entertained at the tea hour on Wednesday by Mrs. Brian Whitlow in the Deanery. Decorating the rooms and the tea table were chrysanthemums grown at the Deanery. Mrs. H. Wilkinson presided at the tea table.

Coffee Party

Miniature Christmas trees were used to decorate reception rooms in the Upper Terrace Road home of Mrs. A. W. J. Smith when she entertained at the coffee hour on Thursday. Green and blue baubles highlighted pine boughs that were used with copper candelabra on the head coffee table. Mrs. E. A. A. Boulden and Mrs. Arthur Poyntz presided and Mrs. Larry Wagner and Mrs. Len Acres acted as serviteurs. There were 50 guests.

Birthday

Mr. Edgar Crossley, 1539 Bay Street, is celebrating his 97th birthday today. Mr. and Mrs. Crossley, who is 84, will be at home to friends and relatives this evening from six o'clock on. The couple who celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary in 1958 have been residents of Victoria for past 12 years. Family includes six children, 14 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. Mr. Crossley was born in Centreville, Ontario, in 1863.

St. Richard's Ladies' Guild, Monday, at 8 p.m., church hall. Election.

Family Sends Taped Messages From Jamaica for Wedding

When Miss Fay Hope Carter of Victoria became the bride of Allan Ronald Boyd, RCN, of Vancouver last Monday, surprise of the evening reception was playing of a tape recording from the bride's family who live in Mandeville, Jamaica.

In return a recording of the wedding service and reception was sent, along with messages from several of the guests, back to Jamaica. Mayor Percy B. Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah were among guests sending their good wishes.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carter of Mandeville and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Boyd of Vancouver.

The double-ring ceremony took place in St. Paul's Naval Garrison Church, Esquimalt, with Rev. J. A. Roberts officiating. White daisies and chrysanthemums decorated the candlelit chapel.

The attractive bride entered the church on the arm of Sqdn.-Ldr. Sam Lane. She wore a gown of off-white satin cut on empire lines with long chantilly lace train and a shoulder-length veil held by a dainty headdress of tulle trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a shower bouquet of Esther Reid daisies.

Miss Yvonne Clearie was maid of honor in a gown of floral chiffon over satin. Miss Rosina Lane and Miss Dorothy Lane were bridesmaids in dresses of peau de soie in deep purple and flame.

Ross Sinclair was best man and Bill Lockhead was the usher.

Sqdn.-Ldr. Lane and Mrs. Lane were hosts at a wedding reception in Olde England Inn. Rooms were decorated with holly, white wedding bells and colored lights. A four-tier wedding cake was cut.

Receiving guests were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd and Mayor Scurrah and Mrs. Scurrah. Mrs. E. C. Conarroe sang and David Palmer played the Hammond organ.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to the United States, Mrs. Boyd donned a navy blue dress with white yoke and topped it with a powder blue coat. A white fur hat, white accessories and corsage of pink carnations completed the going-away ensemble.

Upon return, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will live on Richmond Avenue.

Canadian Daughters, Assembly No. 5, Christmas party, Monday, at 8 p.m., in Newstead Hall. Church parade Sunday postponed until December 18 in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

KENNEDY HEIR BAPTIZED

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Jr., 13 days old, was baptized Thursday.

President-elect John F. Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, went to the chapel of Georgetown University Hospital for the baptism of their first son and second child.

A score of persons were in the small white chapel when Rev. Martin J. Casey, pastor of the Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, which the Kennedys attend, baptized the baby.

CLUB CALENDAR

Women's Guild, St. John's Anglican Church, Monday, at 2 p.m., instead of 2.30 p.m., lower hall. Christmas party.

Double-breasted smoking jacket in copper and grey fancy woven Scottish Cheviot was shown at the Savoy Hotel show of the Men's Fashion Council of London. The trousers are fine black British wool.

Chapter Gives Record Player

Eleven members of Alpha Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, gathered recently in the children's ward at Royal Jubilee Hospital to present a record player, stand and records to the ward. Mrs. Mary Mowatt presented the gift for the chapter. It was received by Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, president of the hospital's Junior Women's Auxiliary. Also present were hospital administrator George Masters; supervisor of nurses, Miss Florence Ferguson, and the head nurse of the children's ward, Mrs. Carol Champion.

Officers — Mrs. M. Moore was elected president of the Afternoon Branch, Christ Church Cathedral Woman's Auxiliary, at annual meeting. Other officers are Mrs. H. S. Langford, vice-president; Mrs. R. O. Taylor, recording secretary; Mrs. A. G. Sled, corresponding; Mrs. G. A. P. Harris, treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Marlow, Dorcas; Mrs. B. Joseph's, united thankoffering; Mrs. L. MacDonald, extra cents; Mrs. T. L. Lloyd, educational; Miss I. Cole, Living Message; Mrs C. Simmons, prayer partner. Retiring president, Mrs. G. H. Gardiner and retiring recording secretary, Mrs. S. H. Partridge, long-term members of the branch, were presented with a plant and a book respectively, by the new executive.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She Fears Overweight Will Wreck Her Home

Q. "I Just read your article in last night's paper and want to tell you about myself. I have been married for five years. My husband loves me very much but I have gained 50 pounds since our first child arrived. I have lost all personal pride. My husband has begged me to lose weight. He has even been interested in another woman. He says she is everything I am not, pleasant, attractive and neat.

Lowman

"I have got to lose weight or wreck my home. Please help me. I start on a diet and gradually get off. When we were married, I was very attractive and had a very nice figure. My husband begs me to return to the girl he married.

If there is anything you can say to help me, please do."

A. I thought I had heard everything but this is a new one on me! You seem interested in keeping your husband and your home. You know that your relationship with your husband is endangered and yet you will not lose weight to save it. Certainly you have had the strongest activation any woman could have, to know that her husband is interested in another woman.

It seems to me that you are caught in a vicious circle which is composed of many conflicting elements. In the first place, you know that your husband loves you. He no doubt shows you this in many ways. You may even suspect that his remarks about the other woman are made to jog you into a reducing routine.

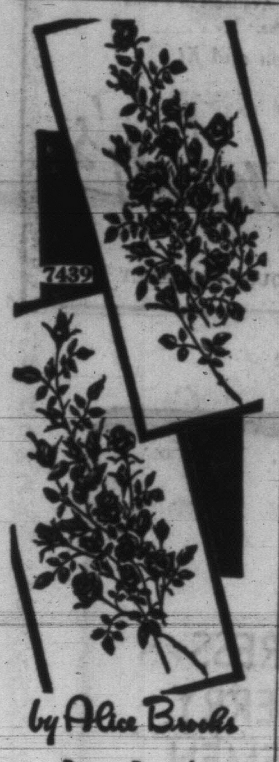
I imagine that his interest in this woman is not yet serious or you would be more concerned. However, do not push your luck too far. If you do, the time may come when he no longer notices or cares how you look. So long as he does, for goodness sake get busy and do something about it!

On the other hand, it is extremely depressing and discouraging to be told by the man you love that you are unattractive, that he finds someone else more attractive. It was a stupid and cruel thing to say to you. However, perhaps it was a last resort effort on his part. Perhaps many men would have given up, said nothing more, and gone their way. Evidently your husband is still in love with the girl he married — YOU — so don't let him or yourself down. You probably are depressed by your overweight yourself and will be much happier when you lose it.

Don't think of the 50 pounds you must lose. Take it five pounds at a time. Every five pounds lost will encourage you to lose the next five.

Q. "I am 22 years old, five feet two inches tall and weigh 101 pounds. My husband insists that I am underweight and is perpetually trying new ideas to make me gain. I am in good health and have plenty of energy. Do you think I should try to add pounds?"

A. Even if you have a small build, you are on the slim side. Why not gain five or six pounds to make him happy?



by Alice Brooks

Crowning Gift

NEW YORK (AP)—Before she left Brussels to become the bride of Belgium's King Badouin on Dec. 15, Dona Fabiola de Mora Y Aragon was presented with a royal crown, gift from the Spanish people, that she will wear at her wedding. The crown is in gold, studded with diamonds, emeralds, pearls and other precious stones. Presentation was made in Madrid by Dona Carmen Polo de Franco, wife of Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Sunshine Group, Cadboro United Church Woman's Association, will sponsor the Haliburton United Church choir in Handel's "Messiah," Sunday at 7.30 p.m., Edward Church Hall, Arbutus Road, Cadboro Bay. Collection for church kitchen.

NEW YORK-MELBOURNE 88 MINUTES

This Plane Plain Fast!

WASHINGTON (AP) — A design for an airliner which would fly from New York to Melbourne, Australia, in one hour and 22 minutes with passenger fares lower than available at present was outlined before the American Rocket Society Thursday.

A normal feature would be seats individually molded to each passenger, with the airline hostess "freezing" the passenger's mold after he had snuggled deep into the structure.

The design was described by William M. Swenson, project engineer for preliminary design at Bell Aerospace Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y.

It calls for mounting a 30-passenger transport piggyback on top of a six-engined mother craft.

When the big mother craft, or booster plane had attained an altitude of 120,000 feet and a speed of 5,300 miles an hour, 100 miles from its airport of departure, the rocket-powered transport on top would take off from a rail launcher.

The rocket engine would burn for four minutes, climbing to an altitude of 300 miles and attaining a speed of 16,000 miles an hour — only 2,000 miles an hour less than orbital velocity.

Swenson said the booster plane would cost $15,000,000, the transport craft $5,000,000, and the operational cost of each flight would be $23,000.

That would permit a round-trip fare of $1,550, compared with the current first-class fare of $1,800 for the 10,200-mile New York - Melbourne route. The trip now takes 37 hours and 50 minutes using jet facilities where they are available.

SOUTHEAST U.S. HIT BY HEAVY SNOWSTORM

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—One of the heaviest—and earliest — snowstorms in recent years has stranded motorists, isolated communities and cut off communications through wide areas of southwestern United States.

The storm blanketed Arizona and New Mexico with up to 15 inches of snow in some areas while a heavy rain preceding the storm threatened a major flood in east Texas.

New Mexico was the hardest hit in the three-state area. All major highways in the state were closed stranding many motorists in out-of-the-way cowtowns.

TO BRING 3 CHINESE TO CANADA

Agent Wanted $500

TORONTO (CP)—A young Chinese agent testified Thursday that travel agent George Chan wanted $500 to bring his fiancee and two sons to Canada, and $150 if he failed.

Lee Lip Yee, who entered Canada at Vancouver in 1955 by claiming his 78-year-old grandfather Lee Hang of Hamilton was his father, was testifying at Chan's preliminary hearing.

Chan, 49, a notary public and justice of the peace, is charged with illegally conspiring to bring Chinese into Canada and making a false affidavit.

Magistrate T. S. Elmore, granting protection of the Canada and Ontario Evidence Acts, told Lee his testimony would not be used against him if he told the truth.

Lee said he came to Canada under his own name after writing to Lee Hang who told him to go to Hong Kong from Communist China and wait at an address there.

Lee said he asked Chan to help him get to Canada and Chan replied he would. Lee then received papers from a Hong Kong man bearing the names of Lee Hang and two others listed as Lee's brothers. Only one was a brother.

He said that after reaching Canada he asked Chan to help him bring his fiancee and two sons to Canada.

People of Victoria!

Do you want to see Victoria continue to miss out on ¾ of the talent that comes to Vancouver?

"Oh," you will say, "Victoria is too dead for most of that talent. It's even too dead to keep 'THE SCENE,' it's only real night spot, going." We of the Varsity Jazz Society disagree.

We have taken over "The Scene" at 1306 Wharf Street and plan to bring in BIG-NAME, worthwhile talent. We have tie-ups with "The Cellar" in Vancouver and will get every worthwhile jazz artist that plays there. We also have made arrangements with "The Question Mark" in Vancouver, who have agreements with nationally known folksingers such as Ed McCurdy, that we will get.

Our activities will not be confined to jazz and folk-singing alone. We plan to sponsor the Actor's Theatre of Vancouver production of "Romeo and Juliet" at Victoria College in February. We will also have such plays as are adaptable put on at "The Scene." We will also sponsor any big-name talent that is available for Victoria. As well as our Fri.-Sat. late night openings, we plan to have a series of 5 January Sunday Jazz Concerts at "The Scene" starting Jan. 1st. They will feature at different weeks, Clinton SALIMAN Quartet, Chris GAYE Trio; Alto Sax, LENNIE NIEHAUS (of the STAN KENTON Orchestra), the Master Sounds and the Dave QUARIN Quartet. Admission will be by memberships, to be purchased in advance at the cost of $6.00 or $11.00 per couple for the series.

Also this Sunday at 9 p.m. at the Fox Theatre we will have a "SAVE THE SCENE" concert with Freddie SCHREIBER Trio, Prof. Tony Emery, Vancouver Folksinger Vera McKenzie, plus CJVI'S Joe Easingwood.

As for our regular Fri.-Sat. talent we have been indeed fortunate to get for our opening the FREDDIE SCHREIBER TRIO, with Freddie (who has played with Gene Krupa and Zoot Simms on bass), Tommy Donnetti from Chicago (who has played with Dizzy Gillespie and Chet Baker) on piano, and drummer Paul Humphries.

Also to celebrate our opening we have arranged with Mr. Wm. Guild at CJVI to have a 7-hour special concert. Jazz and Folksinging starting at 11.10 p.m. tonight (with no commercials), to be hosted by Joe Easingwood. The first three hours will be broadcast direct from "The Scene." The next four hours will consist of a "HISTORY OF JAZZ" show, where rare recordings will be featured.

Admission to The Scene will remain $2.00 for yearly membership and $1.50 each time, and $2.00 for guests. For reservations or information, phone EV 5-8142.

The future of live entertainment lies in your hands. We cannot do any of the things we have planned without your support.

GARRY NIXON,
President.

TED MARVEY,
Talent Director.

2 A.M. PARTIES OK

New Year's Eve Curfew Stretched

Midnight "curfew" on New Year's parties will be lifted this year because Jan. 1 is a Sunday.

Saturday dances and public affairs usually must stop at midnight on Saturdays.

This year, the attorney-general's department has let it be known it is expecting police to turn a blind eye on parties up to 2 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 1.

The department points out that it's up to local police to keep order in areas with police commissions and their own forces.

But, says an official, it "does not expect to receive complaints" up to 2 a.m.

The Copenhagen Stock Exchange was built by King Christian IV of Denmark in the 17th century.

SHE'S A QUEEN — Wearing an abbreviated velvet and gold lame costume, British actress Sabrina reigned as queen of the recent annual New York Artists and Models Ball.

Red Skelton Faces Hernia Surgery

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Skelton will undergo major surgery Monday for correction of a diaphragmatic hernia. Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said Thursday the 47-year-old comedian of stage, movies and television is suffering from a rupture of the diaphragm, the thin membrane separating the stomach from the upper chest.

A palace, built by Cortes, now decorated with murals done by Diego Rivera, is a tourist attraction at Cuernavaca in Mexico.

ONE-BLAST BRINGS ANOTHER

Canadian's Book Banned

WINNIPEG (CP) — A novel by Canadian author Hugh MacLennan dealing with the 1917 Halifax explosion is creating another one in Manitoba education circles.

Manitoba school trustees suddenly discovered "Barometer Rising" was approved reading in provincial schools and decided to get rid of it.

Delegates at the trustees' convention described "Barometer Rising" as both profane and vulgar.

They voted unanimously to ask the education department to remove the book from all classrooms, school libraries and take it off curriculum lists.

The move brought a sharp response from both Mr. MacLennan and the book's publisher, Macmillan Publishing Company of Canada Ltd.

In Montreal, Mr. MacLennan said the request for the ban does not make sense.

SOME SWEARING

"I don't know what they are kicking about," he said. "The book seems pretty mild to me and everything was censored out of it before it went into the school curriculum."

Mr. MacLennan admitted the book, published in 1945, does contain "a certain amount of military swearing."

Macmillan Company president John Gray said in Toronto the fuss was ridiculous.

"A little rough language was left out, and a little left in."

"The book is quite suitable. It's an important statement of today's world. Many school books just do not deal with the world that the children know at all."

Mr. Gray said "there are some old-fashioned people you can never please."

Displeased is A. J. Thiessen, president of the Canadian School Trustees Association.

Mr. Thiessen said: "I can't see how that book could have passed if it had been read by department of education officials."

Delegate P. P. Dunn was blunter. "This book has no place in society, let alone in schools."

World's longest covered bridge, the 1,282-foot wooden span over the Saint John River at Hartland, N.B., was constructed in 1897 and rebuilt in 1920.

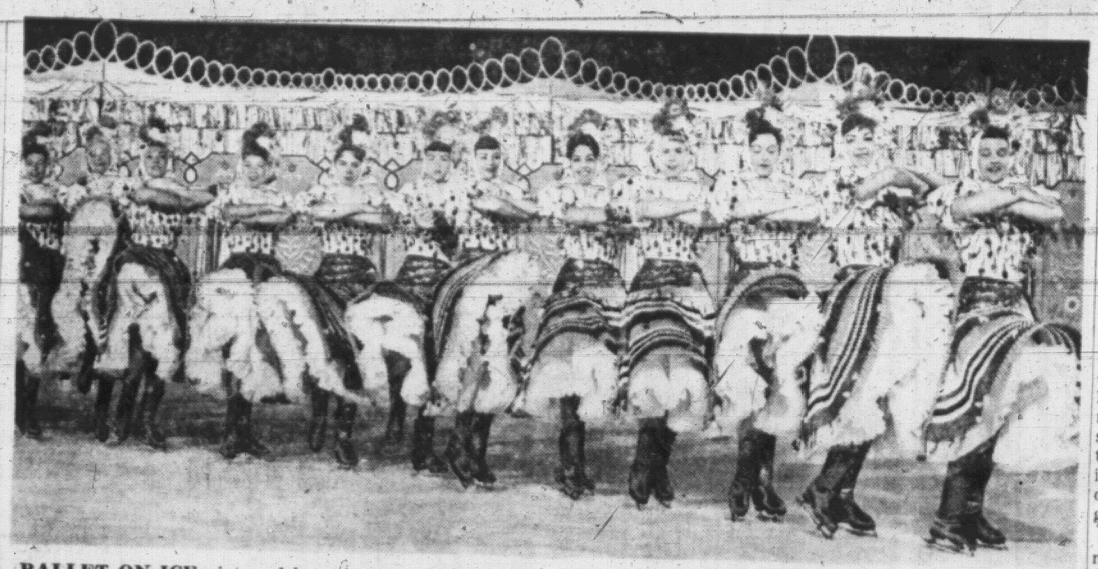
Whisky Maker Dies

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) Herbert M. Ross, 75, Scotch whisky manufacturer who gave more than £1,000,000 to charities, died Wednesday. Ross lost a leg in the First World War and said it led to his fortune. In hospital he met another one-legged soldier and together they started up two distilleries.



BALLET ON ICE pictured here is one of 10 spectacular productions in the 20th birthday edition of Ice Capades, on view all next week at Victoria's Memorial Arena. With the Ice Ca Pets and Ice Cadets are world skating champions Aja Zanova and Jimmy Grogan; German champions Peter Voss and Helga Neff; European champions Rika Schropp and Lučien Boyer presenting their idea of the Moiseyev ice ballet.

THEY FIGHT OFF BEETLES

'Oomph' Trees No Saps

Only trees with "oomph" can fight off the depredations of bark beetles, according to J. P. Vite, professor of entomology at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore.

"Oomph" in trees, professor Vite told Western Forestry Conference meeting in the Empress Hotel Thursday afternoon, is hydrostatic sap pressure—measureable in a new technique by gauges inserted into holes drilled two inches deep in ponderosa pine second growth.

It's almost like measuring a man's blood pressure, Professor Vite said. A healthy tree pumps out enough oleoresin to drown any bark beetles trying to locate a happy home under the bark. But if its vigor is low—if it lacks "oomph"—a colony of beetles can establish a beachhead and start their deadly burrowing.

Foresters for years have been able to judge the ability of open-grown old growth ponderosa pines to resist beetle attacks. External indications such as shape, color and conditions of the trees crown have proven reliable guides.

But in younger and denser stands of pine the old method of judging health is no longer reliable and as a result foresters have taken to carrying pressure gauges and drills to test the vigor of the trees.

'END OF WAR, POVERTY WITHIN GRASP'

Keep Columbia Project Out of Politics—Shrum

A plea to keep politics out of the Columbia River hydro power project was made Thursday night by Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of graduate studies at the University of B.C. and chairman of the B.C. Energy Board.

Dr. Shrum was guest speaker at a banquet of the Western Forestry and Conservation conference at the Empress Hotel.

His billed topic was power. But Dr. Shrum pointed out he was speaking against a background of vital negotiations between Ottawa and the provincial government and limited his remarks on hydro to a few brief sentences.

Among guests at the banquet were Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the International Joint Commission.

'CONSIDER FACTS'

"I hope all the very distinguished ministers here and other representatives will give careful consideration to the scientific facts, take into consideration all the engineering studies and interpret all the economic facts so that no one will attempt to take political advantage in a thing like the Columbia," said Dr. Shrum.

He said energy "is the key to all development," and sidestepped into the potentialities of nuclear energy.

Once physicists have solved the problem of fusion and converted the hydrogen bomb to peaceful energy, he said, there will be energy aplenty for hundreds of years.

"The end of war and the end of poverty are almost within our grasp.

NEW FRONTIER

"The physicists should retire when they solve the problem of fusion and leave things to biologists and so on to solve our social problems."

Dr. Shrum called knowledge the "new frontier"—particularly of science.

Russians have the faith in science which is lacking in North America, he said. An awareness of its importance will dominate the future of man.

NORTHERN B.C. FORESTS RICH SAYS POGUE

Utilization and intensive management of all the existing forests of northern British Columbia was urged Thursday by H. M. Pogue of the B.C. Forest Service.

Mr. Pogue told the 51st annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association that such a development would permit a sustained annual wood harvest estimated at 1.3 billion cubic feet in trees with a breast-high diameter of 9.1 inches and larger.

This would be a volume 30 per cent greater than the cut from the southern half of the province, he said.

"The key to unlocking this vast cellulose storehouse is a pattern of pioneer roads, plus a railroad," Mr. Pogue said.

Southern B.C., according to Mr. Pogue, is still largely based on a sawmill logging and milling economy and still leaves as much residue in the woods as it uses.

Premier's Parley All For Verwoerd

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, of South Africa, told the South African Broadcasting Corporation in an interview on Thursday night he definitely would attend the conference of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London next March. He said he would not visit any other European country, however, as time would not permit him to do so.

Top Timber Surrounded By 'Slums'

Some of the best timber growing sites in the Vancouver forest district are encompassed by "silvicultural slums" according to a paper prepared by John W. Ker and Harry G. Smith of the UBC faculty of forestry and presented Thursday afternoon at the 51st annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association in the Empress Hotel.

Ker and Smith told the 500 industrial and government forestry officials that B.C. must spend $20 to $30 an acre now to plant a minimum of 200 good Douglas fir seedlings from superior parents on every acre logged that otherwise would grow only brush or less desireable species for years to come.

The report charged that sufficient effort has not yet been devoted to prompt reforestation or to rehabilitation of forest land managed by the Crown in its public working circles and sustained yield units.

Adequate laws now exist to secure reforestation on both public and private lands alike and the first step should be taken by providing for adequate reforestation of all lands logged under timber-scale contracts, with particular emphasis on high-quality lands.

DIAMOND PANES AND FALLING SNOW ENGLISH CHRISTMAS COTTAGE

Picture the warmth of Christmas Candles gleaming through the quaint leaded diamond panes of this charming little English home, in its high location on the Oak Bay border. Nestled amongst fine Garry oaks, it is reminiscent of the picturesque cottages of Sussex. This is a lovely home for two—or a single lady. A large cobble brick fireplace graces the large living room, French doors through to a very pretty dining room with garden view windows. Very cosy modern kitchen with dining alcove, also separate pantry utility. Modern bathroom and sunny little bedroom on main. Two dormer bedrooms up—fine for guests, or for people who like to go "up to bed." Guaranteed singularly different!

Hooded Assailants Beat Freedomite Woman Leader

(From Times News Services)

NELSON — A Freedomite woman, Mrs. Mary Malakoff, was reported to have been beaten by a group of hooded assailants at her home in Krestova near here during the early hours of Tuesday morning.

No official report has been made to the RCMP about the incident.

She was reported to have been treated at Castlegar and district hospital but not detained. The woman could not identify her assailants but believed them to be men.

Mrs. Malakoff, who lives alone in the village, is spokesman for and considered leader of a group of 14 women who were evicted by RCMP from the home of John Lebedoff at Wynndel in November.

The same group of women were also reported to be those which disrobed at Claybrick near here last Sunday when Freedomite spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin ordered his people to return their children to school after about 100 of them were kept out of school by their mothers last Friday.

OCEAN HIKER JAILED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Richard Lancaster, 32, was sentenced Thursday to 10 days in jail for attempting to hitch a ride home to Ireland on an ocean liner.

Lancaster, a seaman on the Swedish freighter Jane Maersk, missed his ship out of Yokohama, Japan, and stowed away on the Pacific Orient liner Orcades.

FOG PROVES COSTLY

VANCOUVER — Thick fog Thursday cost a Vancouver shipping company $3,000. The fog prevented the American freighter Mormacquide from docking until noon.

Pacific Marine Freighters Company had hired a work crew of 220 men to unload 290,000 boxes of Japanese oranges for 8 a.m. and had to pay wages of $750 an hour for the four hours the gang sat idle.

SICK MAN CAPTURED

GREENWOOD — A young Oakalla prison farm convict who fled a Vancouver hospital early Thursday was captured by RCMP here later in an auto stolen in Vancouver.

Thompson, 19, who breathes through a metal tube following a neck operation, fled Vancouver General Hospital by knotting a bed sheet and climbing down from a window. The prison guard assigned to guard him was suspended following the escape.

TEACHER PAY 'HELD'

LILLOOET (CP) — A third teachers' salary dispute has been settled in B.C. with an arbitration board ruled of a "hold-the-line" on salaries.

An arbitration board award in the Lillooet school district gave no wage increase to the district's school teachers.

Two other disputes at Kamloops and Barriere, were settled by an arbitration board which decided that teachers should not get a salary boost.

BARBITURATE KICK

VANCOUVER—Health Minister Martin said Thursday he would consider proposing legislation to tighten control on the sale of barbiturates if a request is made by the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association.

Mr. Martin said his department was guided by the association in such matters and hadn't taken any action regarding barbiturates because it had received no recommendations.

Mr. Martin issued his statement when asked to comment on a report that mixing liquor with barbiturates had killed more than 50 persons in Vancouver this year.

FORTUNE FROM FARM

LYTTON—Sale of the Earlscourt Farm here and more than 200 head of cattle by the estate of the late Col. Victor Spencer is expected to realize about $250,000.

The purebred cattle farm will be sold to Norman Gregory of Haney for an estimated $125,000.

U.S. OFFERS ATOM SUBS TO NATO

LONDON (AP) — The United States government has given its Atlantic allies advance notice that it intends to offer the North Atlantic Treaty Organization five or six Polaris-armed nuclear submarines, informants said today. The offer is expected to be made at the NATO ministerial conference in Paris next week.

Ship Issues SOS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian grain carrier Starbelle, her sides and main deck cracked in a gale-force storm, issued a distress call today from the middle of Lake Superior. The United States coast guard in neighboring Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., said it had been told the ship was in no immediate danger of sinking.

HEES, CUBANS TALK TRADE

OTTAWA (CP) — A Cuban trade delegation today launched its bid for a big increase in trade with Canada at a morning conference with Trade Minister Hees.

Mr. Hees, who left a cabinet session to receive the nine-man delegation in his office, and Dr. Regino Boti, Cuban economy minister and delegation leader, both expressed satisfaction with the course of the discussions.

Mr. Hees said he is confident that an increase in trade will materialize to a large extent.

De Gaulle to the Stake Yell French Algerians

ALGIERS (AP) Mob violence erupted in Algeria today and angry right-wing crowds threw up barricades in downtown Algiers in protest against President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area.

About 10,000 Europeans skirmished bloodily with riot police throughout the day. Toward nightfall some 2,000 demonstrators — who want to maintain Algeria as French territory—set up barricades as they had done last January when they came close to overthrowing de Gaulle's government.

Reuters news agency said the demonstrators traded stones and tear gas grenades with police as the rioting worsened following a series of explosions.

Facing the barricades were two army tanks, their guns levelled. About 50 soldiers clustered around the tanks.

But no one made any move to storm the barricades made of anything handy and reminiscent of the French Revolution.

DE GAULLE FAR AWAY

De Gaulle himself, on a trip to promote his idea of self-determination for Algeria, was not near the centre of today's violence in Algiers and Oran.

He arrived tonight at Tlemcen, 45 miles southwest of Oran. Thousands of persons lined the streets despite a blinding hailstorm.

The crowd behind the Algiers barricades hoisted French flags and shouted:

"De Gaulle to the stake."

"The army to power."

The United States Cultural Centre, just reopened after being sacked Armistice Day, was shut again today when violence broke out.

Hard-pressed police announced that some 400 rioters were herded off to jail here in seven hours of rioting.

Demonstrators and riot police fought a running battle along almost two miles of the winding Rue Michelet as marchers tried to reach the summer palace, official residence of government delegate-general Jean Morin. Morin is a de Gaulle appointee.

Soldiers also moved into the city square of Oran, 220 miles northwest of Algiers, to control a mob of thousands.

A call for a general strike proclaimed by the Front for French Algeria, largest group of die-hard settlers, was heeded to a large extent in most big cities.

But the French chief of state went ahead with his tour, pressing his plan that could even lead to Algeria's independence from France. This is what the settlers fear most, for they would be far outnumbered by Algeria's Moslem majority.

De Gaulle's first stop was a Ain Temouchent, a city of some 25,000 people, about half of them European.

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled and strode erect to the city hall. After he had gone inside an army colonel addressed the crowd. He told them to "demonstrate peacefully."

Electoral College Plan For Africa

CAPE TOWN (AP) — The Republic of South Africa, to be proclaimed next May 31, will be headed by a president who will be elected by an electoral college of members of the two houses of Parliament it was announced today.

The South African president will succeed as head of state the Queen, who is represented here by a govenor-general while the monarchy under the British crown.

Last Oct. 5 the whites voted for a republic in a proposal by the Nationalist government of Hendrik Verwoerd.

The president will serve one seven-year term and will not be eligible for re-election.

His salary will be 20,000 rand annually.

The rand is a new denomination of South African currency to be introduced next February when this country forsakes the sterling system and adopts decimal currency.

The salary will be equivalent to the £10,000 annually received at present by South Africa's Governor-General C. R. Swart.

Swart is one of the most prominently mentioned candidates for president.

The presidency will be largely ceremonial and political power will continue to be invested in the prime minister.

Contract Let On New Wharf

NANAIMO — Federal public works department has awarded a $724,814 contract to Fraser River Pile Driving Co., Ltd., of New Westminster, for reconstruction of the assembly wharf here.

The bid was the lowest of eight, and the job is to be finished within 14 months.

It involves renewal of a ship and scow wharf, a freight shed, movable slip, sub-station, and part of a bulkhead wall. The ship berth will be 600 feet long and the scow wharf 279 feet long.

The freight shed, to be built of steel, will be 40 fet by 120 feet and will provide office space of 460 square feet.

The new slip also will be of steel with a capacity of 50 tons.

About 80 deep-sea ships dock here annually to take on cargoes of lumber, shingles, pulp and plywood, and to land chemicals used in the pulp and paper industry.

Existing facilities were built in 1935 and are in poor condition, with load restrictions imminent.

DIFFERENT version of how Marshal Mitrovan Nedelin, Soviet armed forces rocket chief, met his death recently, was reported Thursday by an Italian news agency. Mitrovan, says Continental Agency, was killed along with 10 top soldiers and scientists at unidentified missile site and not in aircraft crash as reported by Moscow.

McGILL STUDENTS GET LECTURE ALL FOR NOTHING

Teetering Behan at His Best

MONTREAL (CP) Brendan "they'll never stop me" Behan rolled over a desperate attempt to cancel a scheduled lecture Thursday night and lectured 450 McGill University students on France's Algerian policies.

The hard-living Irish playwright turned up more than an hour late for a lecture at the university, ignored lecture officials who told him the talk was off, and strode in an almost straight line to the stage.

From there, he launched into a savage attack on France's Algerian policies, interrupting himself to sing a few French songs, tell some off-color stories and to say his $500 lecturing fee had been cancelled.

Officials had tried to cancel the talk when Behan, who had been reported "incapacitated" after an afternoon spent in what he called "convivial compan" at a private club, did not appear on time.

They had started to refund the money to the audience—who had paid $1 to $2 to listen to Behan in action—when the playwright arrived.

'I LIKE YOU'

His collar was open and his hair dishevelled. His shirt front was stained, but he raised his fist over his head in answer to the students' burst of cheers and headed for the auditorium.

After giving the students and some faculty members time to return to their seats, he strode forward and announced he was giving his performance "which I understand I am not being paid for" —because "I like you and you're people well worth speaking to."

After a chorus of a French-Canadian ballad, he suddenly began to attack France and President de Gaulle.

"I don't like nazis—I don't like French Nazis any more than I do German Nazis," he said.

"I like France. They entertained me last year but now they are murdering Algerians.

"Montrealers love France, but now France is led by madmen, gangsters and collaborators."

Teetering close to the edge of the stage and shaking his fist at the audience, he said: "I love the French people, but I don't like what they're doing in Algeria and any one who says he does is a liar," Behan exclaimed.

He said French-speaking Canadians could influence the French government.

"If you won't, who will?" he asked.

"What can those other idiots English-speaking Canadians can't call them Canadians, because they're not, and I can't call them Indians, because they're not—what can they do to help Algeria?"

After his unexpected attack, Behan reverted to the unpredictable bohemian the audience expected him to be.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Barb Johnson, age 13, of Rockford, Ill., for the question:

Why are male birds prettier than females?

Mrs. Mallard and Mrs. Pintail, both of the large duck family, wear modest plumage of speckled brown. Mrs. Mallard has a few stiff feathers of brilliant blue tucked in her wings, but this is her only decoration. In contrast, Mr. Mallard wears a headdress of shimmering green above a white necklace. There are patches of bright blue, chocolate brown, white and green among his stiff wing feathers and he has a sassy little upturned tail. Mr. Pintail has a chocolate brown face above a white collar and bright patches of color in his wings. Mr. Wood Duck is decked in patches of color from his beak to his legs and Mrs. Wood Duck wears speckled brown.

The birds of paradise of New Guinea and northern Australia are among the most beautiful in the world. There are about 36 cousins, each one more handsome than the next. But all these fine feathers are worn by the males of the glamorous family. The females, like the ladies of the wild duck family, wear plumage of modest brown. Mr. Ring-necked Pheasant wears a long, conspicuous tail and outstanding patches of color on his head. His wife wears dull brown with a much shorter tail.

There are countless examples in which the male bird outdresses his wife. But in the world there are also many families in which both birds dress alike. Flamingos, sea gulls, eagles, hawks, owls, swans and penguins are just a few bird families in which both parents wear the same styles and colors. The gaudy males of the bird world attract a lot of attention. But they are actually outnumbered by the male birds who dress just like their wives.

A gaily-colored creature attracts attention and this may not be safe for the whole family. When our handsome ring-necked pheasant takes to the air he is an eye-catcher. The hunter raises his gun, the fox makes some long-range plans. Meantime Mrs. Pheasant is sitting safely hidden among the brown grasses which match her drab brown feathers. She does not attract any attention to herself or to her precious nest. The females of the wild duck family also blend in with the foliage around their nests. If they were gaily dressed like the drakes, they would attract unwanted attention.

The birds of modest colors, then, seem to be safer. This makes us wonder why the male birds risk gay coloring. The fact is this: they may not want to attract our attention. But they do want to attract the attention of the female birds. A male bird wears his brightest colors and sings his sweetest song in the courting season. He may sing or dance or display his plumage before the drably-dressed female. Chances are, she will choose the fellow who attracts the most attention.

NEW YORK—Those French papers have gone too far. One of them says Marilyn Monroe has Yves Montand's Paris phone number, has called him several times while Simone Signoret wasn't home — and that he finds it very trying being so popular. (DeGaulle, this means war!)

Billy Rose's pretty ex-wife Joyce Mathews flew back from Europe in time to celebrate her seventh month of being Billy's house guest, to observe her birthday with Billy, to attend the "Camelot" opening, and to bring her Christmas stocking. She travels so often to Switzerland that Billy may give her her own airline. Joyce says if Howard Hughes can have one, why can't she?

★ ★ ★

I took some notes on the dialogue at the wonderful party Jan Mitchell gave at Luchow's for "Camelot" and here are some samples: "There's ——. His hobbies are old cars and young girls . . . There's Doc ——, the plastic surgeon, out with his latest nose job . . . There's —— the newspaperman. I wanted to ask him at the show how he liked it but I thought I'd better wait till he woke up."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Tina Louise told the Paris press she wouldn't mind marrying Arthur Miller . . . That was La Dietrich with "Camelot" star Richard Burton at El Morocco the other night.

Salvador Dali met Kim Novak at the Top-of-the-Mountain party and said, "She is one work of art I could never equal" . . . Sammy Davis Jr. 'll work at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe, though old pal Frank Sinatra owns part of neighboring Cal-Neva Lodge . . . Ava Gardner signed a new agent, Irving Lazar . . . EARL'S PEARLS: An optimist is a middle-aged fellow who thinks that cleaners have been shrinking the waistband of his trousers.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Andy Griffith decided this Christmas he'll give his wife something to go with the car he gave her last Christmas—driving lessons.

Less Russian Polio

MOSCOW (AP) — A sharp drop in poliomyelitis cases in the Soviet Union was reported Thursday by Mikhail Chumakov of the Medical Sciences Academy. The Soviet news agency Tass quoted him as saying more than a third of Russia's population was vaccinated this year with live virus polio serum, taken mostly in the form of candy.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Thursday:

James Irvine, Ladysmith, and Stuart W. Fleming, 3147 Marrs, $40 each for careless driving.

Thomas Harold Wigston, Work Point, $25 each for driving without a licence and insurance and $15 for driving without a hand brake.

George William Golia, HMC Dockyard, $25 for driving without insurance, $15 for driving without a hand brake and $10 for driving without a horn.

John Mooney Shirley, 160 Burnside East, $20 and licence suspension for speeding over 30.

Robert Edward Kirby, 1825 Dean Park, $35 for speeding over 20.

Larry Blaine Elgood, Sidney, $10 for driving a car with tail lights mounted too low.

Francis D. Morris, 655 Baxter, $15 for driving a trailer without a safety chain.

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday:

David Charles Ferguson, 3490 Short, and Arnold William Gibson, 1715 Stanley, $10 and $3 costs each for failing to stop at a stop sign.

John William Clark, 3441 Happy Valley, $35 and $3 costs for careless driving.

Rajinder Singh Manhas, 4032 Martha, $25 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.

IN RETURN FOR FAIR DEAL

Home Publications Must Help

MONTREAL (CP) — Leslie Roberts, Montreal author, today suggested Canadian publications be assured fair competition in the home market but in return should be ready to make firm commitments.

These commitments would be in respect to expressing a Canadian viewpoint, in giving leadership in forming public opinion and in informing the Canadian people.

In a submission to the royal commission on publications, Mr. Roberts said much has been made of the need to provide the Canadian people with a mirror of Canadian life.

"But I do not see many publishers holding that mirror up."

Magazine Tariff Opposed

MONTREAL (CP) — The chairman of the royal commission on publications said Thursday he "wouldn't want to pay 10 cents more for some U.S. publications to support Liberty magazine."

M. Grattan O'Leary, outspoken president of the Ottawa Journal, made the statement during questioning of Montreal's Wallace Publishing Company Ltd., who had submitted a brief to the commission.

It was perhaps the clearest indication yet that the commission, nearing the end of its series of cross-country hearing, does not favor any general duty or tariff on all American magazines entering Canada as a means of protecting Canadian periodicals.

Mr. Wallace, publisher of The Montrealer and a number of trade magazines, suggested a general 25 per cent tariff might be levied on advertising in surplus copies of U.S. magazines which are sold in Canada.

Mr. O'Leary said such a tax might force U.S. publishers to raise their prices in Canada as a similar tax had done in the 30s and he said a number of persons who appeared before the commission across the country had voiced strong opposition to such a move.

Mr. Wallace suggested their testimony might be biased.

Mr. O'Leary said several governments were among those opposing such a move and he felt they were accurate indicators of public opinion.

Dams Radioactive

WINNIPEG (CP) — J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, Thursday said that existing power dams put more radio activity into the Red River at Winnipeg than the proposed Whiteshell nuclear reactor would.

Five Men Adrift

TYOBOREON, Denmark (Reuters)—An 11,000-ton floating dock with a five-man crew was adrift in the North Sea Thursday after losing its towline. The dock was being towed from Bremerhaven to a German Baltic port when the towline broke.

WHOLESALER TELLS PROBE

No Package Deal With Magazines

MONTREAL (CP) An executive of the largest magazine distribution company in the Montreal area firmly denied Thursday that his company had any influence on how magazines were displayed by dealers or that it forced any dealers to take some publications as "package deals."

Gerald Benjamin, secretary of Benjamin News Company, came under heavy cross-examination from Grattan O'Leary, chairman of the royal commission on publications, when he submitted a brief to the commission.

"Is it true you exert some 'influence,' let us say, on a news vendor on how he displays magazines," Mr. O'Leary asked.

"We do not exert influence, we discuss it," Mr. Benjamin said.

"He (the vendor) is at liberty to cancel any magazine he doesn't want," he said.

This led Mr. O'Leary to ask if there was such a thing as a "package deal," which forced a vendor to take certain magazines he did not want in order to get other publications he did want.

He said later he referred to a case some years ago in Ottawa concerning salacious literature during which vendors testified they were forced to take some books on pain of not getting others.

"It is not done here," Mr. Benjamin said.

Mr. O'Leary then asked if the Benjamin company's contract with the Curtis Distributing Company in the U.S. included provisions on how magazines were to be displayed.

But under persistent cross-examination, Mr. Benjamin reiterated he had no such agreement with the Curtis company.

Newcomer Beats Veteran For C. Saanich Reeveship

R. Gordon Lee, a Central Saanich councillor for the past two years, won election to the reeveship Thursday with a 450-366 victory over Ray M. Lamont.

The election attracted 53 per cent of the eligible voters.

Reeve-elect Lee is a comparative newcomer to the district, while Mr. Lamont is a long-time resident and member of every council since the municipality was formed in 1951.

Thomas G. Michell, with 658 votes, led the polls for election to a two-year term as councillor, followed by A. K. "Bert" Hemstreet with 484. Third member elected for a two-year term was Albert Vickers, with 447 votes.

Defeated candidate was Coun. Mrs. Gladys Ronson, who polled 429 votes.

Coun. Frank Grimshaw was re-elected for a one-year term on council, with 365 votes.

Defeated were Kelly Troup, with 253 votes, and Jack Southern, 176.

SCHOOL BOARD

'No Frills' Candidate Wins Easily

Lewis Harvey of Lands End Road, who campaigned against school frills, was named to Saanich District 63 School Board Thursday in the only election in the North Saanich area.

He defeated board chairman J. D. Helps, who stood strongly behind the $784,000 school bylaw defeated in October. It was the third building bylaw in a year to be defeated in this area.

Mr. Harvey was elected by voters of the unorganized portion of the school district, who cast ballots for the first time. Previously representatives were named from individual school areas, and these selected a trustee from among themselves.

'BROKEN FAITH'

The winner said the present board had "broken faith" with ratepayers in not removing nonessentials from the recent bylaw before presenting it for the third time. He said he is in favor of more classrooms for the area, but simpler schools.

Elected to the board by acclamation were Reginald Sinkinson for Saanich, and Cuthbert Brown, Central Saanich.

NO ELECTION

There was no contest in Sidney this year. Commissioner J. H. Laroque and J. E. Bosher were elected by acclamation to the two vacant seats on the commission. The nomination marked the return of Mr. Bosher to public life after a year away from the commission.

NOT JUST ONE, but an entire cavalcade of guest artists will dazzle a Duncan audience tonight when dozens of the diminutive actors pictured here with their "master," multi-gifted Daniel Llords, perform to strains of Victoria Symphony Orchestra in a "pop" concert at Cowichan High School. The internationally-famous Llords' Puppets will be seen in Victoria at the Royal Theatre in this weekend's repeat pair of symphony "pop" concerts. Hans Gruber and Clifford Evens will conduct.

NON-CONFIDENCE VOTE

Mayor's Foes All Elected

ALBERNI — Ald. Tom Barnett, leader of a city council faction which has opposed Mayor Mabel Anderson, was re-elected Thursday.

Also elected were newcomers Thomas S. Hamilton and C. Roy James.

All three had the support of the Alberni Voters' Association, which last week sent a 776-name petition to Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black asking that the mayor be removed from office.

Mr. Hamilton led the poll with 728 votes, and Ald. Barnett drew 721. There were 705 votes cast for Mr. James.

HALF AS MANY

Losing candidates, generally understood to have the mayor's support, received only about half as many votes as the victors.

They were Ald. Gordon Lundine, 350; Wilfred K. McKenzie, 339, and Edwin A. Beck, 317.

ALD. TOM BARNETT
. . . vindicated

With the candidates in effect forming teams as those in favor of Mayor Anderson and those opposed, the vote was taken as an expression of non-confidence in the mayor's regime.

YEAR TO SERVE

Mayor Anderson was elected a year ago, and has a year yet to serve.

During the first half of her term council meetings were marked by lengthy disputes over procedure, difficulties in having minutes adopted, constant discussions with the city solicitor over interpretation of the Municipal Act, and disputes over use of tape recorders by press and radio reporters.

At one time the mayor asked police to remove Ald. Barnett from a council meeting, and on another occasion she rapped so hard on her desk with her gavel that she broke the glass top.

Main objections have been, however, that city projects have not proceeded as they should.

DUNCAN THRILLER

Recount Likely In One-Vote Win

(From Duncan Bureau)

A one-vote victory by a veteran Duncan alderman highlighted the civic election in the Up-Island city Thursday, and a recount appears almost certain.

Ald. J. H. Saunders topped the polls with 365 votes, but in the contest for second place Ald. R. K. Cairns finished with 27 votes to 270 cast for James Patterson, a contractor and newcomer in civic politics.

Mr. Patterson has five days in which to apply for a recount and said today it is "quite likely" he will make application Monday.

"I am almost obliged to do so on behalf of the many people who supported me," he said.

STAPLES TOPS

Coun. Tony Staples, of Maple Bay, headed the polls in the North Cowichan election with 896 votes, and Coun. Gerry Smith, of Chemainus, with hometown voters tipping the scales in his favor, won re-election with 761 votes.

David Barr, of Jaynes Road, in the south end of the district, trailed with 506 votes.

The Chemainus ratepayers assured Coun. Smith of re-election when they gave him 512 or 553 votes.

Jan. 21 Deadline

DUNCAN—Closing date for entries in the Cowichan Music Festival, to be held next March 4 to 11, is Jan. 21.

Sponsors of the event are the Cowichan PTA Council and PTA groups in School Districts 65, 66 and 67.

SCHOOLS, SEWERS WIN RATEPAYERS' APPROVAL

Bylaws fared well in municipal elections on Vancouver Island Thursday.

Both Alberni and Port Alberni supported a $1,006,000 Alberni School District 70 school building bylaw by ample margins, and Nanaimo voters gave substantial approval to a School District 68 building bylaw of $496,000.

Courtenay sewer bylaw for $764,000 passed comfortably by a vote of 624 to 302. It was defeated in October by a margin of 25 votes.

TURKEY SHOOT AT FAIRBRIDGE

DUNCAN—Cowichan Fish and Game Club will hold a pre-Christmas turkey shoot at the Fairbridge gravel pit on Sunday at 10 a.m.

It is the first shoot ever staged by the club and its success will determine whether or not others will follow.

The gravel pit is located at Cowichan Station opposite Mountain Road. Shooters are asked to follow the signs.

Youths Survive As Car Rolls To Destruction

(From Duncan Bureau)

Two Duncan teen-agers escaped serious injury Wednesday night when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the Trans-Canada Highway near Koksilah bridge and rolled over several times.

The car, driven north by William Nicholas Klinick, 16, of Old Hillcrest Road, ended up in a ditch on the west side of the highway. The driver and a passenger, Bobby Whittaker, 16, were thrown clear.

Klinick suffered a bad head cut but his companion had only scrapes and bruises.

Roof of the car, a 1959 model owned by Klinick's father, was pushed down to hood level and was considered a total loss.

$329,000 BYLAW

Sooke School Vote Set for Saturday

Sooke ratepayers will go to the polls Saturday to vote on a $329,000 school building bylaw to provide additional space in schools in the district.

Major item will be an addition to Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School on Jacklin Road.

Voting will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at all elementary schools and at Shirley Community Hall.

'NO BURDEN'

Ronald J. Weir, school board chairman, has said the bylaw will cost the district about $7,000 per year, and that with 5,000 owner-electors "it is obvious that it cannot prove a burden to anyone."

"Our district's high rate of construction, which added $1,700,000 to our assessment rolls this year, will, with our present rate of 18 mills, bring in over three times the amount of additional revenue required to finance this building project," he said.

Fire Guts Historic Church; Arson Suspected by Police

Greedy Fingers of Flame Reach From All Windows of St. John's Church

Blaze Halted At Second City Edifice

By AB KENT

A pyromaniac is blamed for the near-total destruction of one of the city's finest old churches and heavy damage to a neighboring one three hours before dawn today.

The 48-year-old Church of St. John the Divine, Quadra at Mason, stands a $500,000 to $750,000 ruin of blackened rafters and brick, like a bombed-out skeleton of wartime London.

First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, is heavily damaged—between $30,000 and $85,000—by smoke and heat from a fire that burned a 10-foot hole in the main floor before it was stopped.

Both buildings were fully insured.

City detectives began working on the "fire bug" angle shortly after the second fire was reported at 5.09 a.m. and interrogated two suspects in the first two hours.

An investigator from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was called in at the same time and arrived late this morning.

Reserves Called

Police Chief John Blackstock called in reserves to help the night watch patrol all other city churches and quashed a rumor that Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard, had a fire.

This was unfounded. Only a door was found insecure, police said.

Both fires appeared to have been set in basement rooms adjoining boiler rooms, and spread quickly in extensive woodwork.

All available Victoria firemen and equipment were pressed into the first at St. John's after Canon George Biddle gave the alarm at 4.04.

When the second alarm came in an hour later, Fire Chief James Bayliss called for aid from Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments.

It was the first time outside help had been requested in the city.

40 Firemen

At least 40 firemen were fighting the fires.

Chief William Pearson of Oak Bay praised Chief Bayliss for his early request and subsequent "save" at First United by Oak Bay firemen.

Saanich fire department sent a truck, laid in hose at First United, but was not required.

Saanich Chief Joseph Law said "We will give them help without hesitation anytime. Victoria fire department has helped Saanich often."

Most of the loss at St. John's is irreplaceable and an insurance adjuster said he doubted whether the city would grant a permit to rebuild the brick and frame structure in its former state, although its outer shell appears intact. It cost $98,000 to build in 1912.

The bell tower and copper-sheathed spire are virtually undamaged, but had the fire spread more rapidly in its direction and weakened the

Both Fires Started In Same Place

Cause of two fires at St. John's and First United Churches today had not been established by noon, Fire Chief James Bayliss said.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver had a quick look at the ruins of St. John's upon his arrival at 11.30, but without a full investigation he would not comment.

All signs indicated an incendiarist was active early in the course of the blazes. City detectives are also working on the case.

Both blazes appeared to have started in identical parts of the respective churches, next to boiler rooms.

Referring to the first outbreak — at St. John's — Chief Bayliss said:

"It was charged and ready to go when I got there. Smoke was thick. Five minutes later the windows blew and away it went.

"It started in the basement."

An early search of the basement at First United disclosed nothing.

Verger of St. John's, Jack Brownie, said he checked the church Thursday night and found all in order.

Tuesday morning he found a piece of burnt paper between the pews, leading him to think someone may have tried earlier to set the church afire.

CHURCHES PROWLED

"I guess it didn't work right," he said.

Police have had numerous complaints in recent months about "rubby-dubs" who prowl churches in search of sacramental wines, often using paper tapers to light their quest.

"Rounders are going in and out all the time," caretakers of First Baptist Church, (across Quadra from St. John's) said.

OTTAWA OFFERS PARTNERSHIP

The federal government's offer to help B.C. finance the Columbia River project is somewhat different than proposals which have been mentioned previously—not a loan, but a partnership.

The letter received Thursday by Premier Bennett from federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming proposes:

That Ottawa will put up half the cost of building the three storage dams, at Lower Arrow Lake, at Duncan Lake, and at Mica Creek. (It has been estimated this will amount to about $172,000,000.

This money is to be repaid to Ottawa as and when the project produces revenue over and above operating costs. Ottawa also will receive interest on it at a rate to be fixed at the time, but to be worked out at the most favorable level that can be obtained.

A new federal-provincial agency would be established to arrange for this financing and to supervise terms of the proposed treaty with the U.S.

Actual construction of the works would be handled by the B.C. Power Commission.

(Since the total cost of the big scheme has been estimated at $458,000,000 the offer means that Ottawa would be participating to the extent of about 37 per cent.

Previous discussion has centred around a proposal that Ottawa should simply make a direct loan to the power commission of $170,000,000 and would charge the normal rate at which the federal government can raise money plus ⅛th per cent as a service charge. However, this now appears to have been discarded and superceded by the "partnership investment" scheme.

See full text of Mr. Fleming's letter on Page 2.

BENNETT THREATENS TO GO IT ALONE ON COLUMBIA

Ottawa Plan Rejected

A sharp clash between the Ottawa and B.C. government over the financing of the huge Columbia River hydro project erupted into the open Thursday at two independent press conferences.

Out of it developed two main points:

- Ottawa has made a different proposal as to how it will participate in the project than the one mooted previously.
- Premier Bennett has flatly turned it down and intimates that if Ottawa cannot do better B.C. will finance the whole project itself.

Protagonists in the squabble here were Premier Bennett and Justice Minister Davie Fulton, who is in Victoria for discussions on the general Columbia treaty.

Haven't Met

But up to this morning they had not met, doing their sparring at long range through press conferences, and there was some doubt that they would meet at all.

Centre of the dispute was a letter from Federal Finance Minister Donlad Fleming to the Premier.

He has now prosed that Ottawa will "invest" about $172,000,000 in the $458,000,000 over-all Columbia program. This will be an advance to cover half the cost of the three main storage dams at Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek.

Ottawa will recover its money from net earnings of the huge scheme when it is in operation and at the same time will reap interest on the money at a rate yet to be determined. When the full advance has been repaid Ottawa will have no further interest.

(The Columbia scheme is supposed to be a self-liquidating project).

Ottawa's new proposal supplants a previous suggestion that Ottawa would make a direct loan of the amount to the B.C. Power Commission which will do the work, and charge one-eighth of one per cent over and above the going interest rates.

In addition Ottawa has proposed than an over-riding body be set up to arrange this financing and also to supervise terms of the treaty with the United States.

When the details of the offer were made public by Premier Bennett he rejected it out of hand.

He claimed Ottawa was trying to grab control of the big B.C. hydro resource and that it was going to make money out of it in the process. He is still insisting that Ottawa should make an outright grant toward the scheme as it has done in similar projects in other provinces.

Sharp Conflict

In reply, Mr. Fulton said Mr. Bennett was misrepresenting an honest offer which is designed to ensure the cheapest and best possible deal for handling the project.

There appeared to be sharp conflict between the two interpretations of the roposal.

Mr. Bennett made it clear that he is not discussing financing with Mr. Fulton. He is dealing directly with Mr. Fleming on this aspect of the scheme.

The conflicting views of the two governments were given at separate interviews Thursday.

Premier Bennett, at a press conference issued a statement saying the federal proposal was "unacceptable" to B.C. and implied if there was nothing better offered B.C. would go it alone on the Columbia project.

He said he will deal only with federal Finance Minister Fleming and that he will again ask for an outright grant.

His statement Thursday afternoon was accompanied by a copy of the letter from Mr. Fleming outlining the federal proposals.

Mr. Bennett's interpretation of this letter is that the federal government is offering to advance to B.C. half the cost of the self-liquidating projects in the overall scheme. That is, some $172,000,000 towards the cost of dams on the Arrow and Duncan Lakes and at Mica Creek.

Ignored

He said the offer "ignores completely the integral factors of generation and transmission." (Which would cost some $110,000,000.)

"The federal proposal further ignores the already established principle under which an outright grant is so clearly justified," said Mr. Bennett.

In amplification, he said the federal government has given grants to Manitoba for a floodway, the South Saskatchewan Dam and to New Brunswick for a hydro project.

"I'm still hopeful they'll take a second look," he added. "This surely can't be the final say."

Mr. Bennett said the federal proposal would cost B.C. an extra $40,000,000 financing charge. He described this as one-eighth of one per cent over a 50-year period.

(However, there is no mention of any such figure in the Fleming letter and federal officials later told reporters that the extra charge is no part of the offer although it was mentioned in the first tentative offer months ago.)

Mr. Bennett said that Ottawa would charge B.C. interest on the $172,000,000, plus the $40,000,000 "brokerage fee," plus $70,000,000 in federal sales tax on goods and equipment for

BENNETT 'RUDE' SAYS FULTON

Justice Minister Fulton said at press time today any delay or failure in the Columbia River project will be the fault of British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton made a statement to B.C. ministers attending a policy committee meeting on the Columbia project this morning.

He said Premier Bennett's rejection of a federal financing offer is "a discourteous and ill-considered" and he criticized the premier for "rudeness."

French Tanks Oppose Rioters

See Page 35

ALGIERS (AP) — Army tanks, backed by troops and riot police, cushed barricades thrown up here today by angry crowds protesting President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area to whip up backing for his home-rule plan for Algeria.

Two army tanks rolled over the wooden barricades across the Rue Michelet in downtown Algiers shortly after they were thrown up by the rioters.

The tanks turned and recrossed the shattered barricades and the crowds tried to surge forward and mount them, but were turned back by about 50 infantrymen surrounding the tanks.

Surrounding the area were steel-helmeted riot troops who then moved in with tear gas grenades to drive the rioters up side streets.

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

Help to Bridge Gap

Breadwinners in India, like their counterparts here in Victoria, strive to support their families, but there is a vast difference.

The difference is in pay, food, conditions of work, health—in just about everything that goes to make up an existence.

The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, recipient of the Times "Children of India" Fund, provides one way in which Victorians can help to make the difference between us and them a little smaller.

It is the USC which gives much-needed help to Mrs. Sangi Jospeh, 40, a widow and mother of five children. She works as a road coolie outside Kodaikanal and earns the equivalent of $1.10 per week for eight hours of work each day.

Rather, she earns that if she is lucky. Her health is bad, and there are days when she cannot carry heavy stones from truck to fill. She misses the strong hand of her dead husband in keeping her twins under control, and misses her eldest son of 15 who one day simply disappeared—most likely to relieve her of the burden of caring for him.

USC provides her with rice, Canadian milk powder, biscuits, some clothing, and medical care to the limit of its ability. But she needs so much, and there are so many like her.

Contributions to the Times fund help this work. They can be made either by cheque or cash at 2631 Douglas Street, and receipts are given for income tax purposes.

FACES CHECKED AT CITY FIRES

Pyromania and arson are no strangers to strangers to Greater Victoria.

Homes, barns and numerous grass fires have been deliberately set over past years.

Sentences up to two years have followed convictions.

Arson is when a fire is set to collect insurance; pyromania is when a person gets a thrill in starting blazes with no financial returns.

And generally the pyromaniac likes to see his "handiwork" burn.

For this reason police at the scene of today's blazes watched spectators closely to see if any undue exhiliration was exhibited by any one.

. . . COLUMBIA

the project, and also would skim off half the profits from the operating project until the federal advance is repaid.

'Cost Plus'

"This isn't at cost; it is cost plus," he said.

"The whole thing was a complete surprise; the whole thing was a very great disappointment."

Mr. Bennett added: "We're not playing any war, these are just hard facts."

The premier said he has already held talks in New York and elsewhere with financial leaders on the possibility of raising money for B.C. agencies such as B.C. Power Commission, which will build the Columbia dams.

B.C. Hydro bonds, mainly long-term, would be guaranteed by the province, he said, to finance the project.

"Thank goodness B.C. is debt-free and its guarantee is good," he added.

Mr. Bennett said profits from the project would be shared with Ottawa in proportion to its investment on the basis of its proposals. As far as he is concerned, he said, profits will stay in B.C. Hydro for turning back into its projects.

Won't Give Up

He stoutly proclaimed his determination not to give up an inch on the Ottawa request for a new, separate agency to oversee the entire project.

He said the Columbia's potential belongs to the people of B.C. and the Ottawa idea would "effectively remove control of that resource from this province."

"There's only going to be one entity, that's the power commission," he said. "We don't want any fifth wheels."

"The proposal of the minister of finance is therefore unacceptable. As stated before, the government of B.C. will meet its responsibility to the people of this province by carrying out the development on their behalf once the international questions are settled.

"We shall proceed forthwith to make the necessary financial arrangements, and in order to facilitate this action I shall again request from Mr. Fleming an answer to my question concerning the amount of the outright federal grant."

After Mr. Bennett had made his statement Justice Minister Fulton held a press conference at the Empress Hotel.

He accused Premier Bennett of misrepresentation, errors and playing politics with the proposal.

He denied that the federal government is seeking profits from the big power project and he denied it was to take the resource away from B.C.

Up to Bennett

He said it is now up to Mr. Bennett to modify his demands.

The reason Ottawa wants to set up a special agency to carry out financing is to ensure the terms of the international treaty with the U.S. are met and to avoid "improvident" actions. It would also see that none of the revenue from the Columbia goes to "pet projects" of Mr. Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett as is his usual custom is presenting a completely false impression on the nature and effect of the federal government offer," said Mr. Fulton in a long statement to reporters in his hotel room Thursday night.

It followed Mr. Bennett's reaction to a letter delivered by Mr. Fulton from Finance Minister Fleming containing the financial proposals.

Remarks attributed to Mr. Bennett are an indication "either of his unwillingness to consider it or his deliberate attempt to misrepresent it," said Mr. Fulton.

'In Error'

Mr. Fulton said Premier Bennett is "in error" on these points:

That Ottawa will charge B.C. $40,000,000 extra interest for kicking in $170,000,000 toward the project;

That Ottawa will take profits from the project over and above repayment of the $170,000,000 and its interest;

That Ottawa will snatch control of the project from B.C.;

That B.C. is entitled to the same deal as Saskatchewan got for its big dam.

He said Mr. Bennett threatens to "go it alone" in financing the entire project because he knows it is such a good project the financing charges will be cheap.

He contended that a new separate federal-provincial Columbia development agency would be able to obtain cheaper money than either of the two governments, or B.C. Power Commission, and that failure to recognize this will prove costly to the people of British Columbia.

He said that British Columbia could go alone on the financing but Ottawa still will insist on some "police" agency to protect the treaty and the benefits from being "sold".

Mr. Fulton also attacked Premier Bennett for airing his view in public and not to the federal government.

Most Generous

Mr. Fulton said the federal government has made the most generous offer ever submitted to a province on hydro power.

"It is this offer which Mr. Bennett has rejected for his own political purposes and to the prejudice of the people of British Columbia."

He said it appears that the premier had made up his mind to reject the offer long before he received the terms.

Mr. Fulton said the federal government is not offering a loan. It wants to make a joint partnership in a self-liquidating project.

He said there is nothing in the offer about a "brokerage charge" to British Columbia of ⅛ of 1 per cent on the money. He said Ottawa will put up the money at the best interest rate obtainable by the federal-provincial agency it proposes, or at the same rate as the province pays for its share.

The premier's suggestion that the federal government wants to share in the profits of the scheme is "completely erroneous," said Mr. Fulton.

Here is how Mr. Fulton explained the federal offer:

"We have offered to advance half the cost of creating storages to produce these enormous benefits for B.C. The present estimate of this federal advance is in the neighborhood of $170,000,000.

The money would be paid in advance as contracts were approved.

No Guarantee

"We offer it on a basis that involves no guarantee or liability on the part of the province as far as the advance is concerned.

"We offer it on the basis of repayment of our investment would be made only as and when the earnings from the project make repayment possible."

He said if the province wanted to it could retire the federal advance more quickly, but the basis of the offer is that if there are no profits, there is no repayment.

"We offer it at interest rates that would be the same as rates applicable to provincial advances and that would be determined by the rate at which funds for such a purpose could be obtained on the open market. Even though it involves some risk, the interest rate we could receive would be lower than the interest rate at which we could borrow."

Misrepresented

Mr. Fulton added: "If there is no profit after operating costs we would get no repayment of our capital advance."

He said it is "complete misrepresentation" on Mr. Bennett's part to suggest B.C. would lose control of the project. "It has been made abundantly clear physical control and operation of the projects would remain with the province."

He gave these reasons for setting up a special control agency: "To ensure discharge of obligations under the treaty"; supervision to see "nothing improvident is done"; the federal government is making the treaty and it is a national policy.

"We are not prepared to allow benefits accruing under this treaty to be sold for cash into provincial general revenues and to be used for other pet projects of the premier of B.C.

"Our interest," he added, "is to ensure the enormous benefits of cheap power are passed on to the people of B.C.—so it will be reflected to the ordinary householder in lower light bills."

HEAT CRUMPLES CEMENT PILLARS

Sampson himself couldn't have created the havoc here. Pillars exuded cement under blast of heat after woodwork had been consumed; gave look like elongated gravestones.

Grief-stricken by the destruction of venerable St. John's Church, Rev. Canon George Biddle (left) watches heroic attempts to quell the blaze with Victoria fire chief James Bayliss who called in extra men and equipment.

CONGREGATION OFFERS SYMPATHY TO CANON

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Widespread sympathy was felt today for Rev. Canon George Biddle, the kindly, good-humored rector of burned-out St. John's.

He celebrated his birthday only last Tuesday and his general popularity was demonstrated in the large birthday cake and the numerous good wishes he received from the congregation.

"It is tragic that he should lose his church after all the devoted 20 years of service he has given to it," said Mrs. Lester Small, a prominent worker for St. John's.

"No one could have shown more courage."

FIRST WAR SOLDIER

Through the years Canon Biddle has suffered recurrent illness and several operations as the result of a severe mustard-gas attack during the First World War in which he served as a fighting soldier.

"With all this, he is a prodigious worker who never knows when to stop," said a member of his congregation.

But, after his night-long ordeal with the burning church, Archbishop Harold Sexton persuaded him to go to bed and cut off his phone.

Victoria Anglicans and members of other churches recognize Canon Biddle as a cheerful man of God whose sermons are notable for their wit, anecdote and good sense, and his church was often packed to the doors.

CLERICAL MR. PUNCH

He has a kindly, humorous countenance that might suggest a clerical Mr. Punch and he carries the light-hearted air of a man who has come to terms with life.

Although he was born at Bournemouth, England, Canon Biddle's habit of hard work was formed in his youth when as a clerical student he rode the Alberta foothills helping farmers and ranchers with their chores and conducting services in remote places.

Once he went to Dinton, Alta., to re-open a church which had been out of use for many years. The church was dirty and unpainted and there wasn't a pane of glass in it. The skunk and the gopher had taken over.

The Dinton townsfolk rallied round him and soon the church was neat as a pin and filled with people. They saw him off en masse when he returned to the Anglican Theological College at Vancouver to complete his training.

FOUR CHILDREN

Later he had charge of St. Barnabas' Church, Calgary, which was burned down in 1957, and of churches at High River and Pincher reek. Then he went to St. Philip's at Dunbar, Vancouver.

Canon Biddle married a High River school teacher, Ethel Mildred Steele, and they spent their honeymoon travelling around Britain in a retired ambulance purchased for $25.

At St. John's he has acquired a reputation for pre-marriage counsel and pictures of many brides and grooms hang in his study in the rambling rectory behind the church.

Canon and Mrs. Biddle have four children—three daughters and one son—and a host of friends among the young people of St. John's.

ISED IN TWO CORONATIONS

Priceless Abbey Frontals Saved, Gem Window 'Lost'

By TONY DICKASON

Saved from the flames which ravaged St. John's were two tapestry altar frontals from Westminster Abbey.

They were part of church decorations at the coronations of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The rich frontals were dedicated in 1938 and 1954.

Both were presented the church by the Ker family, Victoria pioneers.

But the priceless stained glass windows are gone.

"These are irreplacable," said Canon George Biddle.

The Gem window alone was valued at $75,000 while the 12 apostle windows had a value of at least $1,000 each.

Then there were the memorial windows, links with early Victoria families.

The windows were among the first to go as pressure built up inside the church.

Canon George Biddle and verger Jack Brownie, assisted by police and firemen rescued the altar frontals and communion silver.

They grabbed an armful of valuables each and ran.

Among the many valuables lost was the oaken pulpit, hand-carved in the late 1800s by Rev. Percival Jenns, rector for 46 years.

Lost also was the reredos, the woodwork behind the altar, also hand carved and designed by First World War veterans in the Red Cross workshop.

Gone, too, are the font and hanging lamps, brought around Cape Horn for the Old Iron Church.

. . . CHURCH FIRE

foundations, firemen and electrical engineers feared it might crash across the street, tear out some principal power lines and demolish Rosedale Manor apartments at 1612 Quadra.

Evacuated

Occupants of the four-suite block and a four-apartment house next door at 1608 were evacuated as a safety measure.

Both St. John's rectory and parish hall escaped fire damage.

A "wedding buzzer" served as an automatic fire alarm at St. John's, where the blaze was well under way.

Through a freak short circuit caused by the heat, the buzzer stuck "on" and its persistent sounding awoke Canon George Biddle, who slept with his wife, son John and daughters Mary and Joan in the adjoining rectory.

He got up to see what was the matter and discovered the house filling with smoke. The church, separated from the rectory by a fire door, already was smoke-filled.

Mrs. Biddle explained the buzzer was used at weddings to signal the rectory, where grooms awaited their bride's arrival on the church steps.

A Favorite

It was a favorite church for weddings and contained many beautiful furnishings. Its wood panelling and beams and many stained glass memorial windows gave it a warmness often lacking in the traditional "high Anglican" church.

Canon Biddle, caretaker Jack Brownie, 1911 Chambers; firemen and police all helped carry portable furnishings and other valuables from the sanctuary.

Communion silver and some Westminster tapestries were among the items saved.

Cons. Gordon Bennett, whose father retired as assistant fire chief last summer, said: "I was coming out of St. John's rectory for the third time with things we grabbed in the smoke. This woman told me the other church was on fire."

The woman was Mrs. T. W. Scott, wife of St. John's assistant rector Canon Scott, 935 Balmoral, who said "I saw smoke over the rectory door and thought I was dreaming at first."

'Your Church'

The fire at First United was reported by a telephone call from building superintendent George Schoeman, who lives next door on Balmoral. He said he was looking at the St. John's fire when a neighborhood boy, Donald Little, 948 Balmoral, pointed and said, "There's smoke coming from your church, too."

"I went right over, but at first I thought, it's just a boy talking. When I got there you couldn't see across the main part of the church for smoke.

"I phoned the fire department and they said, you've got the wrong church, it's St. John's. But I gave them the address—I guess I was excited—and they came in a few minutes."

All doors had been locked, he said, having checked them himself at midnight.

Firemen broke an exit door to get into the basement gymnasium.

The church's new $10,000 carillon, dedicated in October, appeared to have been ruined by intense heat from adjoining banquet room, scene of the blaze that burned through heavy timbers and actually broke through flooring in a main floor hallway.

The organ at St. John's was considered the finest in B.C.

"I watched it burn up. It was a beautiful thing," Canon Biddle said as he stood in the middle of Quadra as firemen poured water on the steaming ruin.

In the rosy-hued dawn, ugly dark shapes and the undamaged spire were etched against the sky.

The sound of windows being blown out in the extreme heat awoke Walter Yeamans, of Rosedale Manor. He looked out from his second floor window directly opposite St. John's and saw flames breaking through the roof.

"I said to my wife, we'd better get out of here. Just then the police came and told us we had to move.

"I kept looking at the church burn. I couldn't believe it could happen right in the centre of the city.

"I feel very sorry for Canon Biddle. He has worked hard. I have lived here about 20 years — and before that in other parts of Victoria — and he built that congregation from a very small one."

'. . . and Whoosh'

Larry Furlong, 1608 Quadra, said he got up about 4 a.m. and heard sirens. "I looked out the bathroom window and saw the trucks. Then I looked out again a few minutes later and—whoosh . . ."

Cons. Fred Acreman, one of the first police to arrive, said when he got there smoke was "coming out of every crack and window. It was burning down below; you could hear it if you walked along the sidewalk, but could not see it.

"I was helping get Canon Biddle and his family out of the rectory. We were just coming around the front from the parking lot when flames broke through and started coming out the windows."

Joan Biddle, well-known amateur swimmer, said: "When I woke up the house itself was full of smoke."

Her sister, Mary, said: "There was a lot of smoke in the church. It was about half an hour before flames broke out."

Firemen Praised

Mrs. Biddle, who with her daughters was sitting half a block away in a darkened car, watching the destruction of the church, said:

"The firemen did wonders. But it means the loss of a lot of pretty and irreplaceable things like the communion silver, the wood carving, the stained glass and the most wonderful pipe organ."

At this time Mrs. Biddle was not aware her husband and others had braved the choking smoke to save some of the valuables.

She said the last service performed in the church was at 10.30 a.m. Thursday, a communion held by Canon Scott.

Plane Wreck Spotted

MONTREAL (CP)—A helicopter crew today spotted the main fuselage of one of two RCAF jets involved in a mid-air collision near the Ontario-Quebec border early Wednesday. No sign has yet been found of the four men aboard the planes.

HISTORY MADE BY 'OUTSIDE' FIREFIGHTERS

Local fire-fighting history was made Thursday night when Saanich and Oak Bay each sent a pumper truck into the city to help battle the St. John's Church blaze.

The assistance was given under a mutual-aid pact covering the four Greater Victoria fire departments.

But Fire Chief James Bayliss told city council this year that although the city had sent equipment to assist the other municipalities, it had never received help itself because the smaller departments usually couldn't spare trucks.

CHUBB DAZED

Organist Mourns Console

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

Churches that have been gutted by fire can be rebuilt and the soaring pipes of new organs can eventually rise above the ashes of the old.

But these things take time. And time, says Frederick Chubb, organist for 15 years of glorious but unostentatious music-making at St. John's Anglican Church, is not in his favor.

Elderly, often ailing, Mr. Chubb is regarded as one of Canada's finest organists and composers of organ music.

But he feels that in the flames that destroyed St. John's church early today, his career as a church organist has come to a virtual end.

MOURNS LOSS

"No doubt we will carry on as well as possible in the parish hall," he comments. "We will get some mimeographed music and there is the little organ . . ."

Mr. Chubb, dazed by news of the fire, mourned for his wonderful console—"undoubtedly the best in British Columbia"—and for the fine library of music he had built up through the years.

"The wardens were always so generous—never a demur no matter what I wanted to order. And last night . . . one of the best choir rehearsals we've ever had . . . all the Christmas music . . ."

OUTSIDE CONCERN

Characteristically, however, one of Mr. Chubb's main concerns is for the effect of the catastrophe on a young Dutchman named Hugo Spilker.

Spilker is a new Canadian and one of the extremely few organ builders and voicers ever to follow his craft in Victoria.

He had spent the last two years working on St. John's organ, repairing and asembling it so that all parts were accessible for maintenance, latterly he had worked on revoicing the pipes.

This most delicate of organ-building skills, was to have been completed early in the New Year.

Frederick Chubb, fine artist and brilliant musician, knows exactly how Hugo Spilker, fine craftsman and brilliant technician, will be feeling today.

CHURCH HULK MADE SAFE

Farmer Construction Ltd. of Victoria today took over the work of making the burned-out hulk of St. John's Anglican Church safe from falling debris.

"We shall board up the windows and reinforce the structure as far as possible," a spokesman said.

"We will then await instructions as to what is to be done with the church."

Burglar Given Term He Sought To Learn Trade

A 22-year-old Victorian who appeared in city police court today for sentence on two charges of burglary got what he asked for—a penitentiary term.

Robert Barry Jackson, no fixed address, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary by Magistrate William Ostler.

When Jackson pleaded guilty to the charges last week, he asked the magistrate to send him to penitentiary so that he could learn a trade.

He pleaded guilty to breaking into the provincial government Douglas Building, 617 Government, on Nov. 20 and stealing cash from a vending machine.

He also admitted breaking into the Victoria Social Club, 654 Yates, with intent to steal.

WHO WILL IT BE? YOU OR ME?

Watching recounts intently this morning were city aldermanic candidates, in background, W. C. Hudson on left and A. W. Toone, as city workers went into a fifth count of their votes. Mr. Hudson was ahead by two votes Thursday night when they went to bed. Mr. Toone was ahead by one vote this morning as the lunch hour approached. There was a possibility that a judicial recount might be called.

Sixth Recount Looms in City

A judicial recount to decide who won the fourth aldermanic seat in Victoria's civic election Thursday night appeared probable today.

After five counts, which saw the two contenders leading at various times by one or two votes, W. C. Hudson appeared to have the current hold on the seat with 1,866 votes—five ahead of A. W. Toone, at press time.

It was the closest race for a city council seat on record.

Mr. Toone, awaiting confirmation of the fifth count just before press time said he probably would ask for an official recount by a judge as provided under the Municipal Act.

Saanich Sewers Finally Win

Interest in the other municipalities centred on Saanich's approval of sewering the Cadboro Bay - Gordon Head - Shelbourne area after two previous defeats, and Oak Bay voters' forceful "no" to the principle of paying their councillors a salary.

The dramatic battle between Mr. Hudson and Mr. Toone began early Thursday night when the first count showed Mr. Hudson had 1,867 votes, 21 more than Mr. Toone.

A routine recount narrowed the gap to two votes more for Mr. Hudson than Mr. Toone and at that point the ballot boxes were locked up for the night and everyone went to get some sleep.

Mr. Toone at the time observed that Curtis, Dowell, Griffin and Hudson appeared in that order at the top of the long ballot and this may have had "a psychological effect" on the voters. Mr. Toone's name was 10th.

Mr. Hudson admitted that the evening had been very exciting."

This morning, about a score of counters began a second recount in City Hall with returning officer Frank Hunter, Mr. Toone and Mr. Hudson and their agents, watching the count.

It wound up giving Mr. Toone a two-vote edge. A fourth count was made and this showed Mr. Toone only one vote ahead of Mr. Hudson's 1,858.

The fifth count was held using a new technique — all the Hudson votes were segregated and counted and then all the Toone votes were segregated for a count.

Only 31 Per Cent Voted

A "so-so" turnout for a non-mayoralty year saw 31 per cent of the city's voters go to the polls. The city election campaign was the dullest of the three in Greater Victoria with no sharp issues to divide the candidates.

Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. Arthur Dowell ran one-two in the polling, repeating a familiar pattern set in several past elections. Close behind came newcomer Michael J. Griffin, a plumbing firm director, who entered the race only half an hour before nominations closed last week.

Saanich voters elected three familiar faces to the 1961 council and finally approved installation of sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head-Shelbourne area.

It was the third time that the $1,200,000 project was put before the west-side voters. Only those affected by the two money bylaws — for a trunk sewer and a system of laterals —had a vote on the issue.

Both previous votes were defeated narrowly but this time the measure went through with a 3 per cent margin over the required 60 per cent approval.

"I think the people will find it is a wise decision. It means a great step forward for Saanich," said Reeve George Chatterton, who campaigned hard for the favorable vote.

Former Reeve Tops Saanich Poll

In filling the three council vacancies, Saanich voters gave solid support to Joseph Casey, former reeve and councillor, who led the returns from the first poll. Re-elected were Coun. Ainslie Worthington and Coun. Harold Todd.

But newcomer Robert Chard fought a see-saw battle with Coun. Todd throughout the counting until he lost out finally by 31 votes.

George Curran came from behind to beat David Nightingale for the School District 61 trustee vacancy. Richard Hilton trailed both.

Oak Bay voters split their votes to re-elect three councillors, who favored pay for civic office holders, and solidly rejected the principle of pay for council.

The pay referendum was defeated 1,394-901 and although the 1961 council is not bound to act on the voters wishes, it appears likely that Oak Bay will return to its former practice by cutting out the $720 annual salary for reeve and $240 for councillors that was inaugurated last year.

Only other municipality in B.C. refusing to pay its councillors is Central Saanich.

Veteran councillor Fred Hawes topped the poll. He was followed by John Watts, seeking his second term, and another veteran, Fred Robinson. Newcomer Harry Gregson lost out by 150 votes.

Protection Falls Apart

A ridge of high-pressure air which gave Victoria its clear weather this week has collapsed and cloudy skies are on the menu for the weekend.

A weak weather front will pass over the city tonight, according to weatherman William Mackie, to give cloudy skies and the possibility of a little rain.

Skies will be cloudy Saturday, and a disturbance suspected of lurking somewhere between here and the Hawaiian Islands likely will arrive with showers Sunday.

Temperatures overnight will drop to as low as 31 degrees, depending on location, and the maximum Saturday will be 45 degrees. Winds will be easterly at 20 miles per hour Saturday night and Sunday.

$1,100 Forgery Charged in City

Pleading not guilty to a charge of forging a cheque to the value of $1,100, Norman Bradley of Victoria, was remanded in city police court today to December 16 to set a date for trial.

CARS COLLIDE

Alderman, Mayor Meet —Hard Way

Michael J. Griffin bumped into Mayor Percy Scurrah on the street a short time after he was elected as an alderman for the first time Thursday night—but he didn't say hello.

The accidental meeting occurred about midnight on the slippery Foul Bay-Fort intersection and it sent the chief magistrate's car into a utility pole.

This is how it happened: Mayor Scurrah's car was attempting a left turn when Mr. Griffin's car collided with its rear.

The mayor's car spun across the intersection in an arc and sheared off a telephone pole at its base but the overhead wires prevented it from falling.

Medium damage was caused both cars, according to a police estimate. No one suffered injuries.

"I'm told that it was Mr. Griffin but I personally haven't any idea who it was. All I saw was a bunch of people around the other car," the mayor said today.

$4,500 DEPOSIT MISSING

Disappearance of a $4,500 bank deposit from a Victoria bank last weekend was disclosed by Chief John Blackstock today.

Refusing to name the depositor or bank while an investigation is in progress, the chief said so far the matter is simply one of "money missing."

He said an 18 or 19-year-old stock man and an assistant manager from a department store (not one of the major two) took nearly $4,500 in a deposit bag to a night depository slot Saturday.

Whether the money actually was put in the slot was not known definitely, the chief said.

The two employees have both been interviewed.

The depositor notified police of the loss Wednesday after-

2-Year Terms For Burglary At Elk Lake

Robert Alister Borgal, 723 Yates, and Donald Nelson, no fixed address, were sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to two years less a day on charges of breaking and entering and theft from an Elk Lake service station Nov. 14.

The terms will be served concurrently with similar terms imposed the day before in Colwood police court by Magistrate A. I. Thomas for offences at Ladysmith, Chemainus and the Malahat.

At the same time Magistrate Thomas sentenced Albert Jenik of Vancouver and Robert Jackson, no fixed address, to two years for their part in the Up-Island offences with Nelson and Borgal.

'IN LOVE'

Also charged in Saanich court in connection with the Elk Lake offence was Bela Plocza, no fixed address, who was sentenced to 18 months.

He had asked for leniency on grounds that he was "in love with a very lovely girl and wanted to get married."

'Time Come for New Look' At Use of B.C.'s Forests

Responsibility for recreational use of privately-owned land in B.C. is "not a one-way street," the provincial government was told today.

Hugh J. Hodgins of Vancouver, retiring president of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, said at the concluding session of the 51st conference:

"The time has come in B.C. when we should examine now whether or not the government is meeting its responsibilities where public use of private facilities and land are more or less demanded for recreation purposes.

"I refer specifically to responsibilities which concern, first, fire losses through carelessness and the cost of fighting such fires; second, malicious damage to property and equipment upon which many men's livelihood depends, and, third, the cost of administering and supervising public access programs on privately-owned areas."

Speaking at the end of a morning session at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Hodgins pointed out that "no reasonably-minded forest operator or forest owner will have any argument with a reasonable multiple-use concept . . . but there comes a time when it is necessary to examine the situation.

"In my opinion the time is here in B.C."

Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation, predicted that recreational activity on some kind of forest land will increase 40 times over in the next 40 years.

"Recreational physics will dwarf space physics and we may be taking in billions instead of millions," Dr. Turner said.

EXPLODE

He warned that a stampede of "city-jaded" humanity towards the forests would explode in the faces of public and private land managers unless they made plans to cope with the problem.

Dr. Turner said all forest land managers are on "a recreational treadmill" since, as more areas are made available, more people pour in.

"Private companies must furnish recreational areas and co-operate with public agencies," he said.

Compromise Not Backed By Ramsay

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, city arena sub-committee chairman today indicated he will oppose a compromise proposal sent to council by Memorial Arena commission.

The compromise was to be received and discussed by city council this afternoon at a special meeting. It involves rehiring of arena manager Joe Dukowski as a promoter, rehiring of all six employees who quit in September, and creation of a general manager's post.

"I don't see how I can support that," said Ald. Ramsay. "I don't see how it is workable."

Ald. Ramsay said he was not certain what council could do.

"It appears, under our by-law, we will have to accept it or ask for the commission's resignation. Technically there is no middle course, such as amending the proposal."

Tory Leader's Resignation Due Saturday

Provincial Conservative leader Deane Finlayson is expected to resign at a meeting in Vancouver Saturday.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Provincial Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Finlayson said in October that "there's an appropriate time for announcements and indicated he is planning to quit.

"We think this is an appropriate time," said a local Tory who will attend the meeting.

"If Mr. Finlayson doesn't tender his resignation there'll be pressure put on him to do so," said the delegate.

The Tories did not win a single seat in the provincial legislature in the Sept. 12 election.

Mr. Finlayson has been leader since 1952.

Another big issue at the meeting Saturday will be an attempt to reunite provincial and federal Conservatives.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN MILL FIRE

A planer shed and motor lumber carrier were destroyed by fire of undetermined cause that broke out at 8.46 p.m. Thursday at Atom Lumber, Tyee at Bay.

There was no estimate of damage, but an unofficial figure of $50,000 was suggested.

Blaze lit up the sky and attracted people from all over the city, causing a traffic jam.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday, at 1.30 p.m., at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a trail marking expedition at the Francis Park, Munn Road.

Churches Don't Succumb Easily —Only the Service Interrupted

★ ★ ★

By TONY DICKASON

History has proven nobody can kill a church.

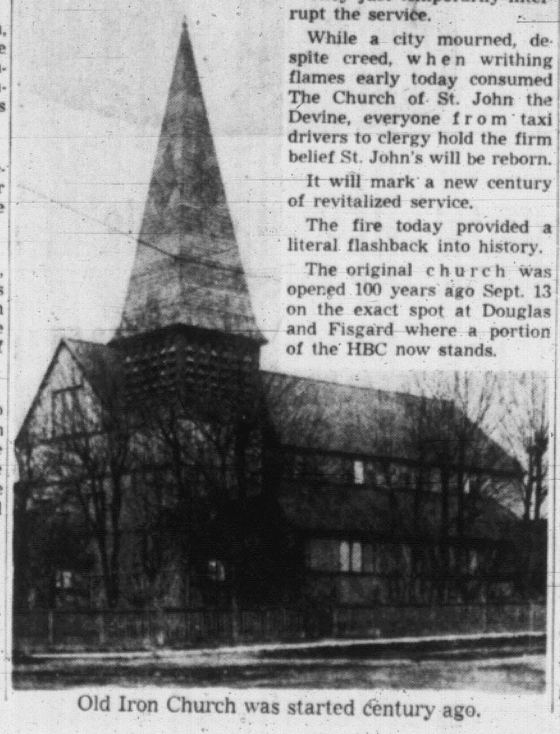
They just temporarily interrupt the service.

While a city mourned, despite creed, when writhing flames early today consumed The Church of St. John the Devine, everyone from taxi drivers to clergy hold the firm belief St. John's will be reborn.

It will mark a new century of revitalized service.

The fire today provided a literal flashback into history.

The original church was opened 100 years ago Sept. 13 on the exact spot at Douglas and Fisgard where a portion of the HBC now stands.



Old Iron Church was started century ago.

It was known as the "Iron Church."

The almost legendary story began in London when Baroness Burdett-Coutts offered funds to build a church in far-off Victoria.

She didn't send money. She sent the church itself, prefabricated sections of galvanized iron, around Cape Horn by clipper ship.

The property was purchased from the HBC for $1 and when the new St. John's was built in 1912, the land was bought back by the HBC for $140,000. The money went to build the new church — the one destroyed today.

FIRST CONSECRATED

Thousands of Victoria residents were baptized, confirmed, married and buried in and from both churches.

The Iron Church was the first church in the colony to be consecrated.

Centenary of the founding was observed in September with unveiling of a bronze plaque on the HBC by then Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

Cornerstone of the original church was laid by Sir James Douglas, then governor of the Vancouver Island colony and governor of the HBC on April 13, 1860.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

John Scott Arniel, 1497 Myrtle Avenue, $50 careless driving.

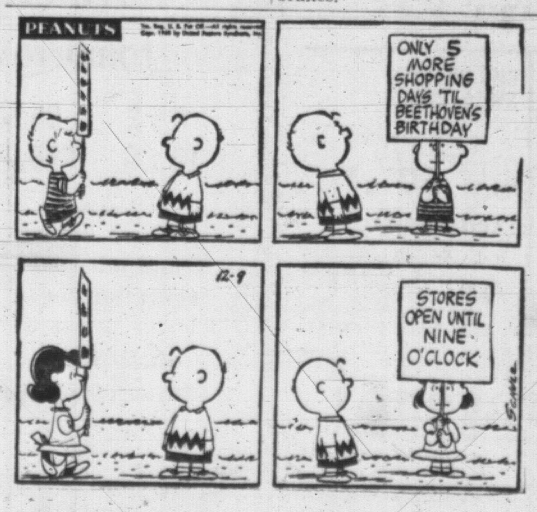
Arthur Dickworth, 1744 Admanac, $35 careless driving, licence suspended, $50 failing to remain at scene of accident.

John R. Angus, 3672 Crestview Road, $40 careless driving.

Gary A. Taylor, 2610 Avebury Avenue, $40 careless driving.

Curtis LeRoy Thibault, HMCS St. Laurent, $25 no driver's licence.

Robert Sam, 9 Cooper Road, $20 inadequate emergency brakes.



ASK The TIMES

Q. Is there a Communist party in the United States and if so, is it legal? D.C.

A. The Communist party, as a political party in the United States, was outlawed by an act signed by the president, on August 24, 1954.

Q. Is attending school in British Columbia compulsory, or can one arrange correspondence tuition if considered more desirable and beneficial. This is referring to junior grade children. F.L.

A. No, if there is a school available, or unless the child is disabled and cannot attend.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

POLICE SEEK FIREBUG IN TWO CHURCH FIRES

Greedy Fingers of Flame Reach From All Windows of St. John's Church

Famed St. John's Gutted by Blaze

By AB KENT

A pyromaniac is blamed for the near-total destruction of one of the city's finest old churches and heavy damage to a neighboring one three hours before dawn today.

The 48-year-old Church of St. John the Divine, Quadra at Mason, stands a $500,000 to $750,000 ruin of blackened rafters and brick, like a bombed-out skeleton of wartime London.

First United Church, Quadra at Balmoral, is heavily damaged—between $30,000 and $35,000—by smoke and heat from a fire that burned a 10-foot hole in the main floor before it was stopped.

Both buildings were fully insured.

City detectives began working on the "fire bug" angle shortly after the second fire was reported at 5.09 a.m. and interrogated two suspects in the first two hours.

An investigator from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was called in at the same time and arrived late this morning.

Reserves Called

Police Chief John Blackstock called in reserves to help the night watch patrol all other city churches and quashed a rumor that Church of Our Lord, 626 Blanshard, had a fire.

This was unfounded. Only a door was found insecure, police said.

Both fires appeared to have been set in basement rooms adjoining boiler rooms, and spread quickly in extensive woodwork.

All available Victoria firemen and equipment were pressed into the first at St. John's after Canon George Biddle gave the alarm at 4.04.

When the second alarm came in an hour later, Fire Chief James Bayliss called for aid from Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments.

It was the first time outside help had been requested in the city.

40 Firemen

At least 40 firemen were fighting the fires.

Chief William Pearson of Oak Bay, praised Chief Bayliss for his early request and subsequent "save" at First United by Oak Bay firemen.

Saanich fire department sent a truck, laid in hose at First United, but was not required.

Saanich Chief Joseph Law said "We will give them help without hesitation anytime. Victoria fire department has helped Saanich often."

Most of the loss at St. John's is irreplaceable and an insurance adjuster said he doubted whether the city would grant a permit to rebuild the brick and frame structure in its former state, although its outer shell appears intact. It cost $98,000 to build in 1912.

The bell tower and copper-sheathed spire are virtually undamaged, but had the fire spread more rapidly in its direction and weakened the

Both Fires Started In Same Place

Cause of two fires at St. John's and First United Churches today had not been established by noon, Fire Chief James Bayliss said.

An inspector from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver had a quick look at the ruins of St. John's upon his arrival at 11.30, but without a full investigation he would not comment.

All signs indicated an incendiarist was active early in the course of the blazes. City detectives are also working on the case.

Both blazes appeared to have started in identical parts of the respective churches, next to boiler rooms.

Referring to the first outbreak — at St. John's — Chief Bayliss said:

"It was charged and ready to go when I got there. Smoke was thick. Five minutes later the windows blew and away it went.

"It started in the basement."

An early search of the burned basement at First United disclosed nothing.

Verger of St. John's, Jack Brownie, said he checked the church Thursday night and found all in order.

Tuesday morning he found a piece of burnt paper between the pews, leading him to think someone may have tried earlier to set the church afire.

CHURCHES PROWLED

"I guess it didn't work right," he said.

Police have had numerous complaints in recent months about "rubby-dubs" who prowl churches in search of sacramental wines, often using paper tapers to light their quest.

"Rounders are going in and out all the time," caretakers of First Baptist Church, (across Quadra from St. John's) said.

OTTAWA OFFERS PARTNERSHIP

The federal government's offer to help B.C. finance the Columbia River project is somewhat different than proposals which have been mentioned previously—not a loan, but a partnership.

The letter received Thursday by Premier Bennett from federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming proposes:

That Ottawa will put up half the cost of building the three storage dams, at Lower Arrow Lake, at Duncan Lake, and at Mica Creek. (It has been estimated this will amount to about $172,000,000.

This money is to be repaid to Ottawa as and when the project produces revenue over and above operating costs. Ottawa also will receive interest on it at a rate to be fixed at the time, but to be worked out at the most favorable level that can be obtained.

A new federal-provincial agency would be established to arrange for this financing and to supervise terms of the proposed treaty with the U.S.

Actual construction of the works would be handled by the B.C. Power Commission.

(Since the total cost of the big scheme has been estimated at $458,000,000 the offer means that Ottawa would be participating to the extent of about 37 per cent.

Previous discussion has centred around a proposal that Ottawa should simply make a direct loan to the power commission of $172,000,000 and would charge the normal rate at which the federal government can raise money plus ¼th per cent as a service charge. However, this now appears to have been discarded and superceded by the "partnership investment" scheme.

BENNETT THREATENS TO GO IT ALONE ON COLUMBIA

Ottawa Plan Rejected

A sharp clash between the Ottawa and B.C. governments over the financing of the huge Columbia River hydro project erupted into the open Thursday at two independent press conferences.

Out of it developed two main points:

• Ottawa has made a different proposal as to how it will participate in the project than the one mooted previously.

• Premier Bennett has flatly turned it down and intimates that if Ottawa cannot do better B.C. will finance the whole project itself.

Protagonists in the squabble here were Premier Bennett and Justice Minister Davie Fulton, who is in Victoria for discussions on the general Columbia treaty.

Haven't Met

But up to this morning they had not met, doing their sparring at long range through press conferences, and there was some doubt that they would meet at all.

Centre of the dispute was a letter from Federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming to the Premier.

He has now proposed that Ottawa will "invest" about $172,000,000 in the $458,000,000 over-all Columbia program. This will be an advance to cover half the cost of the three main storage dams at Arrow Lake, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek.

Ottawa will recover its money from net earnings of the huge scheme when it is in operation and at the same time will reap interest on the money at a rate yet to be determined. When the full advance has been repaid Ottawa will have no further interest.

(The Columbia scheme is supposed to be a self-liquidating project).

Ottawa's new proposal supplants a previous suggestion that Ottawa would make a direct loan of the amount to the B.C. Power Commission which will do the work, and charge one-eighth of one per cent over and above the going interest rates.

In addition Ottawa has proposed than an over-riding body be set up to arrange this financing and also to supervise terms of the treaty with the United States.

When the details of the offer were made public by Premier Bennett he rejected it out of hand.

He claimed Ottawa was trying to grab control of the big B.C. hydro resource and that it was going to make money out of it in the process. He is still insisting that Ottawa should make an outright grant toward the scheme as it has done in similar projects in other provinces.

Sharp Conflict

In reply, Mr. Fulton said Mr. Bennett was misrepresenting an honest offer which is designed to ensure the cheapest and best possible deal for handling the project.

There appeared to be sharp conflict between the two interpretations of the proposal.

Mr. Bennett made it clear that he is not discussing financing with Mr. Fulton. He is dealing directly with Mr. Fleming on this aspect of the scheme.

BENNETT 'RUDE' SAYS FULTON

Justice Minister Fulton said at press time today any delay or failure in the Columbia River project will be the fault of British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton made a statement to B.C. ministers attending a policy committee meeting on the Columbia project this morning.

He said Premier Bennett's rejection of a federal financing offer is "discourteous and ill-considered" and he criticized the premier for "rudeness."

Mr. Fulton said also Ottawa feels it must have some form of control on the project to make sure that it is carried out within the terms of the treaty which Ottawa must make with the United States.

Late this afternoon Mr. Fulton was making an effort to have a meeting with Premier Bennett to thrash the matter out.

The conflicting views of the two governments were given at separate interviews Thursday.

Premier Bennett, at a press conference issued a statement saying the federal proposal was "unacceptable" to B.C. and implied if there was nothing better offered B.C. would go it alone on the Columbia project.

He said he will deal only with federal Finance Minister Fleming and that he will again ask for an outright grant.

His statement Thursday afternoon was accompanied by a copy of the letter from Mr. Fleming outlining the federal proposals.

Mr. Bennett's interpretation of this letter is that the federal government is offering to advance to B.C. half the cost of the self-liquidating projects in the overall scheme. That is some $172,000,000 towards the cost of dams on the Arrow and Duncan Lakes and at Mica Creek.

Ignored

He said the offer "ignores completely the integral factors of generation and transmission." (Which would cost some $110,000,000.)

"The federal proposal further ignores the already established principle under which an outright grant is so clearly justified," said Mr. Bennett.

In amplification, he said the federal government has given grants to Manitoba for a floodway, the South Saskatchewan Dam and to New Brunswick for a hydro project.

"I'm still hopeful they'll take a second look," he added. "This surely can't be the final say."

Mr. Bennett said the federal proposal would cost B.C. an extra $40,000,000 financing charge. He described this as one-eighth of one per cent over a 50-year period.

(However, there is no mention of any such figure in the Fleming letter and federal officials later told reporters that the extra charge is no part of the offer although it was mentioned in the first tentative offer months ago.)

Mr. Bennett said that Ottawa would charge B.C. interest on the $172,000,000, plus the $40,000,000 "brokerage fee," plus $70,000,000 in federal sales tax on goods and equipment for

Newcomer Beats Veteran For C. Saanich Reeveship

R. Gordon Lee, a Central Saanich councillor for the past two years, won election to the reeveship Thursday with a 450-366 victory over Ray M. Lamont.

The election attracted 53 per cent of the eligible voters.

Reeve-elect Lee is a comparative newcomer to the district, while Mr. Lamont is a long-time resident and member of every council since the municipality was formed in 1951.

Thomas G. Michell, with 658 votes, led the polls for election to a two-year term as councillor, followed by A. K. "Bert" Hemstreet with 484. Third member elected for a two-year term was Albert Vickers, with 447 votes.

Defeated candidate was Coun. Mrs. Gladys Ronson, who polled 429 votes.

Coun. Frank Grimshaw was re-elected for a one-year term on council, with 365 votes.

Defeated were Kelly Troup, with 253 votes, and Jack Southern, 176.

SCHOOL BOARD

'No Frills' Candidate Wins Easily

Lewis Harvey of Lands End Road, who campaigned against school frills, was named to Saanich District 63 School Board Thursday in the only election in the North Saanich area.

He defeated board chairman J. D. Helps, who stood strongly behind the $784,000 school bylaw defeated in October. It was the third building bylaw in a year to be defeated in this area.

Mr. Harvey was elected by voters of the unorganized portion of the school district, who cast ballots for the first time. Previously representatives were named from individual school areas, and these selected a trustee from among themselves.

'BROKEN FAITH'

The winner said the present board had "broken faith" with ratepayers in not removing nonessentials from the recent bylaw before presenting it for the third time. He said he is in favor of more classrooms for the area, but simpler schools.

Elected to the board by acclamation were Reginald Sinkinson for Saanich, and Cuthbert Brown, Central Saanich.

NO ELECTION

There was no contest in Sidney this year. Commissioner J. H. Laroque and J. E. Bosher were elected by acclamation to the two vacant seats on the commission. The nomination marked the return of Mr. Bosher to public life after a year away from the commission.

TURKEY SHOOT AT FAIRBRIDGE

DUNCAN—Cowichan Fish and Game Club will hold a pre-Christmas turkey shoot at the Fairbridge gravel pit on Sunday at 10 a.m.

It is the first shoot ever staged by the club and its success will determine whether or not others will follow.

The gravel pit is located at Cowichan Station opposite Mountain Road. Shooters are asked to follow the signs.

Youths Survive As Car Rolls To Destruction

(From Duncan Bureau)

Two Duncan teen-agers escaped serious injury Wednesday night when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the Trans-Canada Highway near Koksilah bridge and rolled over several times.

The car, driven north by William Nicholas Klinick, 16, of Old Hillcrest Road, ended up in a ditch on the west side of the highway. The driver and a passenger, Bobby Whittaker, 16, were thrown clear.

Klinick suffered a bad head cut but his companion had only scrapes and bruises.

Roof of the car, a 1959 model owned by Klinick's father, was pushed down to hood level and was considered a total loss.

French Tanks Oppose Rioters

See Page 35

ALGIERS (AP) — Army tanks, backed by troops and riot police, cushed barricades thrown up here today by angry crowds protesting President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area to whip up backing for his home-rule plan for Algeria.

Two army tanks rolled over the wooden barricades across the Rue Michelet in downtown Algiers shortly after they were thrown up by the rioters.

The tanks turned and recrossed the shattered barricades and the crowds tried to surge forward and mount them, but were turned back by about 50 infantrymen surrounding the tanks.

Surrounding the area were steel-helmeted riot troops who then moved in with tear gas grenades to drive the rioters up side streets.

Broadwinners in India, like their counterparts here in Victoria, strive to support their families, but there is a vast difference.

The difference is in pay, food, conditions of work, health in just about everything that goes to make up an existence.

The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, recipient of the Times "Children of India" Fund, provides one way in which Victorians can help to make the difference between us and them a little smaller.

It is the USC which gives much-needed help to Mrs. Sangi Jospeh, 40, a widow and mother of five children. She works as a road coolie outside Kodaikanal and earns the equivalent of $1.10 per week for eight hours of work each day.

Rather she earns that if she is lucky. Her health is bad, and there are days when she cannot carry heavy stones from truck to fill. She misses the strong hand of her dead husband in keeping her twins under control, and misses her eldest son of 15 who one day simply disappeared—most likely to relieve her of the burden of caring for him.

USC provides her with rice, Canadian milk powder, biscuits, some clothing, and medical care to the limit of its ability. But she needs so much, and there are so many like her.

Contributions to the Times fund help this work. They can be made either by cheque or cash at 2631 Douglas Street, and receipts are given for income tax purposes.

DUNCAN THRILLER

Recount Likely In One-Vote Win

(From Duncan Bureau)

A one-vote victory by a veteran Duncan alderman highlighted the civic election in the Up-Island city Thursday, and a recount appears almost certain.

Ald. J. H. Saunders topped the polls with 365 votes, but in the contest for second place Ald. R. K. Cairns finished with 27 votes to 270 cast for James Patterson, a contractor and newcomer in civic politics.

Mr. Patterson has five days in which to apply for a recount, and said today it is "quite likely" he will make application Monday.

"I am almost obliged to do so on behalf of the many people who supported me," he said.

STAPLES TOPS

Coun. Tony Staples, of Maple Bay, headed the polls in the North Cowichan election with 896 votes, and Coun. Gerry Smith, of Chemainus, with hometown voters tipping the scales in his favor, won re-election with 761 votes.

David Barr, of Jaynes Road, in the south end of the district, trailed with 506 votes.

The Chemainus ratepayers assured Coun. Smith of re-election when they gave him 512 or 553 votes.

Jan. 21 Deadline

DUNCAN—Closing date for entries in the Cowichan Music Festival, to be held next March 4 to 11, is Jan. 21.

Sponsors of the event are the Cowichan PTA Council and PTA groups in School Districts 65, 66 and 67.

THE COMPACT CAR

WITH THE
"BIG CAR FEEL"

IT'S BIGGER WHERE IT COUNTS...

BIG CAR POWER—Choose either of two great engines... the new, more powerful O.H.V. 6 or the economy winner V-8. Both these fine engines are loaded with power.

CONVERTIBLE 6 OR V-8

BIG CAR COMFORT—Enjoy limousine luxury that the so-called "standard" cars can't offer. You get really generous legroom, hatroom and hiproom, plus chair-high seating. It's a revelation!

4-DOOR WAGON 6 OR V-8

BIG CAR SAFETY—Relax with new, fade-free, bonded brakes; wide, all-round vision; solid construction and finger-tip steering... you're in command of the road.

2-DOOR WAGON 6

BIG CAR "FEEL"—You be the judge. Test-drive the '61 Lark before you decide on ANY car. You, too, will likely exclaim: "I wouldn't have believed it!"

4-DOOR SEDAN 6 OR V-8

IT'S COMPACT WHERE IT'S SENSIBLE

COMPACT FOR ECONOMY—You'll like the Lark's saving ways—even if you can afford a car with useless overhang and the extra gas to drive it around.

2-DOOR SEDAN 6

COMPACT FOR DRIVING EASE—You'll find the '61 Lark easier to park and manoeuvre—as you'd expect—but its masterful "Big Car Feel" will really amaze you. You have to Drive it to Believe it!
